

Tar Heels To Face Stiff Grid Schedule Next Year

To Play Ten Games, Eight With Conference Teams; Five Games Carded For Kenan Field.

MEET TENNESSEE

The University of North Carolina announced yesterday an ambitious 1930 football schedule that shows ten games, eight with Southern Conference opponents, and three on consecutive weekends with such Southern leaders as Georgia, Tennessee, and Georgia Tech.

The completed schedule had been held up for several weeks while dates were juggled, and was released yesterday by Charles T. Woolen, Graduate Manager of Athletics.

The Tar Heels, who blazed away for 346 points and nine victories in 10 games last fall, will face the same foes except that Tennessee will replace South Carolina.

There will be the usual five games at home and five away. The Tar Heels will appear in Kenan Stadium against Wake Forest, Maryland, Georgia Tech, Davidson and Duke.

The Wake Forest game will open the season, according to custom, and the Thanksgiving battle with Virginia and the flanking Davidson and Duke games will occupy the same positions. The other games have been shifted slightly as to time.

The V. P. I. game will come in Maryland's old second place, with Maryland moved down to third, where Georgia Tech was last year. Georgia will be met fourth again. Tennessee will be slipped into V. P. I.'s old fifth place. Georgia Tech will be sixth, where N. C. State was, and State will be met seventh in South Carolina's old place. Davidson, Virginia and Duke will round out the card in usual order.

The complete schedule follows: Sept. 27—Wake Forest at Chapel Hill.

Oct. 4—V. P. I. at Blacksburg.

Oct. 11—Maryland at Chapel Hill.

Oct. 18—Georgia at Athens.

Oct. 25—Tennessee at Knoxville.

Nov. 1—Georgia Tech at Chapel Hill.

Nov. 8—N. C. State at Raleigh.

Nov. 15—Davidson at Chapel Hill.

Nov. 27—Virginia at Charlottesville.

Dec. 6—Duke at Chapel Hill.

by a combination of spinners only, unless it approaches the monopoly point which would be clearly undesirable. Likewise nothing could be gained through a similar combination of weavers, if it continued to buy its yarns in a competitive market and dispose of its products as grey goods. Combination, to produce stability and efficiency, must embrace all the functions which extend from the purchase of the raw cotton to the final disposal of the finished products to large retailers, garment manufacturers, and industrial consumers.

To accomplish this end, the formation of holding companies alone is not sufficient. A sensitive and perfectly balanced relationship between all the operations must be established. "It requires a complicated, mechanized, mass-producing organization which can supply an ever-changing product to an ever-whimsical consumer with all the delicacy and precision of the handicraftsman—in short, a complete union of the arts and sciences."

CLASS A CAGE SERIES BEGINS

Three Teams In Each Section Retain Clean Slates; Durham Leads.

The first week of play in the class A high school basketball championship series has been concluded with Durham, Wilmington and Raleigh leading in the eastern league, and Asheville, Charlotte, and Greensboro heading the list of winners in the West.

Sponsored by the High School Athletic Association of North Carolina, the class A conference is made up of the 14 largest high schools in the state, with seven schools in each section. The class A conference standings are determined on a percentage basis, the winner in each district meeting here in a final contest for the state championship.

The general conference, composed of the smaller schools, will be organized at an early date, according to Mr. E. R. Rankin, of the Extension Division. An elimination series will be arranged to determine the winners in this group.

Results of the games for the past week in the eastern conference are as follows: Jan. 9, Durham 35, Rocky Mount 12; Jan. 10, Wilmington 45, Wilson 12; Jan. 17, Raleigh 33, Wilson 17; Durham 29, Goldsboro 10; Rocky Mount 51, Fayetteville 20.

The standings of the teams in this group:

| Team | Won | Lost | Pct. |
|--------------|-----|------|-------|
| Durham | 2 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Raleigh | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Wilmington | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Rocky Mount | 1 | 1 | .500 |
| Goldsboro | 0 | 1 | .000 |
| Fayetteville | 0 | 1 | .000 |
| Wilson | 0 | 2 | .000 |

Results and averages in the western league are given below: Jan. 10, High Point 49,

Says Us by Browning Roach

These larger high schools don't seem to have any monopoly on this basketball business. Greensboro, boasting one of the biggest high schools in the state, evidently miscalculated the strength of its opponent when it took on Candor high last week. The Candor boys poked out their necks and administered a sound drubbing to the Gate City fellows. The Montgomery county lads manifestly failed to be impressed by the superior rating of the Greensboro outfit in state circles. Incidentally this Candor quint has won 13 games in a row this season. The small teams are giving the big ones plenty to do to look after their position as leaders on the court. The Chapel Hill five also has a perfect record with four wins and no defeats.

You men who have failed to see the Tar Heettes in action have been missing some real exhibitions of female athletics. The co-eds have had a little tough luck and have dropped the last three games. The contests with the Chapel Hill fraills and the Durham Independents were lost by a single point, so it can't be said that the superiority of scores of their opponents was anything to climb up on a rail and cackle about.

Give long dresses a little more time and Carolina men will be flocking over to Bynum gym to see what co-ed really looks like. It has been closed season in the Arboretum so long that some of us are getting a little hazy on the subject of feminine anatomy.

Some of these co-eds have been getting their eye on the ole iron doughnut and sinking them in with fair consistency. Wells, Thacker, Lee and Johnson and two or three of the Curry—and Currie—tribe have been displaying all kinds of form on the floor, thanks to Coach Carl Farris and the official uniforms. Varsity goal-tossers might gather a few points on the game by a look-in into the Co-ed basketball situation. No disparagement meant in connection with the success of your cohorts in ringing them up, Mr. Ashmore, but a few expert goal-tossers would not go amiss.

The Tar Heels have been showing some flashy spurts of guarding, dribbling, and occasional accuracy in long shots; but a speedy attack to break through the opposing man-to-man defense has been rather lacking. However, the defense lined up by some of Carolina's opponents this season has been practically air-tight, and to dash through it with any consistency would have taken something more nearly approaching conference predominance than the Tar Heels give promise of. While we do not hesitate to predict a successful season when it comes to the number of games won and lost, still it is somewhat against our conscientious belief to forecast a repetition of the records of '22, '24, '25 and '26. Carolina may turn out to be a dark horse yet, but so far the color of the animal is a rather dull gray.

| Team | Won | Lost | Pct. |
|------------|-----|------|-------|
| Greensboro | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |

S. P. E. LEADS FRATERNITIES IN BASKETBALL

Nineteen Teams Maintain Clean Slate; Aycock And Steele Lead Dorms.

(By Hank Anderson) Results of the first week's play in the Intramural Basketball league show that 19 out of 43 teams entered in the league have no defeats registered. Although most of the teams have played only one game, some have completed three scheduled meets. S. P. E. leads the Fraternity League by virtue of 3 wins and no defeats, but they are closely followed by Phi Sigma Kappa and Sigma Nu with 2 wins and no defeats to their credit. Ten other fraternities can boast of clean records. Aycock and Steele are the outstanding members of the Dormitory league with three and two wins and no defeats respectively.

The number of entries in the Basketball league is maintaining the interest shown in Intramural Activities which began with the Tag Football league last quarter. The Intramural department stated that the same number of points are given for the winning of a basketball and baseball league as in the tag football league. Fifty points are given to each entry, 50 to each league winner, and 50 for each campus title. Ten points are to be deducted for each game forfeited after the first game, thus giving those that have already forfeited one game a chance for their 50 points for entering the league as well as a chance for a league or campus title.

Tar Heettes Continue Streak

The co-ed scoring rally in the second half failed by one point to overcome the eight-point lead that the Durham Independents held at the half, and the Tar Heettes lost their third basketball game of the season Friday night in Bynum gymnasium, 37-36.

Playing their best game of the season before a crowd of one hundred people, mostly boys, the Tar Heettes fought gamely to the final whistle, but the early lead of the Durham aggregation was too much to overcome.

Atwater of the Independents repeatedly sank long shots from all sections of the floor to lead her team in scoring with 20 points. Newson, sensational Durham forward, counted for 13 points.

For the co-eds, Lee, playing a brilliant and fast game, seemed to have little difficulty in connecting with the basket and rang up 18 points to lead the Tar Heettes' scoring machine. Thacker played her usual scintillating game and counted for 12 markers.

The game was fast throughout, with both teams taking many chances in the last few minutes of play.

Football Squad To Begin Winter Practice Tomorrow

(By Billy Arthur)

Football in all its glory arrives in Chapel Hill tomorrow afternoon to resume its place as ruler over Kenan stadium. Coach Collins, Tar Heel mentor, arrived last Sunday and has spent the past week in preparation for the winter football proceedings which begin tomorrow. He issued orders to distribute material yesterday, and so far approximately a hundred or so men have received equipment. It was estimated that approximately 150 men will answer the call of the pigskin.

Monday will be spent in dividing the squad into teams. It is believed that there is sufficient power to form five or six teams instead of the usual four. Following the division of the squad, the boys will endure a light workout. The process of loosening up will consume the first part of the week, with the scheduled "round robin" games following twice a week thereafter. Captain-elect Strud Nash, Johnny Branch, Jimmy Magner, Rip Slusser, Wyrick, Fenner, Lipscomb, Hudson, and the remainder of the reserve strength of the Heettes are expected to show great form.

This winter football session will afford Coach Collins and his assistants, Coaches Enright, Cerney, Pritchard and Fetzer, opportunity to pick the right man to fill the shoes of those who will be lost to the team for the coming year.

Material for the ends is strong. Parsley, Brown, Tabb, Nelson, Reid, Morris and Johnson will help Julian Fenner take care of the ends. As for tackles, the frosh come to the aid with McDade and Sharkey, while Underwood will make some one do some tall scrapping to keep him out. Dortch, Thompson and Bill Collins, brother of Coach, constitute the remainder of the tackle material.

Almost all of the flock of guards that were on the frosh team will be on hand to help Fysol, McIver, Crew and Hudson handle the situation.

Ned Lipscomb and Gilbreath will be ably assisted by Tom Alexander plus nearly a half dozen from the freshman team.

These men will be the backbone of the teams that face each other on the sod down at Kenan field. Coach Collins is contemplating a more successful winter football season than has ever been on the Hill. Those expecting to take part in the session report for practice Monday.

Chapel Hill High Wins Over Wilson

Chapel Hill high defeated Alexander Wilson high school at Graham Friday evening 17 to 11. Council, of Chapel Hill, and Myrick of Alexander Wilson tied for scoring honors with 9 points each. This is the fourth consecutive victory for the Hill boys.
