

Council's Policy Insures Stabilized Athletics Here

Dr. Foy Roberson, Alumni Representative on Athletic Council, Writes in Alumni Review of System Employed in Selecting University Coaches.

"The present policy of the University Athletic Council," writes Dr. Foy Roberson in the current issue of the Alumni Review in commenting on the organization of the University's coaching staff, "is to hold this organization intact, believing that through the same type of progressive hard work and study of the game our football will improve in the future as it has in the past." The writer is alumni representative on the Athletic Council and during his stay in the University played quarterback on the football team. The article is entitled, "Stabilizing Coaching in University Athletics."

In commenting upon the policy adopted by the Council, Dr. Roberson says, "For years the University of North Carolina operated her teams with no definite coaching policy. Football and baseball were the first sports adopted at Carolina and Hector Cowan, a Princeton man, was the first paid coach in football. The baseball teams were coached by the team captains for a long time. As other sports were introduced, such as track, basketball, boxing, wrestling, cross-country, tennis and golf, they either functioned without coaching or were coached by the person who happened to be interested in introducing the particular sport. While we feel that our coaching system is a pretty closely knit organization at the present time, it has not always been so."

Various types of play were used from 1895 to 1920 when the Fetzer brothers came to Carolina, with Yale, Princeton and Harvard style predominating, with occasionally Dartmouth, Pennsylvania or other styles sandwiched in, states Dr. Roberson. However, with the Fetzers the first definite organized policy of coaching was introduced.

With Bill Fetzer's resignation in 1926 the Athletic Council was faced with the same old problem, he continues. "It was then that the council decided to adopt the system of coaching developed at the University of Notre Dame and carried out so successfully by Coach K. K. Rockne." The reasons of the council for this decision was that "Notre Dame alumni seemed to enter the coaching profession much more often than alumni of the other institutions mentioned above." Thus it was that the council secured Collins, Cerney and Enright for coaches.

In knitting the coaching staff the policy of having a head coach for every sport with the freshman coach under his supervision was adopted. "Under this plan the council does not hope to produce all championship teams, but believes that we shall win our share of victories and get the best out of the material available," he says.

In conclusion the Durham doctor writes: "It is the policy of the council to retain coaches so long as their services are satisfactory and they desire to remain. But under this plan the structure does not hinge on any one person and the loss of any particular person would not cause a collapse of the organization."

Tar Heel Cagers To Resume Practice For Wake Forest Contest

With their next game scheduled for Saturday night, January 25, a rejuvenated Tar Heel team will resume practice Monday afternoon. Because of the remarkably strong offensive and defensive play presented against the Washington and Lee Generals here last Thursday night, the Tar Heel cagers will resume practice with their self-confidence bolstered to a greater degree than heretofore.

Though Carolina was on the tail end of a 19-7 score at the end of the first half, a different team headed by three stalwarts of defense, Marpet, Choate and Dameron, re-entered the fray in the second half and, putting up their best exhibition of the year, held the Generals' scoring machine to a bare eight points, while they themselves scored 10.

Cleland, a clever little floor man, showed up remarkably well in this game, as did the substitute forwards Hutchinson, Slater, and Neiman in the short time each was in the game. Johnny Greene, outstanding frosh basketballer last year, will begin practice with the team next week, and in him Ashmore may find an answer to his prayer for a dependable, consistent forward. Billy Brown, veteran guard, who was called home by the death of his father, is also expected to return the latter part of the week.

Next Saturday night's game in Raleigh between Carolina and Wake Forest will find two teams fighting to retrieve previous losses. The Deacons boast a strong team this year, including Quillen and Mills, football stars.

FENCING PRIZE GOES TO LOWRY

Pair of French Foils Awarded to Student Amateur Fencing Champion.

(By W. W. Taylor)

Walter G. Lowry, a senior from Pineville, N. C., is today the possessor of a fine pair of French foils as a result of his winning the amateur fencing tourney held yesterday afternoon in the Tin Can. This tourney was open to all men who had not had previous training in this sport, and was in every way a success. There was present a large crowd of enthusiastic spectators who watched with intense interest every move of the contestants and applauded every display of ability and sportsmanship.

Lowry defeated Paul H. Rhodes, a junior from Albemarle, in the final round by the score of five touches to four. The contestants were very evenly matched and the outcome of the bout was in doubt until the final touch. Due to the fine showing made by Rhodes, he will also have a pair of foils to hang in his room.

At a conference between Coach Hendlin and Bo Shephard held prior to the tourney, it was virtually decided that the fate of fencing at Carolina would depend upon the number of applicants and the interest shown in the tournament. According to these standards, fencing will be a major sport at the University. Approximately 50 students entered this tournament, the first one of its kind to be held in the south, and about a hundred spectators were on hand to see them contend for the foils as well as the honor of being the amateur fencing champion of the University.

The tourney was sponsored and directed by H. H. Hendlin, who coached each contestant prior to the meet. Members of the varsity fencing club were on hand and assisted Coach Hendlin in managing and judging the matches. Faculty sponsors of fencing, among whom were B. W. Linker and Professor Williams, were also present.

According to Coach Hendlin, due to the great success of the event, plans are expected to be put into effect immediately towards the establishment of fencing as an intramural sport. Coach Hendlin also stated that he hoped to form in the near future the first woman's fencing club ever to be organized in the south. This would in a large measure help to make up for the lack of sports open to the co-eds in this institution, according to Coach Hendlin, and would bring Carolina nearer to the athletic standards set by northern colleges.

BOXERS TO OPEN SEASON TONIGHT WITH GENERALS

Tar Heels Launching Drive for Third Consecutive Southern Conference Title.

The University varsity and freshman boxers left last night for Lexington, Va., where tonight they will open their season against the Washington and Lee mit teams.

The varsity will be launching its drive for a third consecutive Southern Conference, with veterans back for six of seven weights.

The varsity will probably line up as follows: Evan Vaughan, 115 pounds; Harry Sheffield, 125 pounds; Noah Goodridge, 135 pounds; Captain Archie Allen, 145 pounds; John Warren, 175 pounds, and Bill Koenig, heavyweight.

Several men who have been showing unusually well might displace one of the veterans. In this class are S. L. Clark, 125 pounds; Jack Farris, 135 pounds, and Frank Smathers, 160 pounds.

The probable lineup for the freshmen, who are without a bantamweight this year, is Martin Levinson, 125 pounds; Albert Gaylord, 135 pounds; C. C. Jackson, 145 pounds; W. B. Patterson, 160 pounds; P. W. Landis, 175 pounds, and N. M. Wilson, heavy.

Captain Allen, Koenig and Sheffield have been showing unusually well for the varsity and are being looked to to set the pace against the strong Generals. Davis, and Vaughan didn't get out for the fall work, but should hit their stride soon.

He remonstrated without perceptible result. One morning a student—not a co-ed—drew forth a shaving outfit, lathered his face, and, peering into a small mirror, leisurely shaved. Said the professor: "You need attend no more classes nor take any more examinations in this class if you choose not to do so . . . your grade will be 'A'."

Frontiers of telephony—old and new

Yesterday the natural course of telephone expansion was to penetrate the nation's frontiers, building new lines and adding new subscribers.

Today finds many new "frontiers" for telephone expansion—among them the homes of present subscribers. Upstairs and downstairs, wherever needed, additional telephones are being installed. People are learning that there is added utility in convenient communication.

This new field of activity was conceived by commercial development men of the Bell System. Just another example of forward planning to make telephone service more valuable.
