

DISTANCE RACES EXPECTED TO BE CLOSE WITH PENN

Tar Heels Defending Record Of No Dual Meet Defeats In Eight Years.

Contests in the distance races promise to be the big feature of the North Carolina-Penn State track meet here Saturday afternoon.

Flying Tar Heel runners have won four consecutive southern cross-country titles, have kept Tar Heel track teams unbeaten in dual meets for eight years, and last Saturday raced to four new records in the classic Georgia Tech relays at Atlanta.

Penn State, drawing from veterans one of the strongest track teams in the country last year and from an undefeated cross-country team last fall, will pit against the Tar Heels some of the greatest distance stars in the country.

One of these is none other than the famous Paul Rekers, I. C. A. A. A. two-mile champion. Another is C. A. Meisinger, who placed third in the two-mile in the indoor intercollegiate at New York, and ran with Rekers on the Penn State team that lifted the 4-mile relay title at last year's Penn relays.

Another is Dick Detwiler, who made the third of Penn State's invincible cross-country trio. And so on down the line.

When the team that lifted four of six new records at the Tech relays meets the pride of the north in what should easily be the season's biggest inter-sectional meet in the south, the fireworks should be great indeed.

The new records set by the Tar Heels at Atlanta were Farmer's 9.8 seconds mark in the 100; and new relay marks of 1:29.06 for the half-mile; 3:24.7 for the mile, and 18:28.2 for the four-mile. The runners, besides Farmer, were Slusser, Gay, Nims, Weil, Stafford, Lowry, Baucom, Phoenix and Barkley.

SIDELIGHTS

by Sports Editor

Approximately 250,000 howling fans jammed seven big league ball parks to take in the opening games. The game between the world champion Athletics and the New York Yankees, the runners-up in the American League, drew the largest crowd in the American league with an attendance of 60,000 people, while the Chicago-St. Louis game drew 65,000.

Nearly all the clubs have been greatly strengthened by rookies and via the trading route. The New York Yankees will have two new faces on the left side of the field. Dusty Cooke, a Durham boy, takes Bob Meusel's old position in left field. Bob was sent down the river with Heleman of Detroit to Cincinnati to pull up the Reds' attack. Ben Chapman will play third base, the only weak spot in the Yankee infield.

The Chicago Cubs' chances for repeating were greatly increased by the return of power to Gabby Hartnett's throwing arm, otherwise the National league champions are standing pat, as are the Athletics.

The Pittsburgh Pirates will be greatly handicapped by the loss of Burrell Grimes, one of the few remaining spitters, and the injury to Pie Traynor, baseball's premier third sacker.

The Phillies, who have been climbing steadily will still feature baseball's greatest attack and their pitching has been greatly improved.

All in all indications show that both league races will be the closest in recent years. The race in the American league will again probably revolve around the Yankees and the Athletics, but what a fight that should be.

In the National league, all the clubs with the exception of the Boston Braves will be fighting fiercely for the top rung, although the Cubs are the slight favorites to repeat.

The Tar Heels certainly made a hit with the track fans in Atlanta. Four of the six new records were made by Carolina's representatives. Charlie Farmer, sophomore flash, crashed through the century to establish a new southern record of 9.8. Farmer was also greatly responsible for Carolina's record in the half mile relay. Three of the new records were set by the varsity. These were the century, half-mile relay, and the mile relay, while the Tar Baby two-mile relay team set a new record in that event. Ed Hamm, essaying his comeback campaign, set a new broad jump mark with a leap of 24 ft. 9 1-2 inches. There were no official scores kept but the Tar Heels with 5 first places led the field.

The basketball team suffered a severe setback in the Tri-State league when it dropped a double header to the Washington and Lee Generals. The scores were 10-2 and 7-6. This makes the third loss in four games that the Tar Heels have played so far. Their only victory was an 8-5 battle against the Cavaliers.

Kappa Alpha Wins

A heavy-hitting Kappa Alpha baseball team beat Kappa Sigma 8-3 yesterday in a one-sided contest. With the score standing 8-1 against it in the last inning, the Kappa Sigma team staged a rally that netted two runs but was cut short when Cole, a relief pitcher, struck out the last man with three on the bases. Morson, hurling for Kappa Alpha, allowed only three hits, while his teammates secured a total of eight.

Oliver, K. A., secured the only home-run of the day.

Annual Spring Golf Play Begins Saturday

The golf committee of the Chapel Hill Country Club is planning with the woman's social committee to make Saturday, April 19 a gala day on the golf links and in the club house. The ladies will serve tea, the golf committee is arranging to start the fourth of the spring tournaments. A handicap foursome flight tournament is planned in which the play will continue all day. The women will play their matches in the morning, starting at 9:30 o'clock and any of the male members that can arrange their foursome and prefer to play the match in the morning may do so. The winners in their particular flight will be required to play the winners in the flight below not later than next Wednesday or the match will be considered as forfeited by the committee. The names of the different players will be posted on the bulletin board as they are to be grouped Wednesday morning, with all other information pertaining to the rules. The women of the club are doing everything to make the day pleasant and the golf committee is anxious that every member come out and enter into the program of the day.

Tar Heels Lose Two Games To Generals

The Tar Heels lost a double-header baseball tilt to Washington and Lee at Lexington Monday 10-2 and 7-6.

Leigh Williams, pitching ace and star first sacker of the Generals, entered the last game in the fourth inning with the score 5-0 against him to stop the Tar Heels.

A total of six round trips were piled up in the two games with ex-captain Lufty taking two, and Whitehead one. The others went to Williams and Hanna.

Six errors in the morning game accounted for a large part of the Generals' win, while only two were made by the Tar Heels in the second game.

Frosh Lose 5-4

In a thrilling 12 inning game played on Emerson field yesterday afternoon the Duke frosh nine defeated the Tar Babies by the close score of 5-4. The Carolina first year men showed more power at the bat than did the Blue Imps, making 11 hits, three of which were home runs, to their opponents nine, but were erratic in the field and had the misfortune to make their fielding slips in the pinches.

McCaskill, who laced out four singles out of six times at bat, and Peacock, Riggs, and Ferebee, all of whom made home runs, were the main cogs in Carolina's batting attack, while Peacock and McCaskill turned in some good work afield. Copombs, a brother of the famous Earl Copombs, centerfielder of the New York Yankees, was the individual star of the day. In addition to getting two hits out of four times at bat and being walked twice, he pitched an excellent game, striking out 17 men in twelve innings, while McNeil and Scarboro, Tar Baby pitchers, could fan but 5.

Pi Kappa Phi's Win

Pi Kappa Phi defeated Sigma Delta 8 to 2 yesterday afternoon in a baseball game that was much more interesting than the score indicates. If Poole, pitching for Sigma Delta, had been given proper support the outcome would have been a different story entirely.

Slater pitched a good game of ball for Pi Kappa Phi, and with the aid of a smooth working infield had little trouble in keeping runs from crossing the plate.

GRANT FRANCHISE TO GAS COMPANY

Aldermen Vote to Allow Durham Concern to Lay Pipes Here in Chapel Hill

TOWN WILL BE CANVASSED

Last Wednesday night, the board of aldermen voted to grant a franchise to the Durham Gas Company. If a sufficient number of people here express a desire for its service, the company will proceed to lay a main from Durham to Chapel Hill and to put pipes under the streets. The work can be completed by July 15.

It all depends, however, upon the extent of the demand for gas here. Several hundred families already have electric ranges, and the University Consolidated Service Plants announced this month a reduction in the price of current. Moreover, there have been many installations of natural gas in tanks. The question is: in the face of this situation, how many citizens will sign up for gas service?

C. M. Crawford, general manager of the Durham and Raleigh gas companies (both of which are owned by the Southern Cities Utilities Company), says that the Durham concern will extend its service here if it can enroll from 275 to 300 consumers in Chapel Hill and along the route from Durham. The company's representatives are to make a survey at once to ascertain if there are that many householders who want gas.

In applying to the aldermen for a franchise Mr. Crawford said that the same rates would apply here as in Durham and Raleigh. The charge is $1.80 per 1,000 for the first 5,000 cubic feet each month, and goes down as consumption increases.

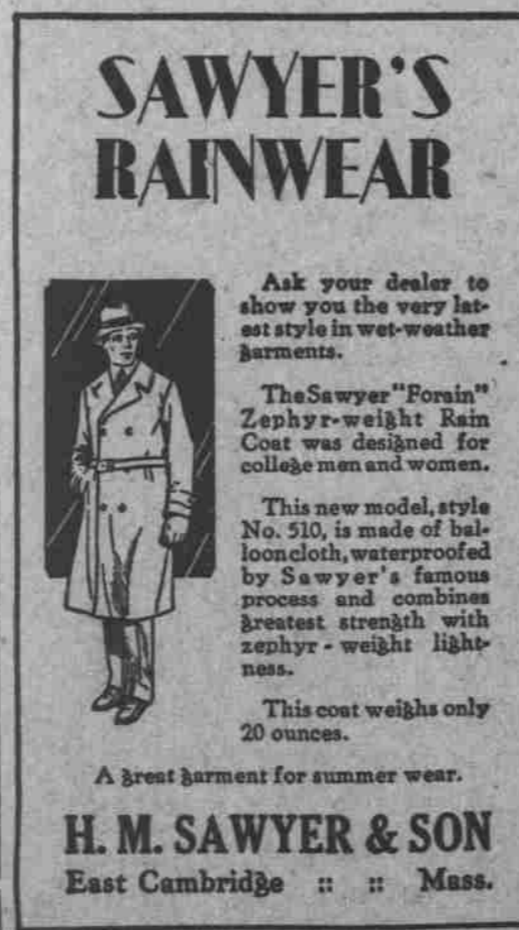

Henderson Signs To Furnish Features

Dr. Archibald Henderson, head of the mathematics department in the University, has just accepted a contract to succeed the late Garrett P. Serviss as feature writer of articles on science for the King Features Syndicate, Inc., one of the greatest circulation combinations in the world.

Mr. Serviss was one of the leading authors and feature writers of the country. His forte was the popularization of scientific subjects and names. He knew how to treat the most complex subjects in a popular and fascinating way, and his lectures and books did much to interest the layman in astronomy. The selection of Dr. Henderson to succeed him comes as a distinct honor to the University.

Dr. Henderson's books and contributions to magazines testify to his knowledge of the extraordinary advance of physics and chemistry upon which are based most of today's wonders of science.

Authoritatively, but in a lucid language that all can understand, he reads the riddles of progress, in which everybody in this ultra-modern day is interested."

"SONG OF THE WEST AT THE CAROLINA TODAY

Roberto Guzman, who plays one of the important roles in "Song of the West," the Warner Bros.' all-natural color, talking, singing, dancing picture, at the Carolina theatre today, has had a career equally as adventurous as that experienced by any pioneer of covered wagon days.

Guzman is a native of Mexico. Ten years ago he rose to be confidential secretary of Adolfo de la Huerta, first Provisional President of Mexico. Later de la Huerta started a revolt against Obregon, which eventually failed because the United States refused to give recognition to the revolutionists. De la Huerta fled to the United States. Guzman, who was hotly pursued, escaped in the funnel of a smokestack on a freight steamer leaving Tampico.

The Federals searched the boat for two days, but could find nothing. Then the captain, a friend of Guzman, steamed away—after having cut off the smoke in the one funnel.

De la Huerta started life as a piano player in a Mazatlan honky tonk. He met Guzman there. After the debacle de la Huerta, who also has a fine voice, came to Los Angeles and started a school for piano and voice. He persuaded Guzman, who has always been a singer, that he had a fine chance in the talkies.

As a result, Guzman won one of the principal roles in "The Desert Song," and later was cast in "Song of the West," directed by Ray Enright, John Boles, Vivienne Segal, Marie Wells, Joe E. Brown, Sam Hardy and many other notables are in the cast. "Song of the West" is an adaptation of "Rainbow" by Laurence Stallings and Oscar Hammerstein II. Vincent Youmans did the music. Ray Enright directed.

There were 99 students registered in the University summer school in 1910.
