

Varsity Boxers Prepare To Defend Conference Title In Charlottesville Tomorrow

Tar Heels Again Rated as Favorites as Veterans Prepare For Action; Vaughan Out.

The Tar Heel varsity boxers yesterday had their last hard workout before leaving for the Southern Conference tournament which starts tomorrow in Charlottesville. The Carolina fighters, last year's conference champions, will enter the tournament without the services of Evan Vaughan, veteran bantam. The rest of the lineup is in shape, and will, along with Florida, rule favorites to cop the title. The team leaves today for Charlottesville.

The Tar Heels are taking some first-class fighters to invade Virginia, with Captain Allen, conference champion and undefeated middleweight; John Warren, hard-hitting light heavy; Obie Davis, scrappy welter; and Noah Goodridge, brilliant lightweight.

Captain Allen is in top form, and is expected to repeat in winning the title in his weight. John Warren has shown real ability all this year, having won all of his conference fights except a close decision to Gentry of Virginia, having won knockouts from Florida and Duke.

Obie Davis went several fast and hard rounds in the ring yesterday, and is doped to meet Carper of Duke in the final round of the tournament. In the lightweight division Carolina is well represented by Noah Goodridge, one of the smartest boxers in the south. Goodridge has lost only one fight, a close decision to Captain O'Connell of Florida.

Another boy who was looking good yesterday is Bill Koenig, Coach Rowe's giant heavy. Koenig got off to a rather slow start this season, as he was a newcomer in the racket, but under the tutelage of Coach Crayton Rowe, he has improved rapidly, and he is expected to give his opponents trouble in the tournament.

Harry Sheffield, scrappy little featherweight, is in top-season form, and will carry the hopes of Tarheelia with him when he steps in the ring tomorrow in Charlottesville. Sheffield has an impressive record, having lost but two conference battles.

WARREN-TERRIS TO EXCHANGE "SOCKS"

According to report, plans are being made to have Ad Warren, former Carolina heavy and captain and now an outstanding North Carolina heavyweight aspirant, fight Big Sid Terris, another outstanding heavy, in Wilson on March 20.

Attempts have been made before to match Warren and Terris but these plans have heretofore failed to materialize. When Terris was ready Warren was not, and vice versa.

Should the present plans go through, there ought to be a real fight in Wilson next month, as both men are big and both are fast and can hit.

CAROLINA HAS SIX FOOT BASKET TEAM

Carolina's "dark horses" will probably present one of the tallest teams in the south at the annual southern tournament in Atlanta this week-end. Edwards, center, is 6 feet 6. Dameron, forward, is 6 feet 4½. Marpet, guard, is 6 feet 2. Neiman, forward, and Brown, guard, are both six-footers.

SPORT RAMBLES

Roulhac Hamilton

Does a football player have a right to participate in some winter sport which prevents his taking part in winter football practice? Has a football coach the right to demand that a man playing on some other team quit so that he will be able to play football out of season. These questions are becoming an issue that threatens to assume alarming proportions.

In answering the two questions there are several others that must be taken into consideration. Admit that football is Carolina's most important and popular sport. The question then arises as to how much more important it is than any other sport. Is it so important that it so completely overshadows the whole group of winter sports that they must sacrifice their best interests in order that football may prosper? In our opinion the answer is a most emphatic no. But, purely for the sake of argument, let us admit that it is. Then we may ask ourselves if it is inevitable that a player of great ability will suffer a loss of that ability because he is unable to participate in winter practice? Or, if a player who has very little prospects of amounting to much on the gridiron, but who is very valuable—possibly very necessary—to some other team should be ordered to report to the football field rather than the Tin Can. Again, our answer to these questions is no. And, lastly, is it more important that the man play football, where he is of little use, than to participate in some sport where he may be invaluable. Our answer to this is also no.

Yet such a situation exists at Carolina. We know definitely that several basketball players and at least one wrestler have been informed that they could either report for winter football practice or give up all hope of ever playing football at Carolina.

This seems to us a most unfair situation—unfair to the player, to the University, to the other coaches and teams, and even to the football team itself. It denies to the player his right of playing on some particular team, no matter how valuable he may be to that team. Conceivably, it may cause the loss of some good players to the football team. It will, if carried far enough, deny to the University her chances to have winning teams in all sports. It denies to the coaches the availability of material he is entitled to and that may be necessary to the success of his team. The student body and the alumni expect winning teams and hold the coaches responsible for their development. That the coaches are here to develop that kind of team we admit. But to develop any kind of team he must have material and if the material he has is taken away from him we can't see how he is going to turn out good teams.

It is not the policy of this column to dispute the policies of any coach. We want to be behind them all and we want them to be successful, but we don't want one to get that way at the expense of one or two others. We seriously question the right of any coach to coerce another's man into playing football out of season. He is taking for his own gain something that belongs to another and is depriving the coach and the team of whatever part of their chance for success that that particular man represents.

AYCOCK CAMPUS CHAMPS AFTER DEFEATING D.K.E.

Intramural Basketball Crown Rests With Non-Frat Men.

With Hooks and Sherrill leading the attack, Aycock clinched the campus basketball championship by defeating D. K. E. 15 to 9 last night in the Tin Can.

The game was fast from the start with Aycock holding the lead the whole game. D. K. E. rallied in the third quarter and reduced Aycock's lead to five points.

McAlister starred for D. K. E., scoring six of his team's nine points.

Both teams were in good form and played excellent basketball, but the Aycock quintet was better organized and presented a smoother working combination than did the D. K. E. five.

This game ends the hardest season of intramural basketball ever played at the University, and one in which a great interest has been shown. An excellent spirit of sportsmanship has been displayed by all the teams entered.

The lineup:
D. K. E. (9) Aycock (15)
Fenner Hooks (6)
Lassiter Sherrill (4)
Willis (2) Kindell (3)
Dunn Howe
Craig Potter (2)

Substitutions: for D. K. E.—McAlister (6), Davis, Laster (1); for Aycock—King.

Baby Mitmen Meet V. P. I. Tonight

The boxing meet between the North Carolina and V. P. I. freshmen carded for Saturday night has been moved up two days and will be run off in the Tin Can here tonight at 8:30.

The change was announced yesterday by Graduate Manager C. T. Woolen and was made to avoid conflict with the Southern Conference boxing tournament at Charlottesville, which several of the freshman boxers wish to attend.

The meet will end the season for the Tar Baby mitmen, and such stars as Levinson and Landis are expected to draw a goodly crowd.

Faculty Reception Gala Co-Ed Affair

In a recent issue of the Tar Heel, a notice appeared inviting all the faculty members and their wives to a reception to be given by the co-eds tomorrow evening from 8:30 until 11 o'clock.

The notice seemed to give somewhat of an indifferent attitude on the part of the co-eds. This was not the attitude meant to have been taken, by any means. Every co-ed looks forward to this with honor and pleasure. They all class this as one of the biggest honors paid them throughout the year.

This article expresses the sincere wish of every co-ed and they are all looking forward with great pleasure to the reception and the presence of every faculty member and his wife.

WRESTLERS CLOSE SEASON MONDAY

Varsity Preparing for Duke Meet; Tournament March 7 and 8.

With only one more meet before the southern tournament at V. M. I. March 7 and 8, the Tar Heel varsity wrestlers are working hard to get ready for the match with Duke here Monday night.

Old man education has robbed the Tar Heels of two more wrestlers, in Cowper and Moore, who are now off on co-op work. These men, mainstays of the team, are keeping in shape, and may be able to come back for the meet Monday night. George Thompson, veteran heavy, who has been all this year kept from wrestling because of being off on co-op work, is now back on the Hill, but will not be able to wrestle on account of winter football. This leaves the matmen minus a heavy as Coach Chuck Quinlan had been counting on Thompson all along. Thompson has had two years experience as a heavyweight wrestler.

The meet with Duke in the Tin Can Monday should be very tight, as both teams have had a rather up-and-down season. The Tar Heels, however, have a somewhat better conference record, having won both their conference meets, one from V. P. I. and one from State, while Duke has lost to Washington and Lee. Washington and Lee, however has a strong team. At any rate an entertaining evening is expected.

The freshmen will end their season when they meet State in the Tin Can this afternoon at 3:30. The Tar Babies won from the Raleigh team 25-15 earlier in the season. The regular lineup will wrestle. The lineup includes: Parker or Deitz, 115 pounds; Seligson, 125 pounds; Winstead, 135 pounds; Conklin, 145 pounds; Greer or Bradley, 155 pounds; Captain Idol, 165 pounds; Bradley or Greer, 175 pounds; and Auman, unlimited.
