

'Red' Greene Elected President Student Body

Yarborough Chosen To Edit Tar Heel

WINS OVER JOE JONES BY MARGIN 1132 TO 631 VOTES

Rises To Editorship After Serving As Managing Editor For Present Year.

Will Yarborough, for three years an active and untiring member of the Tar Heel staff, justified the opinion of the majority of the Tar Heel workers by receiving a tremendous majority over his competitor for the position of editor of the daily paper.

Much interest in this particular office was demonstrated because of the candidates and their platforms. Joe Jones, who stressed the fact that he was a non-fraternity man and that he had decided writing ability, was nevertheless defeated by Will, who was nominated by a vote of 33 to 15 by the men who had worked with him for the past year or more.

The campus undoubtedly agreed with the men who were in the position to know for it elected him to the important position to the tune of 1132 votes against 635—a clear majority of 497, more than one fifth of the entire student body at the University.

The University certainly realized that the man who had been the star reporter during his freshman year, sports editor and managing editor during his sophomore year and managing editor of the first Daily Tar Heel that had ever been published deserved to be promoted to the position of editor. The congratulations and cordial good-wishes that Will Yarborough has received since the eventful occurrences of yesterday are expressive of the esteem in which he is held. And his promises and statements as to the further good management of the paper may well be relied upon by those who know his past work.

Esther Metzenthin Receives European Travel Fellowship

Dr. E. C. Metzenthin received an official notification yesterday that his daughter, Esther, has been awarded a traveling fellowship to be used in Europe. At present she is teaching and doing graduate work at Bryn Mawr College, Pennsylvania. This fellowship will enable her to spend a whole year at German universities.

She intends to embark from New York on the first of June for Rotterdam, and thence she is to proceed to Muechen, where she will take part in the summer school for foreigners. After traveling through southern Germany and Austria, she will work at the University of Bonn on the Rhine from November 1, 1930 to July 31, 1931, dividing her time between research work in medical manuscripts and studying the social and religious conditions in post-war Germany.

Patterson, Brown, And Henry Class Presidents

Manning, Vice-President; Vaughan, Secretary; Baucom, Treasurer; and Albright Student Councilman Senior Class; Rollins, Weeks, Farris, and Uzzell Elected In Junior Class; Newland, McCampbell, Jones, and Barnes, Fresh Winners.

H. N. "Pat" Patterson, of his duties as secretary of the High Point, present business manager of the Buccaneer, and student councilman, was elected by a vote of 271 to that of Chuck Erickson's 128. Patterson succeeds "Red" Greene as president of the senior class. Ike Manning overwhelmed Bert Haywood for the vice-presidency by 247 to 140. Evan Vaughan slept contentedly last night as secretary of the senior class, for he received 213 votes while Alan Marshall received but 173. Cliff Baucom commenced his duties as treasurer of the class of '31 while Branch Paxton graciously submitted to defeat. The result was Baucom, 237; Paxton, 148. As student councilman from that august body, the senior class, Mayne Albright won by 220 over Harris' 181.

Theron Brown is now the president of the junior class and Willard Slusser was second to Theron by a vote of 223 to 182. Charles Rollins is content with the 204 ballots that were cast in his favor as against the 188 that T. Alexander drew. Heywood Weeks is looking impatiently to the day when he can commence

Yesterday's Election Unique Event In University History

(By Frank J. Manheim)

Characterized as the most closely contested election ever held here, the balloting of the University's students for campus officials held the spotlight throughout yesterday. Beginning with a handful of voters at 9 o'clock in the morning and reaching the heights during chapel period and the early afternoon hours, the 1930 election was one that will be long remembered by all those who took part in it—even to the disinterested freshman who was so bewildered by the hordes of new found friends, who besieged him and pleaded for his important vote, that he hoped the president's chair would be ultimately filled by Frank Connor, Addison Graham or "Red" Alexander.

The usually empty space in front of the Y. M. C. A. was the scene of a milling, excited crowd, seemingly surrounded on all sides by motor cars. Small groups would occasionally break up to button-hole unsuspecting, innocent men who were approaching the polls with the idea of God, my country, and my fraternity. Frenzied lieutenants of graduate students in practical politics came driving up in cars, filled with people never known before or to be known after this momentous day.

Even the co-eds did their bit for the candidates. Several of them were busy on the "front line" in the "Y" and they were more than successful in procuring the votes of many absent minded girls who were so forgetful as to go through almost all the day without knowing just why the 4th of April was a red-letter day.

The line of voters was the center of a concentrated attack. The left flank of the aggressive army consisted almost wholly of pamphleteers, handbill distributors and carriers of the various lineups. The left flank was made up of good speakers and "friends" who approached each and every man on the line-up and pleaded with him in a serious hushed-tone to vote for the man, or the party. The center comprised a group of bashful campaigners who did nothing but occasionally inquire if anyone wanted campaign literature. They eventually disappeared as the line grew longer.

The public at large was highly amused by the bitter hand-bill war which was carried on by several of the leading contestants. Opprobrium and insults were piled high upon one another, not to mention insinuations and biting innuendoes. Those spectators with a peculiar sense of humor might have been regaled to hear of the courses that political winds took during the day. More than one man's life in the University was considerably altered by yesterday's occurrences.

All in all, it was a highly successful election. Candidates

278 STUDENTS ON HONOR ROLL FOR WINTER QUARTER

Thirty-Two Students Fete Of Making All "A's"; 132 Students From Arts College On List.

G. K. G. Henry announced yesterday that 278 students comprise the honor roll for the winter quarter 1930.

The school of liberal arts led with 132 on the roll. The school of education was second with 44; the commerce school followed with 40; engineering had 33 and applied science had 29. This list compares with last figures as follows: for the winter quarter of 1929, when 270 students made the honor roll, the school of liberal arts led with 148; the school of education was next with 39; commerce followed with 37; applied sciences and engineering had 23 apiece.

The freshman class had the greatest number of honor students amidst its ranks—90. The juniors had 85 while the seniors and sophomores trailed behind with 58 and 54 respectively. These figures do not suffer by a comparison with last year's figures for the same period. The freshmen of 1929 had 63 honored colleagues while the juniors had 68 and the sophomores, who are the last this year to rest last year with 81, and the seniors were the losers with 58.

Thirty-two proud people, 19 of them A. B. students, 5 of them in applied science, 4 in engineering, 2 in commerce and 2 in education had their names engraved upon the coveted list of those who made "A's" on all courses for the past quarter. Again the freshmen preceded all other appellations. There were 14 of this type, and 8 sophomores, 7 juniors and 3 seniors. The names of these singularly talented people are:

B. H. Barnes, W. Eugene Barnes, A. Benjamin, T. B. Douglass, J. C. Eagles, Miss Elizabeth Edwards, Miss Dorothy Fooshe, C. W. Goldston, S. L. Hirsch, K. J. Kjellesvig, F. H. Koch, Jr., F. B. Kuykendal, J. A. Lang, J. H. Lassiter, J. A. McLean, J. S. Morrison, R. L. Murphy, D. J. Pachman, J. B. Pittana, S. Rabinowitz, W. V. Shepherd, I. H. L. Shlestein, F. P. Spruill, T. R. Taylor, J. Thornton, D. A. Ward, V. A. Ward, C. Winstead, Miss M. L. Withers, K. O. Wright, L. C. Wright, J. G. Zaglin.

The complete list of people on the honor roll follows:

F. M. Adams, Dillon, S. C.; W. J. Adams, Carthage; J. J. Alexander, Charlotte; Miss Penelope B. Alexander, Charlotte; G. L. Allen, Reidsville; F. I. Anderson, Leaksville; J. Andrews, Biltmore; Miss M. L. Ashmore, Chapel Hill; F. E. Atiyeh, Brooklyn, N. Y.; A. L. Baker, Raleigh; J. T. Baker, Raleigh; J. M. Baley, Jr., Asheville; C. W. Banner, Greensboro; T. H. Barker, Leaksville; B. H. Barnes, Lillington; W. Eugene Barnes, Raleigh; Miss Helen L. Baylor, Knoxville;

Record Number Of Votes Cast In Most Sensational Election In Many Years

List-Taker Notice

Taxpayers are reminded of the state law requiring all persons to appear before the list-taker of the township and give a true list of property, real and personal, before May 1st, by C. P. Hinshaw, list-taker for Chapel Hill township, and G. W. Ray, tax supervisor.

PLANS FOR VISIT OF CANADIAN ARE BEING PREPARED

International Relations Club To Be Organized Here Monday Night For Visit Sir Herbert Ames.

Sir Herbert Ames, distinguished lecturer on international relations, will visit the University under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. While here he will lecture Friday and Saturday on international problems and will conduct round table discussions on the subjects of his lectures.

Preparations for his visit are being made by a group headed by Ray Farris. The committee plans to organize an international relations club at the University with initial action to be taken Monday night at a meeting in 214 Saunders at 7:30 o'clock. Members of the committee are Fleming Wily, Red Greene, Marion Alexander, Travis Brown, Will Yarborough, John Lang, Bob Graham and Mac Gray.

Sir Herbert has had long and varied experience in public service. For eight years he was a member of the Montreal City Council. He represented his native city, Montreal, in the Dominion Parliament for seventeen years. During the World War Sir Herbert was Honorary Secretary General of the Canadian Patriotic Fund, which distributed nearly $50,000,000 for the support of wives and dependent relatives of Canadian soldiers.

From 1919 to 1926 he was financial director of the League of Nations Secretariat. Since that time he has been lecturing in all of the Canadian colleges and in over thirty American educational institutions.

Metzenthin To Speak At United Church At 7:30 Sunday Evening

Dr. E. C. Metzenthin of the German department is to talk tomorrow evening in the United Church at 7:30 p. m. upon the subject, "The Religious Conflict of Post War Europe."

The World War was the cause of a very serious religious conflict. As a result of the war, Protestantism seems to be tottering on the brink of a new and deep chasm—oblivion. The situation is serious enough to govern the political policies of a number of countries. Dr. Metzenthin is to discuss the present condition and the probable outcome of this conflict.

Dunn Wins Over Kincaid For Yackety Yack Editorship; Williams New Editor Magazine; Wheary To Edit Comic.

HAMER IS "Y" PRESIDENT

Sam Gorham Is "Y" Vice-President, Finch Chosen Secretary, And F. M. James Is Treasurer.

(By Frank J. Manheim)

The most sensational and dramatic election that the University has ever experienced closed yesterday afternoon with an all-time record vote of approximately 1800 ballots. The unprecedented excitement caused by a feverish effort during the week preceding yesterday's election resulted in a tremendous interest and active participation by a great majority of the student body. The successful candidates won by great majorities.

"Red" Greene, who was a candidate with Marion Alexander for the coveted office of president of the student body, polled 1123 votes to his opponent's 641. This caused great surprise in many parts of the campus for it was felt throughout yesterday that the most seriously and narrowly contested office would be that which "Red" Greene now holds.

The position of editor of the Daily Tar Heel was awarded by a vast majority to Will Yarborough who received 1132 votes as compared to Joe Jones' 635. Two more ballots were cast for this office than for that of president of the student body.

Williams Magazine Editor J. C. "Red" Williams' election by 1003 votes to Chace's 251 and Curtis' 489 was an unexpected turn in the day. The editorship of the Carolina Magazine was the cause of more "muddling" and "yellow" handbills on the part of the opposition than have ever been seen.

Clyde Dunn continued what some day may be referred to as the great massacre of 1930 and went into office as editor of the Yackety Yack with a vote of 1055 as against 638 for Douglas Kincaid.

The friends of Kermit Wheary celebrated his overwhelming defeat of Gil Pearson for editorship of the Buccaneer. The final result was Wheary, 1001; Pearson, 715.

Ed Hamer succeeded in carrying the presidency of the Y. M. C. A. with a vote of 1141, beating Claude Farrell by a 560 majority. Hamer's assistant will be Sam Gorham who received 1002 votes for the vice-presidency of the Y over the 723 received by Ellis Fysal. As secretary, Harry Finch will be able to rest secure knowing that 973 of the students cast their ballots for him rather than for John Miller, who received 699.

James Leads Ticket

F. M. "Pardner" James received the greatest number of votes of any candidate, 1178, and his opponent received but 526. He was candidate for the office of treasurer of the Y.
