

Special Business Meeting Mitchell Scientific Group

There will be a special business meeting of the North Carolina chapter of Sigma Xi, national scientific research society, Tuesday evening after the meeting of the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society.

At this time three matters of importance will be taken up. There will be a consideration of the proposal to amend the constitution of the local chapter to provide for the admittance of new members to the society during the year rather than just prior to graduation. Action will also be taken on the matter of eligibility of associate members. At present only graduate students are eligible for associate membership under the constitution of the local branch, but the proposed amendment would provide for the admittance of seniors who show marked ability in the fields of scientific research.

Negro Visitor Gets Two Months On Roads

Walter Crawford, 28 and colored, who arrived in Chapel Hill ten days ago from Fayetteville, found himself in the toils of the law on two counts yesterday.

In addition to drunkenness, which gave him thirty days on the roads, Walter was found guilty of the larceny of a watch from "Reverend" J. W. Jenkins, a fellow boarder at Jemima Tutt's home. The negro pastor was sleeping after an overdose of spirits, and his acquaintance is said to have rifled his pockets.

Walter found a pawnbroker in the person of Ross Farrington, an employee of the athletic association, who testified that he had "loaned" the negro fifty cents and a pair of trousers, which were exhibited in court, upon the timepiece.

After Judge C. P. Hinshaw had directed that the visitor from Fayetteville would remain two months as a member of the road gang, he was approached by the negro parson whose watch had caused the trouble.

"Boss, ah wants another wuhant swored out fo' dat niggah. Ah sell him some shoes an' he say he'd pay las' saddy. But he ain' pay, nohow!"

NEGRO'S JEALOUSY GETS HIM IN RECORDER'S COURT

Hi Schools Enter Basketball Teams.

There are 56 high schools entered in the general basketball series being sponsored by the North Carolina high school athletic association and the bureau of high school debating and athletics of the University extension division. These schools are among the smaller institutions of the state which were ineligible for class A competition—a field limited to the seven largest schools in the east and west.

The general series will be conducted on the elimination plan with the winners in each conference, eastern and western, coming here to decide the state championship. This arrangement differs from that of the larger schools in that the winners in the latter class are determined on a percentage basis.

Play among the entrants in this series will begin within the week. Last night a meeting of the eastern coaches was held in Raleigh, and under the direction of E. R. Rankin of the extension division a schedule of play was arranged. Tonight Mr. Rankin will go to Salisbury where he will meet the representatives of the western schools.

A list of entrants in the east include Ayden, Belhaven, Benson, Bethel Hill, Bragtown, Burgaw, Clinton, Enfield, Farmville, Four Oaks, Hamlet, Hertford, LaGrange, Lucama, Lumberton, Nashville, Rose Hill, South River, Tabor, Trenton and Zeb Vance.

The western schools participating in the contest are Ansonville, Asheboro, Badin, Bakersville, Biscoe, Boonville, Candor, Canton, Claremont, Cleveland, Derita, Elon, Fallston, Farmer, Copeland, Denton, Forest City, Haw River, Henrietta-Caroleen, Kannapolis, Lattimore, Marshville, Mt. County Pays Heavily For Coroner's Inquest

It cost Orange county $84.20 to determine officially that Jordan Austin "came to his death through exposure from the cold" recently, according to figures supplied by Coroner S. A. Nathan, who believes the negro could not have raised a quarter of this sum from any source had he been alive.

"Our usual cost of a coroner's inquest is about $36," explained Mr. Nathan, "but this one involved two days' investigations and a roundabout trip through the snow across country."

The costs were divided as follows: Coroner's fee, at $10 per day, $20; mileage, $4.40 and $2.80; six jurors at $3 per day cost the county $36; summons were issued at an expense of $3; witnesses were paid $11; and the county physician drew $10.

Equipment For Making Liquor Causes Trouble

Jeter Lloyd, 31; Charlie Henderson, 40, and Deacon W. T. Dollar, 50, were charged in the Chapel Hill recorder's court yesterday morning with possession of equipment and materials for the manufacture of intoxicants.

Henderson and Dollar were acquitted because of insufficient evidence, while judgment in the case of Lloyd was suspended until next week's session.

Officers assert that they found a quantity of corn meal, mash, and kegs in the woods and observed Lloyd standing nearby. While the officers were present, Henderson and Dollar arrived with empty containers, they aver.

GLEE CLUB WINS DOUBLE HONORS

(Continued from first page) conveyed the group the remaining 21 miles to Gastonia in a little over 21 minutes, arriving there at five minutes to eight. The concert, scheduled to have been given at eight was delayed only slightly.

As a result of winning first place in Greenville, the club is eligible to participate in the National Glee Club Contest at New York City, March 8. However, the trip is uncertain on account of lack of finances. The club paid its own expenses to Greenville. Until this year the University has provided a small fund for the club, which has enabled it to give campus concerts quarterly without admission. The fund was not given this year and the fall tour resulted in a loss. It has been estimated that the cost of the New York trip would be $850.

CABINETS HEAR THREE SPEAKERS

(Continued from first page) last word was release. "We must be able to release our hands, our mind, and our heart, and be able to use all our body to the best advantage." In closing Mr. Meyer said that it was his hope that the cabinet members would take these words, and probably some day they might help to unlock the door to happiness.

Dean Bell spoke to the sophomores on "Religion of Science." He stated that religion and science have been found to have one connection, that between physiology and ethics. "There are, however, still numerous conflicts existing between these two; namely, astronomy and religion, evolution and religion, and a few others." He stated further that things could no longer be blamed on the mechanical age as of the past.

"New Attitude on Morals" was the subject of Mr. Comer's talk to the junior-senior cabinet. "It is the purpose of this talk," he began, "to find out what human nature is and how to develop it." He was of the opinion that the Y should become a more effective organization for helping students find out what their natures are and how to develop them. Going further he stated that every individual is totally dependent upon other individuals, and that it is this fact that gives rise to social psychology. He closed by saying that the character-building process is at work in human beings continually.

Station W4WE Will Take Part in Amateur World-Wide Contest

mitter, working on 10 meters with a rated capacity of 150 watts, will also be used if reliable communication can be maintained on this little used band. The two other transmitters which are not expected to be used during the contest, are a 200 watt set working on the 80 and 160 meter bands, and a small 50 watt set operating on 20 meters.

The station boasts a long list of foreign stations with which it has exchanged messages. In North America the station has talked to amateurs in Alaska, Canada, Newfoundland, and Mexico. Among the islands in the Carribean Sea with which it has been in contact are Cuba, Haiti, Jamiaca, Porto Rico, and the Virgin Isles.

In South America the local operators have talked to stations in Argentine, Brazil, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Venezuela, Ecuador, Bolivia, Chili, Uruguay, and Peru. Of the islands near South America it has handled messages to South Shetland and South Georgia, S. A. On the other side of the world the operators have conversed with stations in Australia, New Zealand, Fanning Islands, and Hawaii. Africa comes in for its share with contact having been made with amateurs in Morocco, Algeria, Cameroons, South Africa, Rhodesia, and Tasmania.

Among the countries in Europe that have been worked are Sweden, Finland, Poland, Denmark, Germany, Holland, England, France, Belgium, Italy, Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo Slavia, Hungary, Austria, Portugal, and Spain.

The lone station from Asia that has been worked by the W4WE is one in Iraq. It is interesting to note that this exchange of messages took place last March and that only this fall a card was received from the operator of the station confirming the communication. With the arrival of this card the local station was eligible for the W. A. C. club, which is composed of amateurs who have worked all continents.

The preparations for the contest are almost complete now,
