

WEALTH OF NEW MATERIAL FOR GAME SATURDAY

Question Of Who Shall Star For Rookies Flares Up As Annual Grid Affair Draws Near.

If tradition holds good, Saturday afternoon's Monogram-Rookie battle, closing Carolina's winter football work, should reveal a number of new backfield stars for the 1930 Tar Heels.

Of the backfield that worked for the Rookies in last year's annual feature, Johnny Branch, Yank Spaulding and Rip Slusser all achieved eminence and played prominent parts in Carolina's brilliant 346-point season of 1929.

The important question with fans is who the new stars will be this year? Who will be found to carry on in the shoes of the graduated Ward, Spaulding and Jackson?

This Saturday's game, carded for 2 o'clock in Kenan stadium, prior to the first southern conference indoor games beginning in the Tin Can at 4 o'clock, will tell the tale.

A first-string Rookie backfield is impossible to predict at this early part of the week. There are too many promising candidates for Coach Collins to decide on his starting quartet yet. It may suffice to point out those who give most promise of providing Branches and Spauldings and Slussers of this year's game.

Jimmy Moore, reserve quarter, has looked unusually good at pass receiving, and might possibly be converted to a halfback. Peacock, a freshman, has shown fair stuff, but needs seasoning.

Chandler, Croom and Jackson have set the pace for left halfbacks coming up from the frosh and look unusually good, with White, another frosh, rating almost on a par with the select trio.

Daniels, Ferebee, Morrisey, Thompson, Donnell and Frazier, freshmen, and Houston, reserve, have all shown promise at right half, but the right halfbacks do not quite equal the Rookies who carry the ball from the left side.

There are four fine Rookie fullback prospects in McAlister, reserve from last year; McNeil, regular freshman fullback last year; Lassiter, a transfer who will be eligible next year; and Suggs, regular freshman in 1928 who was out of college last fall.

GALAXY OF STARS COMING FOR MEET

Long straightaways, easy turns and a track just a fraction over 9 laps to the mile, should unite with such stars as Young of Georgia, Ochs of Virginia, Simon of Duke, and Barkley and Lowry of North Carolina to produce some unusually fast distance runs in the first southern conference indoor games here Saturday night. The Madison Square Garden track, where some of the biggest indoor meets in the country are held, takes 11 laps to the mile, as compared to the local track's nine and a fraction laps.

Cincinnati, O.—(IP)—An echo of war-time hate has been silenced permanently and the local board of education has voted to pay Henry S. Curtis, of Jefferson City, Mo., for the so-called "pro-German" speech he made here in April, 1918.

Curtis, an authority on child education, had been employed by Superintendent Randall J. Condon to make a survey of schools and playgrounds in Cincinnati and presented his findings in a speech to city teachers.

Stars Appearing Here Saturday

University To Welcome Stars Here Saturday For Big Meet

Tin Can Is Unusually Fine Building for Use as Indoor Track.

MANY NOTABLES ATTEND

If maximum of facilities for performers and comfort and enjoyment for spectators count for anything, University athletic officials, in charge of preparations for the first southern conference indoor games here Saturday night, are going to "sell" indoor track to the south.

The big northern indoor meets, with their world champions, have consistently drawn enthusiastic crowds of from 20,000 to 40,000. Due to lack of facilities the south has seen little of such spectacles.

The first southern conference indoor championship has drawn an entry of world and southern champions that rank with the best. The Tin Can, where the meet is to be held, offers a floor space 110 by 300 feet, a longer track than Madison Square Garden, and the indoor track equipment that has been installed is as good as the country's best.

University athletic officials are determined to add to the splendid spectacle the maximum of comfort and enjoyment for spectators.

Bleachers, to occupy the whole south side of the Tin Can, will face the sprint and hurdle lanes, and all finishes will be directly in front. The program has been carefully worked out on definite time schedule so as to keep the 300 star performers moving in a continuous panorama of action. Every event will be announced over a loud speaker so that those attending may keep up perfectly with the progress of the meet. And last but not least is the steam heating system which will insure a temperature conducive to fast performances, yet comfortable to spectators.

Facilities for the performers are equally good and should insure stellar performance all along the program.

The sprints and hurdles will be 60 yards, which is the longest indoor straightway in the south, and as long as Madison Square Garden.

S. I. C. SPORTS

(By Jack Bessen)

By virtue of a 31-24 victory over the Duke Blue Devils, Alabama's Crimson Tide succeeded N. C. State as the southern champions.

Duke established a record when the Tide defeated them Tuesday night. It made the second time running that they had gone to the finals only to lose out for the championship. Last year the Devils lost to State and this year the Tide turned the trick.

The Carolina team received a tremendous ovation from the fans when it entered the floor, only the two local teams, Georgia and Georgia Tech receiving larger ones.

The fans in Atlanta are surely hard hearted. As a defeated team marches off the floor, the fans howl: "Next train leaves at 10:45!"

The tournament was full of upsets. State was conceded to have a better team than Sewanee, but Sewanee shellacked the Terrors 26-19. On the strength of State's victory over the Georgia Bulldogs, Carolina was doped to take the opening game, but the Bulldogs refused to carry out the advance dope, defeating the Tar Heels 26-21.

Kentucky fans got so "het up" about their team that hundreds of them journeyed to Atlanta for the Duke game. Most of them left for "dear old Kaintuck" that night. Reason: Duke 37, Kentucky 32.

The final game was the roughest game of the tournament. The Devils, tired after the grueling Kentucky game, were like children in the hands of the Tide. Several of the lighter Duke men played most of the game on the floor.

Tennessee was the dark horse of the tournament, putting out one seeded team, Washington and Lee, and giving Alabama a great battle.

The Vols had three of their football team starring on the quintet; the touchdown twins, Hackman and McEver, and Bobby Dodd. This trio was greatly responsible for the Vol's great showing in the tournament.

DURHAM DEFEATS CHARLOTTE FOR CLASS A TITLE

Last Minute Spurt Gives Eastern Team 14-11 Win.

After battling on even terms for three quarters, Durham forged ahead with a three-point lead in the final minutes and took the class A state basketball title from Charlotte high by a score of 14 of 11 at the Tin Can last night. Neither team had been previously defeated in its class during the season, and they were well matched up for last night's play.

Close, furious guarding characterized the game throughout and goals were few and far between. The half ended with Durham and Charlotte in a 4-4 deadlock and the end of the third quarter found them tied 9-9.

Harris and Holloway led the attack of Durham, while Tilley, speedy little forward, gave a beautiful exhibition of floor-work and passing. Aitkin, forward, and Captain McCachern, guard, showed up well for Charlotte, the former registering four points and the latter five.

Spencer Wins

Led by their flashy Captain, "Cotton" Grossman, Spencer high school swamped Trenton high 33-11 to win the class B championship last night. The score at the half was 14-2. Grossman's consistent playing was the chief factor in Spencer's victory. Holt, with 14 points, led the scoring. Captain Brock led Trenton's second half rally with six points.

Four Vaulters To Spread Stuff Soon

With four University vaulters showing promise of reaching 12 feet indoors, and other outstanding vaulters expected from all over the south, that most spectacular event of track is expected to be one of the big features of the first Southern Conference indoor games here Saturday.

The Tar Heels, with a whole quartet of vaulters to enter, should make the strongest bid for points, and especially when consideration is taken that Brodie Arnold and Wick Smith have consistently been bettering 11 feet 6, and Raymond Ruble and Bill Dry have been doing 11 feet regularly.

Younger Undergraduates Favored By Dr. Robinson

New York, March 5.—(IP)—A story in the New York Times for February 9, said:

"The theory recently advanced by Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, that the younger undergraduates at colleges generally excel in scholarship those of more mature years was upheld in a statement issued today by Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, president of the College of the City of New York, in discussing the findings of the personnel bureau under the direction of Dr. Arthur N. Payne.

"During the past three semesters the personnel bureau has given more than 30,000 psychological tests to entering freshmen and sophomores. The tabulated results, it was reported, reveal a distinct superiority of the younger men. It was also announced that a steady decrease in the average age of entering students has been noted."

Track Notice

All assistant and sub-assistant track managers are asked to meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Emerson field.

DUKE LOSES TO ALABAMA IN HOT BASKET CONTEST

Corbett, Tennessee Forward, Stands as High Conference Scorer.

Although the Duke Blue Devils let down in the pinch and lost the conference basketball crown to Alabama, they may be able to take some consolation in the fact that their center, Croson, was high scorer of the tournament with 33 points. Alabama's star forward, Laney, came next with 30 points, while Corbett and Faust of Tennessee ran up totals of 28 and 27 respectively in three games.

Corbett of Tennessee, in the Washington and Lee game, gained individual scoring honors with 15 markers. Croson followed with 14 in the Georgia Tech game and 13 in the Kentucky game; while Wages and Perkins of Georgia Tech, in the Tulane game; Councillor of Duke, in the Georgia Tech game, and Cox of W. and L. in the Mississippi game, all registered 13 points.
