

Daily Tar Heel Straw Vote Places Frank Graham First

Dean Hibbard Runs Second To Graham While Professor Connor Comes Out Third; 241 Ballots Cast.

The straw ballot conducted by the Daily Tar Heel in the hope that it would serve as an indication of the students' choice for University president resulted in a total of 241 votes cast, of which 71 were for Frank Graham, this being the largest number cast for any one man.

Addison Hibbard, dean of the school of Liberal Arts was second choice with 52 ballots. Professor R. D. W. Connor, who, with Frank Graham, has been most frequently mentioned for the presidency, polled 49 votes.

In addition to the ten names printed upon the ballots, the voters expressed themselves as wishing to see 13 unthought of, as yet, men as president. Messrs. Harrer and Henry received support in their proposal of former Governor Al Smith as president to the tune of 9 votes. Will Rogers received but two evidences of a Rogers-for-President movement.

The complete vote follows:

Frank Graham, 71; Addison Hibbard, 52; R. D. W. Connor, 49; H. G. Baity, 12; Al Smith, 9; Archibald Henderson, 7; Judge Stacy, 1; Judge Brogden, 7; President Lacy, 2; Dr. Dodd, 4; R. B. House, 3; Will Rogers, 2; W. W. Pierson, 1; Jeff Fordham, 3; Professor Bagby, 3; Dr. Greenlaw, 1; Edgar Knight, 1; Dr. S. Alderman, 1; Dean Walker, 1; Charles Collins, 1; Dr. Booker, 2; Dean Bradshaw, 1; Dean Carroll, 1; Dr. George Howe, 1; Bob Linker, 1.

Players To Present Show To Duke Profs

A group of Duke faculty members, some of whom attended the bill of new plays of the Carolina Playmakers last week, has invited the cast of "For Auntie's Sake," written by John Patric, to attend a formal dinner Thursday evening at the Hope Valley Country Club, and present the play before the Folio Club, a literary organization of Duke University.

Expressing themselves as having enjoyed the entire bill, representatives of the Folio Club were impressed by the ease of staging "For Auntie's Sake." Although its "cast" really has five characters, it has been written in such a manner that only the two actually appear on the stage, others being represented "at the other end" of "telepathic" and telephone conversations.

Miss Lottie Frances Mays, a niece of T. S. Woofter, plays the part of Penelope Brown, a co-ed from Virginia, and John Patric, a Carolina student, plays Fred Barrett, a college senior who tricks the charming Penelope into loving him.

YEAR BOOK NEAR TO COMPLETION

Vanity Fair Section To Include Portraits Of Eight Beauties.

With the end of the quarter the Yackety Yack is fast nearing completion. Editor Travis Brown selected his staff early during the fall quarter, and the job of putting out a successful college annual has been going on since that time.

The last of the materials for the Yackety Yack will go to press immediately after the return from the holidays. Annuals will be given out to the students about the middle of May.

All class sections have been completed and sent in to the printers. The sport section remains to be completed in full, but is progressing rapidly. This section is one of the most difficult to complete due to the fact that the track, baseball, and tennis teams must be used from the year preceding. However, schedules and the like must be gotten for the present year. These are often delayed in forthcoming.

Of interest to many on the campus will be the Vanity Fair section. Boys are allowed to submit pictures of their girls for this section, and the eight voted the most beautiful by a committee chosen by the editor of the book compose this section. An unusual number of pictures have been submitted, but the eight to be published have not as yet been chosen. This will occur toward the latter part of the week and those pictures not accepted will be returned shortly afterward.

Library Notices

Graduate students and members of the faculty who wish to arrange for borrowing books from other libraries on inter-library loan should do so before March 15. Owing to the spring recess, it will be impossible to arrange such loans between that date and March 22.

Members of the faculty are reminded that reserve book lists are now receivable at the library. If the reserve lists are in the hands of the library staff before or during the spring recess, the books can be reserved within the first few days of the new term.

City Foreclosing

The employees at the city hall are busy this week making foreclosures on 33 parcels of Chapel Hill real estate upon which certificates of sale were issued in 1928, involving taxes of 1927 and earlier which have as yet not been paid. No fraternity property is involved.

LARGE AUDIENCE ATTENDS READING "POTTER'S" FIELD

Paul Green Reads Latest Play Before Filled Playmakers Theatre.

Sunday evening in the Playmaker theatre before a packed house Paul Green read his new play "The Potter's Field." Many people unable to find seats were turned away. After Mr. Green's reading the Chapel Hill negro community chorus and the silver tongued quartet gave a number of selections; during the "play" as one of the leaders had styled it to Professor Koch, a collection was taken up to supplement the money being raised to continue the negro schools. The audience responded liberally and $72.60 was contributed.

Mr. Green's new play is in one long act; he calls it a symphonic drama, as he uses a number of characters and plays upon them as the musician plays upon the notes of his instrument. As each character is introduced the drama moves faster and comes to a climax, or crescendo as the musician calls it. While the play is in one act and will be produced continuously, it will take the time of a full-length play. Mr. Green did not read the complete text, but told the whole story and read passages here and there so that the audience could get a clear idea of the whole drama. Enthusiastic applause at the end indicated the approval of the listeners.

The program of the negro community chorus consisted of "The Negro National Anthem," "I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and "Steal Away." The silver quartet was well received and sang several encores in addition to the regular program consisting of "Chapel Hill Boys," "Ain't It a Shame," "Hush! Hush! Somebody Calling My Name," "Let the Church Roll On," "Ezekiel Saw the Wheel," "My Lord What a Morning," "Nobody Knows" and "Way Down South."

Fund Over $300

Funds received for the campus relief fund for Orange county poor yesterday, the last day for contributions to be received, brought the total well over $300. Contributors over the week-end were Professor W. E. Caldwell, B. C. Philpott, Ralph (Red) Greene, C. L. Wyrick, J. P. Harland, F. W. Jackson, Sarah Faulkner, and two anonymous donations. The amount of these donations was $38.30, making the total received for the fund during the ten days of its existence 322.48.

This total of over $300 should have a material effect upon the poverty situation in Orange county, and the committee feels that the response affords an excellent indication of the feelings of the campus and the townspeople about the matter. The relief fund was in no sense a "drive" or a community chest campaign. It was merely an opportunity the Tar Heel established, not only for the campus to become aware of the deplorable situation, but also for it to do its bit in helping matters.

Intensive State-Wide Search Being Conducted For University Freshman

REGISTRAR WARNS ABOUT TARDINESS

Thirty Days Probation For Each Day After March 22 Is Penalty.

The last day of registration for students enrolled during the winter quarter will be March 22. Juniors and seniors and professional students, as well as graduates, should register during the examination period, March 12-15. Freshmen and sophomores register March 22.

The registrar's office wishes to remind all students who return for the spring quarter that late registration, which means any time after March 22, carries a penalty of five dollars and thirty days probation for each day that one's registration may be late. It is to be borne in mind that one's registration is not considered complete until and unless it has been turned in properly at the registrar's office or to some person authorized to receive it elsewhere. Students turning in registration papers after March 22 will bear the penalty mentioned above.

Quite a number of local addresses are still needed in order to complete the matter of reports for the winter quarter. The office is extremely eager to place a report in the hands of every student before March 22; but this cannot be done unless local addresses are provided.

Garbage Can Covers Used As Protectors

The stirring drama began several weeks ago, when snow was on the ground, when boys were having snowball battles and cadaverous stray dogs worried over the food supply. Complaints suddenly began to pour into the city hall, directed toward the "inefficient members of your garbage collection department."

"They forgot to return the cover of my garbage can," or "they took the cover with them and I want it back!" or "a lot of hungry dogs have been hanging around our back yard ever since your garbage men forgot the cover to our garbage can," or "what do I pay three dollars a year for, anyway? It's for service!"

City officials quizzed the garbage department. The garbage department had seen no covers, but reported that most of them had vanished. "Dat job gittin' right hahd, suh. Yessah, dey ain' no kivvers fo' dem cans no mo', and de dawgs come long an tip oveh 'em, and spill all dat gahbage on de groun' and we all gotta c'lec it up agin!"

Conditions in the public relations division of the refuse collection department of the city of Chapel Hill continued to be strained until a few days ago, when policemen found a large heap of covers to divers garbage cans piled up in the corner of a vacant lot near the schoolhouse. Boys, engaged in organized snowball warfare, had been using them as shields.

Meeting Postponed

The scheduled meeting of the music department of the Community Club for Wednesday afternoon has been indefinitely postponed.

Missing Student

Morgan P. Mooror of Asheville, a freshman here, disappeared from the campus ten days ago and University officials and members of his family have instituted a state-wide search for him.

HARLAND TO LEAVE FOR LECTURE TOUR

Leaving at the end of this term on a lecture tour for the Archaeological Institute of America, Dr. J. P. Harland, professor of archaeology and Greek, will talk at the Universities of Syracuse, Rochester, Toronto, Well's College, Auburn, and Cornell, on the subject "Prehistoric Greece."

Dr. Harland was asked to lecture in these places due to the fact that he spent three years in Greece at the American School of Archaeology at Athens, 1914, and 1920-21 as a Fellow of the Archaeological Institute, and 1927-28 as a Guggenheim Fellow. Dr. Harland was engaged in excavations with the American School and at one time with the British School. He conducted the excavations of the prehistoric site alone. He will be back at the University to conduct his regular classes next quarter.

Morgan P. Mooror Of Asheville Has Been Missing For Ten Days.

OF ECCENTRIC NATURE

No Clues As To Cause Of Disappearance Discussed; Thought To Have Taken A Small Pistol With Him; Suicide Theory Advanced.

The strange disappearance of Morgan P. Mooror, freshman from Asheville, has caused the University and the student body to institute an intensive state-wide search for the 17-year-old boy. R. B. House, executive secretary of the University, said yesterday that the University is extremely concerned and it doing everything in its power to help in the investigation that is now being carried on by Mooror's fraternity, Sigma Delta, Chapel Hill officials and others. Mrs. Eva Mooror, mother of the lad, Judge E. C. Dennis and F. A. Mooror, his uncles, arrived in town two days ago to help expedite the probe.

Morgan P. Mooror, or "M. P." as he was called by his intimates, was last seen in Chapel Hill by Mrs. Smith, mother of Le Roy Smith of the French department, with whom he lodged, on Friday afternoon, February 28, at 3 o'clock. At that time, he was dressed in his ordinary manner, wearing his every-day suit and light patent-leather shoes. Although a heavy blanket of his is missing, he did not carry it with him when he left the Smith home for the last time. The only incident that made that departure different from the many entrances and exits he made during the course of the day was that he locked the door to his room—something he had never done before.

This, coupled with the fact that he did not make an appearance over the week-end, led the Smiths to believe that he had gone to his home in Asheville. This belief was strengthened by the fact that no mail was received from Mooror's mother during the week. "M. P." had cut a full week of classes prior to his disappearance and had been dropped from his history course because of an excessive number of absences. It was to this that his abrupt departure had been laid. However, approximately a week after Mooror's strange leaving, a card was received from Mrs. Mooror, which was addressed to her son. This card was the first intimation the Smiths had of the peculiarity of the situation. The Sigma Delta fraternity, to which the young man was pledged, was informed and Mrs. Mooror was notified of the mysterious disappearance of M. P.

Although he is presumed to have left Chapel Hill on Friday, an individual closely resembling the missing boy was seen by an employee of the confectionery store adjacent to the Carolina theatre on Tuesday, March 4.

Several negroes reported seeing someone walking aimlessly along the Raleigh road on Wednesday, March 5. Their description of the boy tallied with that of young Mooror. Morgan's Creek figured in the boy's life several months previously, when "Boss" Hill, Chapel Hill tailor, rescued the son of the late J. Morgan Mooror, prominent
