

Coming Week Offers Many Attractions In Athletics

All Winter Sports Team Will See Action Next Week; Trackmen Working Hard.

INTRAMURAL GAMES

Boxers And Wrestlers Begin Season Saturday Night; Two Court Games Here.

All winter sport teams will get into action this week.

The basketballs will continue their state and southern campaign with games against Guilford and Washington and Lee.

The boxers and wrestlers will both get their first taste of competition, the mitmen opening with Washington and Lee at Lexington and the matmen taking on Duke as their first opponent in the Tin Can.

Two of the meets are scheduled for the Tin Can here. The Washington and Lee quint will invade the Tin Can Thursday night with what is reported to be their strongest team in years, in an attempt to reverse scores of other years. Saturday night will find the Tar Heel wrestlers hosts to Duke's matmen; while the boxers will journey to Lexington to take on the W. and L. mitmen.

The basketball game with Guilford will be played there on Tuesday night, while the boxing meet with Washington and Lee will come on Saturday night at the Generals' stronghold.

All events except the game with Guilford will count in the Southern Conference standings.

The Tar Baby cagers will also see their first action, in a game scheduled with Leaksville "Y" at Leaksville for Tuesday night.

The winter schedule for intramural athletics will also begin this week with the opening of the basketball league. To date 41 teams have entered the league and 12 of these will see action Monday afternoon.

In addition to these attractions the track team is busy preparing for the Milrose meet to be held in New York on February 8. With the return of Coach Collins today it is expected that the winter football practice will formally begin next Monday or Tuesday week.

Tar Heelettes

The Tar Heelettes, led by Ida Currie, dropped a hard-fought game to the local high school girls by 26-25 Thursday. This was the season opener for the co-eds, and considering their scant practice, they made a good showing. Prominent among the individual stars were Clyde Johnson and Louise Thacker, forwards, and Kitty Wells, guard.

The Tar Heelettes make their next start away from home when they take on the Greensboro high sextet Tuesday.

Recorder Hears 260 Cases In Six Months

(Continued from first page) cases tried are convicted, since fully 80 per cent plead guilty upon being brought to trial. Sessions of the court are regularly held at 10 o'clock Monday mornings and are often attended by students when cases of unusual interest have been docketed.

The local court was established in June by an act of the state legislature. Inasmuch as 60 per cent of the cases handled by the present Recorders' Court could not be handled in the past by the local magistrates, it was necessary for the principals often to spend a week in Hillsboro at great expense. Cost of maintaining prisoners in jail was high, whereas with the present system, persons guilty of misdemeanors are tried, sentenced and working on the roads within a week. Felonies, after a hearing showing sufficient cause, are bound over to the superior court at Hillsboro.

C. P. Hinshaw is the presiding judge, B. D. Sawyer is prosecuting attorney and J. A. Osbourne, clerk.

Athletes Stay Busy

For Tar Heel athletes, there is almost no such thing as an off-season. The basketball, boxing and wrestling teams are steaming away full tilt on hard schedules each. The basketball, track, fencing, tennis and golf teams are all getting in early work. And Chuck Collins, head football coach is due back the first of next week to get the winter football work going.

NOVICE FENCING TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Competition Open To All Students Without Previous Experience With Foils.

A novice fencing tournament open to all regular students in the University who have had no previous competitive experience, or who have never taken lessons in fencing, will be held in the Tin Can Friday afternoon, January 17, at 4:30. Varsity fencers and members of the squad will not be allowed to compete. The winner will receive a set of French foils.

The contest is being run under the direction of H. H. Hendlin, to whom notice of entry in the tournament should be given any evening between 9 and 11 at 313 Old East, up to midnight January 16. Every entrant has an even chance, since the tournament is expressly designed for men who have had no previous experience and have never fenced before.

The novice meet is being held to arouse interest in fencing as a sport. Fencing was established at the University last year. South Carolina, holders of the Southern Intercollegiate Conference title, was the first team challenged, and was defeated 7-2 by the University team. North Carolina at present holds the title formerly held by the Fighting Gamecocks.

H. H. Hendlin, director of the novice tournament, holds the national Clemens gold trophy, won in open competition against all fencers except those who participated in international competition. Hendlin will be one of the instructors when regular practice for the team and squad gets under way in two weeks. Alfredo Nazareno, Herbert Estep, Fred Wardlaw and Digby Wardlaw, all of whom were members of last year's team, will be in competition this year. At the outset of the second year the prospects are bright for the Carolina swordsmen.

Playmakers Unmask Drama During Their Yearly Bacchanalia

(Continued from first page) tailed report of the entertainment by Jack Wardlaw and Mr. Whittaker, who performed unheard-of feats—rather fingers—upon their banjos. Nor can the "Play Upon S-Words" be described, except that one excited member of the audience chewed his father's necktie while watching the dashing sword-play of the brothers Wardlaw and Mr. Nazareno.

At this time, the play was "stopped" by Mr. George McKie, who, with a cane and swagger air, echoed and re-echoed the airs of the nineties. And the house echoed and re-echoed with applause.

Then came two skits, "The Playmakers on the Air" and "Alice Among the Playmakers" or "In the Footsteps of the Folk." The first presented a faithful rendition of what takes place when the Playmakers become air-minded and the second—the title fully describes it.

Thus the program of the stage ended and the third portion of the evening commenced. Dancing to the tunes of Willie Stroud's Negro orchestra, and bolstered by cakes and ale, to the tune of six gallons, the audience proceeded to take active part in the fourth, and said to be best, celebration of the Twelfth Night Revel.

TAR HEELS SCORE 88-25 WIN OVER GREENSBORO Y

Carolina Courtmen Have Little Trouble Amassing Huge Score In First Game After Holidays.

Led by Dave Neiman with 23 points, the Tar Heels entered a scoring orgy to defeat the Greensboro Y quint Friday night 88-25. Carolina started off with a whirlwind attack, and by the end of the first half had stepped out in front of Uncle Bob Doak's association outfit with a lead of 46 to 7.

After running up a substantial lead early in the game the Tar Heels reversed their usual fast passing and pivoting attack and centered their attention on shooting. Short, accurate shots, backed by clever guarding, kept the Carolina five well out of danger of being overtaken.

Individual stardom in the game is hard to pick out, since practically the entire Carolina squad saw action and most of them were successful in ringing up several tallies. Neiman, Hutchinson, Alexander, Brown, and others were able to make connection with the basket with fair regularity.

This was the second time the Tar Heels have defeated the Greensboro Y this season, having administered a decisive defeat before the holidays.

The lineups:
Y. M. C. A. (25) Carolina (88)
Houck (11) Cleland (6)
R. F.
Turner (2) Neiman (23)
L. F.
Moore (4) Dameron
C.
Harrison (3) Brown (9)
R. G.
Routh Marpet (5)
L. G.

Substitutions: "Y"—Johnson (1), Fish (2), Moffet (2); U. N. C.—Choate (6), Alexander (10), Edwards (6), Sher (8), Hutchinson (15).

Referee, Belding; timer, Wagner; scorer, Foster; umpire, Clary.

Individual Stars Will Accompany Relay Team To Big New York Indoor Meet.

RECOGNITION FOR FETZER

Fine Record of The Tar Heels In State and South Gains Unusual Honor.

The University track team has been signally honored with an invitation to send its mile relay team and perhaps several individual entrants to the twenty-third annual Milrose games at Madison Square Garden, New York, February 8.

The invitation came from Manager John G. Anderson and was acknowledged for the University by R. A. Fetzer, director of athletics and head track coach. The University athletic council, Coach Fetzer stated, expressed much appreciation of the honor and had passed favorable upon the invitation.

The mile relay team definitely will be sent, according to Coach Fetzer. Entries may be placed in a few of the other events also, but this must be conditioned on the way the trackmen round into shape during the short four weeks before the annual classic.

Captain Dave Nims and Dick Garrett, letter quarter-milers; Ken Gay, letter sprinter; Minor Barkley, letter miler and cross-country captain last fall, and Charlie Farmer, Rip Slusser, Wallace Case and Lionel Weil, from last year's championship freshman relay team, will probably be outstanding contenders to carry Tar Heel colors in the select event.

The Milrose games annually prove one of the biggest events of the indoor track season. Outstanding trackmen are invited from representative institutions in the different sections, so that the games are national in character.

To be picked, for a record of eight state titles and one Southern Conference title in eight years, and for a long list of fine performers, as representative of the Southern Conference, is regarded as a high tribute to North Carolina track teams and to Coach Fetzer.

Galen Elliott, the Tar Heels' former Southern Conference record miler, was honored with invitations to a number of such events and performed creditably in those in which he could run. He ran second to Hahn in the Meadowbrook games in 1928, and was third in the famous mile of the New York Athletic Club games of the same year. The University relay team of Elliott, Pritchett, Barkley and Fisher also carried off the four-mile honors in the Penn Relays in 1928.
