

DEBATE ON THIRD PARTY QUESTION HERE FEBRUARY 4

Howard Y. Williams Will Support Third Party; Professor E. J. Woodhouse To Oppose Plan.

TO BE IN GERRARD HALL

Howard Y. Williams, executive secretary of the League for Independent Political Action, and E. J. Woodhouse, professor of government in the University, are to meet in Gerrard hall on Tuesday, February 4, in open debate on the question, Resolved: That there is need for a Third Party in the United States. Mr. Williams is to support the affirmative side of the case, and Professor Woodhouse will oppose the question.

Mr. Williams, born in San Francisco, is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and Union Theological Seminary. He took graduate courses at the University of Iowa and Columbia University, working intermittently as a miner to defray his expenses.

Decorated for War Services
Finishing his work at Union Theological Seminary just at the outbreak of the World War, he enlisted as a chaplain and served two years in France, first with the Tenth Engineers and then as a senior chaplain with thirty chaplains and 50,000 soldiers under his care. He was decorated by the French government and cited by General Pershing.

Following the War, Mr. Williams was for ten years in charge of the Peoples Church of St. Paul, where he distinguished himself for effective moral and civic service to the people. In 1926 he was the candidate for Mayor of the Labor-Progressive forces, receiving over 26,000 votes and coming within a few hundred votes of election. In 1928 he was the Farmer-Labor candidate for Congress and again received a large vote.

Mr. Williams has travelled extensively in this and foreign countries, meeting personally many of the social, political and labor leaders of Europe. He has also studied Mexico and interviewed there the President of the Republic, members of his Cabinet and various outstanding personalities. He is now travelling over the United States organizing, stimulating and cooperating with local third-party political movements that will eventually unite to create for this country a critical opposition party comparable to the British Labor Party. Mr. Williams has a keen insight into political and economic institutions and problems.

Professor Woodhouse is a graduate of Randolph-Macon College, the University of Virginia law school, and has studied at Chicago and Yale Universities. For several years he was professor of government at Yale and later held the same chair at Smith College. For several years he practiced law.

Mayor Coolidge's Home Town
When Calvin Coolidge was elected President of the United States on the Republican ticket, Mr. Woodhouse was elected mayor of their home town, Northampton, Massachusetts, on the democratic ballot. After a few years of political life he returned to teaching and research work in government.

He came to the University in the fall of 1926 and has since

E. J. Woodhouse

Professor E. J. Woodhouse of the department of government, will support the negative side of the Woodhouse-Williams debate in Gerrard hall, February 4, on the question "Resolved: that there is need for a third party in the United States."

WORD ARBORETUM PRODUCES STRANGE EFFECT ON CO-ED

(By John Patric)

"Dr. Jung, of Vienna, invented a list of 100 words, which contain references to every conceivable kind of emotional activity, such as hate, fear, rage, love, and many other things. It is possible," continued the psychology lecturer, "to touch off definite reactions within the human system that may be measured by instruments which record the flow of electricity through the human body."

"Of course, here at Carolina, our key words are slightly different than the Vienna list. They meet, as it were, local conditions."

It seems that two students were being examined. One was a co-ed, the other was just an ordinary student. But the time was summer school and the room wasn't unattractive—nothing was said about the co-ed, but we suspect maybe she wasn't so pretty.

"In our list of 100 words we included 'arboretum.' When the blase masculine subject was given the test, he passed over the list without a quiver of the galvanometer needle at that point, but when the girl heard 'arboretum,' the needle jumped clear off the record paper!"

Of such are the wonders of psychology.

Finally !!!

Playing their steadiest game of the year Carolina's Tar Heettes broke into the victory column last night, trimming the Chapel Hill Basketeers 22-17.

The Basketeers got off a 7-0 lead early in the game, but the co-eds rallied late in the half, which ended with the Chapel Hill aggregation holding a three-point lead.

Successive goals by Lee and Way put the co-eds ahead early in the second half. After this they were never headed, the game ending 22-17 with Way leading the attack.

Way and Thacker, forwards, and Hill, guard, starred for the Heettes. M. Parker and Ethrydge led the high school team. Parker and Way led the scoring, each having 8 points to their credit.

DORMS TO HAVE 'BULL SESSIONS'

Y. M. C. A. Sponsoring Discussions On Topics Of Interest To Students.

TO START MONDAY NIGHT

Dormitory discussions will be re-introduced Monday night at 9 o'clock. These discussions, sponsored by the Y cabinets, are being tried for the first time since 1927-28, when Walter Spearman, secretary of the Y at that time, conducted them.

The discussions this year will be led by some upperclassman assisted by a member of one of the Y cabinets. The meetings of these groups will be held in a designated room in each dormitory. The room number will be posted on the bulletin board in each dormitory sometime before Monday night.

It is the plan of the Y for these discussions to take more of the form of an ordinary "bull session" rather than a formal talk. The topics to be discussed will be those of most interest to the students present. The meetings are to be led by some leader who is expected to hold the discussion to the original subject.

Y officials request all students to be present at the first meetings in the dormitories in order that they may not only help to get the meeting off to a good start, but also that they may take part in the discussions.

For the first three Mondays in the month these discussions will be conducted in the dormitories, and on the fourth Monday a mass meeting will be held in Gerrard hall. This gathering will be led by some member of the faculty selected by the Y. At this meeting some of the subjects discussed in the dormitory groups will be discussed by the group.

LOCAL KIWANIS IN NATIONAL CELEBRATION

The Chapel Hill Kiwanis Club yesterday joined with the other 1840 clubs throughout the United States and Canada in celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of Kiwanis International.

J. Maryon Saunders, district trustee for the Chapel Hill Club, told the history of Kiwanis International, pointing out that it was founded in Detroit in 1915 and that the first regular meeting was held January 21 of that year. Kiwanis International now has a membership of more than 102,000, he said.

John S. McDonald of Raleigh, Lieutenant-Governor of the fifth division of the Carolina District, was the speaker for the occasion. He was introduced by Russell M. Grumman, president of the Chapel Hill club. Mr. McDonald spoke on the under-privileged child and the responsibility which Kiwanis owes to these children. Music was furnished by the Carolinians with "Red" Wood in charge of the musical program.

Since its organization here almost two years ago the Kiwanis club has been active in movements looking to civic betterment. Among other things it has sponsored the Red Cross roll call, held a dental clinic for the public schools, and cooperated with the public welfare officer in alleviating needy cases.

RUSSIAN CHOIR TO SING HERE SOON

Committee Completes Plans To Have Famous Group Here February 10.

PERFORM IN SWAIN HALL

The Russian Symphonic Choir, under the direction of Sergei Kabalchich, has been definitely booked to appear at Swain hall, Monday night, February 10.

The student entertainment committee yesterday voted unanimously to secure these singers in place of the Ben Greet Players whose scheduled appearance was cancelled due to lack of proper facilities.

The organization is composed of 24 men and women, most of whom are from the Russian nobility. All have excellently trained voices, many having been soloists in the Russian cathedrals for years.

Ten years ago, when the political crisis in Russia made life almost unendurable for these people, Sergei Kabalchich decided to organize the choir. He brought his singers to America, and since that date they have remained on this continent. During these years the personnel has varied only slightly.

The success of the organization has led to the establishment of a repertoire which includes over two thousand numbers. These selections cover a wide field, including cathedral music, music from the Russian operas, various folk songs, and vocal transcriptions of the leading orchestral symphony movements.

The director of the group is responsible for a great many arrangements used exclusively by them.

The choir has crossed the continent at least twenty times, and it is the general opinion of critics that it has established a standard of choral perfection which has earned for itself the name, Symphonic Choir.

H. S. Dyer, head of the music department, knows Mr. Kabalchich personally, and has requested a copy of the program. Before the date of the choir's appearance Mr. Dyer will make comments on the program for the Tar Heel readers.

Village Population Shows Increase Of Births Over Deaths

Chapel Hill's population was increased by 40 and decreased by 33 during the year of 1929, according to a report made public yesterday by the local department of vital statistics of which Dr. S. A. Nathan is health officer.

Actual figures are much larger, however, than the figures presented, since 50 per cent of the deaths occur in Durham hospitals. Whites accounted for 17 births and 13 deaths, and negroes 40 births and 33 deaths.

In the list of causes of deaths, parentheses indicate whites. Causes were: apoplexy, 1; arteriosclerosis, 1; cancer, 1; (1); cardio dilatation, 1; cardio renal disease, (1); cerebral hemorrhage, (3); colitis, 1; diphtheria, (1); endocarditis, (1); epilepsy, 1; essential hypertension, 1; hypertension arteriosclerosis, 1; mitral regurgitation, (1); murder, 1; myocarditis, (1); nephritis, 2; paralysis, 1; pellagra, 1; pneumonia, (1); 3; pulmonary embolism, (1); senility, (1); suicide, (1); syphilis, 1; and tuberculosis, 2.

H. Y. Williams

Howard Y. Williams, executive secretary of the League for Independent Political Action, will present the affirmative side of the debate with Professor Woodhouse on the third party question to be held in Gerrard hall, February 4.

Durham Junior High To Hear Glee Club

The University glee club, under the direction of Prof. H. S. Dyer, will present a full program of songs tonight in the Durham junior high school auditorium, at 8:15, appearing under the auspices of the high school music clubs of Durham.

With a few additions, the program will be that regularly used by the glee club on its tour this year.

Prof. Nelson O. Kennedy will give two piano groups on the program.

The glee club selections are: Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee, Bach; Ave Maria, Arcadelt; The Galway Piper, Davison; Now is the Month of Maying, Morley; The Long Day Closes, Sullivan; Chit-chat, and Hark, Jolly Shepherds, Marley; Sun and Moon, Russian Folk Song; Land-Sighting, Grieg; Hymn of the Pilgrims and Dance of the Gnomes, MacDowell; Bugle Song, Foote; A Sea Song, Gaines; and Hark the Sound, Arthur Edward Johnstone.

N. W. Walker Attends N. C. College Meeting

A meeting of the executive committee of the North Carolina College Conference was held in the Washington Duke Hotel, Durham, last Wednesday, January 22. The committee decided, among other business matters, that the next meeting of the College Conference should be held in Durham sometime in October. The exact date is to be fixed later by the committee. Dean N. W. Walker, of the University school of education, who is secretary-treasurer of the Conference, attended the meeting of the committee from Chapel Hill.

DR. AND MRS. DYER ARE GUESTS AT FOREST HILLS

Dr. and Mrs. Harold S. Dyer were guests last Wednesday night at a dinner and bridge given by Mr. and Mrs. J. Foster Barnes of Durham at the Forest Hills Country Club.

Co-Ed Dance

The winter quarter dance of the Woman's Association will be held on January 31 at Spencer hall, the Carolina Buccaneers furnishing the music. Co-eds not living at Spencer hall are requested to communicate with Kitty Wells before Wednesday in regard to invitations.

BENEATH TROPIC SEAS IS TOPIC OF BEEBE'S LECTURE

Noted Sea And Jungle Explorer Will Give An Illustrated Talk Under Auspices Of Student Entertainment Committee.

TO BE HERE JANUARY 31

William Beebe, noted scientist and lecturer, will give his latest popular lecture, "Beneath Tropic Seas," when he appears here January 31 in Swain hall. His lecture will be the first number on the entertainment committee's program for this quarter, since the engagement with the Ben Greet Players was canceled.

The lecture is an account of the wonders and beauties of life in the ocean depths, and will be accompanied by underwater motion pictures in color. He has with his explorations in the depths of the seas opened up a new field of investigation. He has incorporated his first trip to the Galapagos and his second to the Sargosso Sea into English literature in his popular books which he has written on the subject.

In his trips to Nonsuch Island last summer and to Haiti a year ago he has made even more wonderful discoveries and was able to record them with a newly perfected cast steel camera for making pictures beneath the surface of the ocean. It is of these trips that he will speak in his lecture here.

Before he became interested in deep sea life, Mr. Beebe had devoted his investigations to jungle dwellers and in that connection wrote several books which give a picture of jungle life and the romantic atmosphere contained in the dark recesses of the primeval forests.

Mr. Beebe not only is a painter and etcher of considerable talent, but he has the ability to paint with words the color, the life, the vividness of those strange lands above and below the surface of the water that he has seen. Little was known of the strange life at the bottom of the limitless tracks of ocean depths, of the blaze and glory of weird and fantastic denizens of the deep, and of the gorgeous coloring of the surface fish, until Beebe presented them to the world in his admirable writings and lectures.

Der Deutsche Verein

Dr. Caldwell of the history department has consented to make a short talk before the members of the German society on the "First German Hero." Dr. Caldwell, according to R. S. Matthews, is an entertaining speaker and his talk should be interesting especially to students in all German classes; all are urged to attend. A part of the meeting will be given over to a short musical program with the singing of German songs. There will be group singing for those who care to participate. After this refreshments will be served closing the meeting. The society will assemble in the regular Kiwanis room in the basement of the Methodist church Friday evening at 7:30, January 24.

PROFESSOR STAAB ILL

Professor H. H. Staab, of the department of romance languages, is kept from meeting his classes because of illness, but expects to be out again in a few days.
