Philanthropic And Dialectic Societies To Sponsor Debate On Question Of Third Party

Secretary of League for Independent Political Action to Meet Prof. Woodhouse.

TO BE HELD IN FEBRUARY

H. Y. Williams to Expound Needs of Additional Party in United States; Lang and McPherson to Preside Over Debate.

H. Y. Williams, executive secretary of the League for Independent Political Action, will debate E. J. Woodhouse, professor of government in the University, on the night of February 5 on the need of a third political party in the United States. Williams will take the affirmative side of the question. The debate will be held under the joint auspices of the Phi and Di societies. John Lang, speaker of the Phi, and Garland McPherson, president of the Di, will preside.

Mr. Williams was born in San Francisco, attended school at the University of Minnesota and the Union Theological Seminary. He took graduate courses at the University of Iowa and Columbia University. While in college he worked intermittently as a miner in order to defray his expenses.

Finishing his work at the Seminary at the outbreak of the World War, he enlisted as a chaplain and served two years in France, first with the Tenth Engineers and then as a senior chaplain with thirty chaplains and 50,000 soldiers under his care. He was decorated by the French government and cited by General Pershing.

AUTHORS' READING FRIDAY EVENING

Eight Plays Will Be Read In Playmakers' Theatre; To Select Three.

The Carolina Playmakers will entertain with an author's reading of new plays Friday night at 7:30 in their theatre building. Five plays will be read and from these three will be selected for the next Playmaker production in March.

Try-outs for parts in the plays will be staged Monday at 4:30 and 7:30 at the theatre. The directors wish it definitely understood that all students intending to try out for a part in the productions must attend the reading Friday night. This request has been made due to the fact that there will not be sufficient time to provide manuscripts of the plays by means of which the students might familiarize themselves with the role.

The plays read Friday will be selected from the following list: "Hollyhocks," a New England folk play by Joe Fox.

"The Same Old Girl," an Alabama society comedy by Fred Greer.

"The Maverick," a Dakota folk play by Irene Fussler.

"Death Valley Scotty," an Arizona folk play by Milton Wood.

"Student Third Cabin," a modern comedy by Robert Dawes.

"The Pack," a modern comedy by Nora Del Smith Gumble.

"The House of Grief," a fantasy by Margaret Howe.

"Bolsheviks," a college play by Hoke Webb.

Villard To Speak

Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, will speak to all classes in history and economics meeting at 9:30 this morning in 103 Bingham hall. Mr. Villard is spending the day in Chapel Hill as the guest of Dr. Chase.

Lights In Library Found To Be Correct

According to a recent survey of lighting conditions in the University library made by Mr. J. S. Bennett, superintendent of the Consolidated Service Plants, the illumination in the library is thoroughly adequate.

The survey was made at the request of library officials to insure proper lighting conditions for readers. It was found that at every seat used for steady reading adequate light was furnished.

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. Coney, assistant librarian, "we found in a few places that a good deal too much light was being furnished. Steps will be taken to reduce the illumination at these points to normal to prevent eye strain on the part of users of reading rooms."

G. W. HILL IS RE-ELECTED GEN. ALUMNI TREASURER

George Watts Hill of Durham, member of the graduating class of 1922, has recently been re-elected general treasurer of the alumni association. The election by the board of directors of the alumni association was transacted by balloting through the mail.

The re-elected treasurer has held his position since 1925, also being chairman of the finance committee of the association. As an alumnus he has retained the place of prominence and esteem on the campus which he held once as a student, winning wide recognition as one of the most active workers for the University among the graduates.

Open Politics

With the talk of politics already in the air, and ambitious politicians industriously working on "frame-ups" and "machines," the Tar Heel is today presenting on its editorial page a plan for an open campaign in which the students will know what the various candidates stand for, what the constituency of each "machine" is, the latest gossip, and in general "what it is all about."

The Tar Heel plans to follow the developments in the campaign through its news columns and its editorials. A column of political gossip is being proposed; it will run at regular intervals until after the election in the spring. In it a number of political leaders will write their observations under the direction of the editor.

Through these mediums the Tar Heel hopes to stir up more interest in the campaign among the students, to help develop at least two strong "line-ups," and to keep the voters informed as to what is going on in political circles.

GERMAN CLUB TO ENTERTAIN WITH FEBRUARY DANCE

Art Sickles and Barron Grier to Lead Sets.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the German club Monday night, it was decided to have the annual mid-winter dances February 21 and 22. Bynum gymnasium was selected as the place for the dances.

At a regular meeting of the members of the club last November, Steve Millender was elected to lead at these dances. He will be assisted by Art Sickles and Barron Grier.

Plans for the dances are not complete as yet. Several well known orchestras are being considered, but no contracts have been signed. The manner of decorating the gym is also undecided.

The German club has only a limited number of memberships still open, and all applicants are urged to turn in their names immediately. Will Yarborough announces that tickets will be distributed for members early next month.

The officers of the German club are as follows: George Race, president; Julian Palmore, vice-president; Will Yarborough, secretary-treasurer, and Charles Waddell, chairman of the executive committee. The other members of this committee in addition to the officers already mentioned are: George Sanders, Travis Brown, Gordon Gray, William Dunn and Mayne Albright.

UNIVERSITY OFFERS COAST- COAST TOUR

During the coming summer eight weeks' transcontinental study tour will be conducted under the educational direction of the extension division; it was announced yesterday by R. M. Grumman, director. The tour will provide unusual opportunity for students and teachers to combine travel and college study under University auspices.

The party, which is to be divided in two sections, will travel in specially constructed motor cars, the first section leaving Chapel Hill on June 7, the second section on June 8. Traveling not more than 150 miles a day, with stops for class instruction, sightseeing, rest and recreation, the party will reach the Pacific coast the latter part of June, returning via the Yellowstone. Points of interest in the itinerary include: Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico; Juarez, Mexico; the Grand Canyon; the Yosemite, the Yellowstone, Mammoth Hot Springs, and Zion National Park, with stops at the more important of the cities en route.

Under the supervision of the faculty committee on travel courses in America, courses granting college credit have been worked out suited to the needs of students interested. Courses offered in the first section will be confined to the natural sciences, i. e., geology, botany, and general science. Social science courses only will be offered in the second section, including sociology, economics and geography. Classes will meet daily, for three hours each morning before the motorcade begins travel. Field work and observation trips will be conducted as opportunities are afforded.

SEN. SIMMONS CONDEMNED BY PHI ASSEMBLY

Representatives Show Disapproval of Veteran Democrat By Margin of One Vote; Compared to Arnold and Judas.

A resolution to the effect that the executive committee of the Democratic party would be justified in reading Senator Simmons out of the Democratic party was passed by the Philanthropic Assembly at its regular weekly meeting Tuesday night. The discussion, in which Senator Simmons was called the Benedict Arnold and Judas Iscariot of his party, was very heated.

The resolution passed by a majority of one vote. A recount was necessary in order to determine the decision of the Assembly. Representatives Carr, Speight, Yarborough, and Whittington spoke in favor of the resolution. The discussion against the resolution was led by Representatives Wilkerson, Baldwin, Ferguson, Montgomery, and Haywood.

Speaker Lang announced that the members of the Assembly would be seated according to the counties which they represented. The reading clerk directed the seating of the representatives. W. T. Crutchfield, D. C. McDuffie, and Harper Barnes were presented for membership and given the right to vote in the meetings. Representative Yarborough received the appointment of reporter-general.

The matter of requesting the Dialectic Senate to cooperate with the Assembly in jointly considering bills was put before the Assembly. The motion was passed and sent to the Dialectic Senate for action. A bill to name the date and subject of a joint session of the Phi and Di societies was tabled. Representative Montgomery was appointed floor manager to look after the seating arrangements. Representative Camden was asked by Speaker Lang to take charge of the valuables of the Assembly and to see that the hall was kept in order.

Speaker Lang announced to the Assembly that H. J. Williams, a nationally known lecturer, desired to appear before the student body and present the possibilities of a third party, and that the Assembly had been asked to become co-sponsor of the project with the Dialectic Senate. A motion that the Assembly assume half the obligations of such a speech was passed. Speaker Lang stated that the lecturer would debate Professor Woodhouse on the question of a third party on the night of February 5.

The speaker announced that the group picture of the Assembly would be taken at chapel period on Friday.

Garden Club Hears Talk by W. L. Hunt

Tuesday morning W. L. Hunt, local horticulturist, spoke before the Garden Club of Durham at Duke University on the general subject of "Rock Gardens in the South."

In the course of his talk Mr. Hunt told of the planning and maintenance of rock gardens and enumerated many domestic wild plants that can be grown in rock gardens. He mentioned many of the rare and foreign plants that are sometimes found in gardens of this type.

Institute Opens With Lawrence As Speaker

David Lawrence

The opening session of the sixth annual Newspaper Institute was held last night with David Lawrence delivering the feature address. Mr. Lawrence is one of the country's best known journalists. He is editor of the Consolidated Press Association and publisher of the United States Daily.

Saville Resigns

Professor Thorndike Saville of the school of engineering has resigned as chief engineer of the Division of Water Resources and Engineering of the State Department of Conservation and Development. In announcing his resignation, Mr. Saville said that restrictions of the budget bureau had made it impossible for his work to continue efficient operation.

Mr. Saville is regarded as one of the eminent authorities of the country in his field. Several years ago, at his suggestion, the division which he heads was established and he has been its director since that time.

Fred Sutton, member of the board from Kinston, introduced a resolution which was passed to increase by 50 per cent the salary of the chief engineer. He offered to pay the difference from his own pockets if departmental funds were not available. Director Harrelson spoke in high terms of the work of Mr. Saville and said that the salary was not a consideration in the resignation. The board has asked Mr. Saville to reconsider his resignation.

First Meeting of Newsmen Held Last Night in Gerrard Hall.

WILL MEET THIS MORNING

Winder Harris To Conduct Discussion at Carolina Inn Ballroom; Advertising to Feature Afternoon Meeting.

America has passed through such great economic changes in the last ten years that the country has lost its perspective and must now find a new one, David Lawrence, noted newspaper correspondent and publisher, declared here last night in an address at the opening session of the sixth annual newspaper institute being held under the joint auspices of the North Carolina Press Association and the University.

Taking for his subject "The Trend of the Times," Lawrence reviewed the events of the last ten years leading to the present economic and political situation and made a few prophecies about the next decade to come.

"The economic emphasis is being felt in our life now as never before, particularly in our political life," asserted the speaker.

The last ten years since the war has witnessed a surplus of production, Mr. Lawrence said. Manufacturers have produced with little thought of the problems of distribution. Hence the next ten years must witness the process of distribution.

Mr. Lawrence, who is president of the Consolidated Press Association and publisher of the United States Daily, spoke in Gerrard hall and was heard by an audience of some five hundred.

CHASE DESCRIBES METHOD OF STUDY

University President Tells Freshmen to Keep up in Work; Warns Against Distractions.

President Chase, in a chapel exercise address to the freshmen yesterday, described the difficulties that one experiences in studying. He grouped his remarks under four subjects: the proper timing of one's activities; proper study conditions; regular study; and seeking advice on difficulties.

Discussing the first point, Dr. Chase said there are always many distractions to draw one's attention from study. The proverbial good time, when one will have nothing else to do, never arrives. In view of this, he pointed out, it becomes necessary for the student to learn to divide his time in a way that will leave a sufficient part for study. According to the speaker, seemingly big difficulties are often merely matters of too much recreation and too little study.

As a splendid place to study when conditions in the dormitories and elsewhere are poor, Dr. Chase recommended the reading room in the library where an order of quietness is maintained at all times.

The University president put forward as the best method of study day by day work. He reminded the freshmen that it is the regular habit and not sudden spurts that counts. "Don't let an army of ignorance get behind you," he said.
