

TAR HEEL MEETING
TONIGHT
7 O'CLOCK - ALUMNI BLDG.

The Daily Tar Heel

TAR HEEL MEETING
TONIGHT
7 O'CLOCK - ALUMNI BLDG.

VOLUME XXXVIII

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., ~~Monday~~, APRIL 29, 1930

NUMBER 155

MELODRAMA OF EIGHTIES TO BE PRODUCED HERE

Company Of Faculty And University Persons To Produce Play May 2 and 3.

The "Imperial Stock Company," a dramatic organization made up of faculty members, will soon present "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," which will be produced for the poor relief in Orange County. The group has been working for six weeks on this play in their "studio" which is an old livery stable in Carrboro. The play will be presented in the Playmakers Theatre next Friday and Saturday May 2 and 3, at 8 o'clock in the evening. "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" is a play dramatized from the novel of the same name written by Bertha M. Clay.

The production of this play in Chapel Hill is similar to the work which Christopher Morley has been doing in Hoboken, N. J., where he has been presenting the "Black Crook," and other plays, and is similar to what is being done in London. It is a very sophisticated melodrama of the English nobility of the '90's. When the play was presented at that time, it was taken seriously and was very popular. In all, it proves very interesting work to the producers and will be very enjoyable to those who see it.

The story is that of a son of a high noble family who falls in love with a poor girl of lower society, and marries her. He tries to bring her into his home, Ryvvers Well, which is a beautiful mansion, but the Dowager Lady Ryvvers practically runs her out of the house. It is a struggle of a proud lady of high society with a poor girl of lower caste. The girl goes out into the world and meets hunger, disease, a snow-storm, the bread line, and other accompaniments of poverty. All through the play this young wife is pursued by the villain, Oscar Carstone, which is played by Mr. Howard Mumford Jones. This villain's preferred help is but ruin in disguise. The birth of a little baby under soul-moving circumstances finally helps to break the proud spirit of the Dowager Lady Ryvvers.

There will be music and circus novelties between the acts which will all help in the sentimentality. A Barbers' Quartet will sing, there will be a women's duet which will sing "The Bicycle Built for Two," and some selections will be given on mouth organs. It will all picture in a most amusing and pleasant manner the English and American stage of the '80's and is bound to be interesting to all.

The personnel of the Imperial Stock Company, the faculty group which is presenting the play is as follows: Lessees for the company, Paul Green and Wilbur Daniel Steele; Director of the play, Howard Mumford Jones; Chairman of the Finance Committee: Oscar J. Coffin; In charge of the scenery which is being painted and arranged in the "studio" in Carrboro, B. C. Sellers, assisted by Margaret Steele and Elizabeth Lay Green; Director of music and novelties, Adeline Denham McCall; Collector of properties, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Adams; In charge of costumes, Mrs. Prouty and

(Continued on last page)

Tar Heel Meeting

The members of the editorial and reportorial staffs of the Daily Tar Heel will meet for a thirty minute meeting tonight in the basement of Alumni building.

Six new men will be taken on, and important announcements concerning the awarding of charms and course credits will be made. All persons who do not attend will be dropped.

MAGAZINE HEAD WILL INAUGURATE STAFF MEETINGS

New Editor To Adopt Policy Of The Tar Heel Of Weekly Meetings.

Following the example set by the Daily Tar Heel staff this collegiate year, the new Carolina Magazine staff will hold regular meetings. The first of these will occur Sunday night, May 18. The editor states that the staff will meet at 7:30 each Sunday night after the issuance of the magazine in the morning. The purpose of these meetings on alternate Sunday nights after the appearance of each issue is to unify the staff and to discuss the errors in each issue with a view to improving succeeding issues.

The new editor is particularly desirous of having several short stories submitted. No definite staff will be formulated until the second issue. The staff positions will be awarded on the basis of material submitted for the two issues that the new editor will publish this spring. The new editorial control wishes to emphasize the fact that the Carolina Magazine is open to the entire campus for contributions, believing that this will raise the quality of the material, rather than lower it.

All contributions should be addressed to J. C. Williams, Box 710.

SUMMER SCHOOL PLANS COMPLETE

Arrangements Conform to Those Of Former Sessions.

The 1930 session of the University summer school will open on Thursday, June 12, and continue for 12 weeks, closing on Friday, August 29. The session will be divided into two terms of six weeks each. The first term will begin on Thursday, June 12, and close on Tuesday, July 22. The second will begin the next day and will close on August 29.

The summer school is organized into three general divisions, the college division, the graduate division and the division of elementary education. The college division includes the work of the college of liberal arts and of the schools of education, commerce, applied science and public welfare. The graduate division includes all the courses carrying strictly graduate credit. The division of elementary education has all the courses of undergraduate grade which are designed especially for elementary teachers.

Swain hall will be open during the summer sessions and will have room for 700 boarders. New Dorms and the graduate

(Continued on page four)

Ends Ten Years' Service

President Chase tomorrow will have been president of the University of North Carolina for ten years. He was inaugurated as head of the University here on April 28, 1920.

Tomorrow Chase Will Have Been President Here Decade

Monday Is Tenth Anniversary of Chase's Inauguration as President On April 28, 1920; Lowell of Harvard, Hibben of Princeton, and Dr. Mann of War Department Among Distinguished Witnesses.

(By Charles G. Rose, Jr.)

On April 28, 1920, one of the most progressive decades in the history of the University had its beginning. It was on that day in Memorial hall that Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase was inaugurated President of the University of North Carolina before approximately 2000 people.

People had journeyed from all over the state; representatives were present from practically every university and college in the south; all had gathered in Memorial hall to witness the inauguration of the ninth president of the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Chase repeated his oath of office after Chief Justice Walter Clark, after which Governor Thomas W. Bickett presented the new president with the seal and charter of the University.

On the platform with President Chase were President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, President John G. Hibben of Princeton and Dr. Charles R. Mann of the war department, all of whom pledged to the new president their support.

Following the oath of office, numerous other speeches were made, pledging to President Chase support in his new office. Dr. Ivey F. Lewis, speaking for President Alderman of the University of Virginia, pledged the good wishes of the state universities of the country.

President W. L. Poteat of Wake Forest, speaking for the colleges in the state, told the new president that "we pledge to you the adventure and romance of finding the way of right in a foggy time and calling after you the strength and hope of young North Carolina."

Others who pledged their support to the University's new head official were W. N. Everette of Rockingham, who spoke as a representative of the 10,000 alumni, and Dr. Archibald Henderson, for the faculty, who pledged its support to their former colleague.

Dr. Chase, who had lived in Chapel Hill since 1910, was, prior to his election, dean of the college of liberal arts and later chairman of the faculty. Born in Massachusetts in 1883, he was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1904 with the degree of A. B., and four years later from the same college he received his M. A. degree. In 1910 he was granted the Ph. D. degree at Clark University, where he was during his last year director of a clinic for subnormal children.

Coming to the presidency just at the time when the University had begun its expansion, President Chase took up the work where the beloved E. K. Graham had left off. Since that time much advancement can be noted in every branch of the University.

In the development of the physical plant of the University, eight new dormitories for men and one for women have been erected. Saunders, Murphey, Manning, Venable and Bingham halls have all been built, besides the complete renovation of practically every old building on the campus which has put them in the class of their modern sister buildings. Then the beautiful University library, which was dedicated last October, crowned the material development of the past decade.

The University has also made much advancement in the way of athletic equipment. The Kenan Memorial Stadium has

(Continued on page two)

New Men Wanted

The new managing editor announces that there are six new beats on the Daily Tar Heel open to competition. Three are straight news beats, and three are sports beats.

Membership on the Daily Tar Heel carries with it, besides the valuable experience, course credit toward graduation, recognition in the Yackety Yack, and gold Tar Heel charms.

NEGRO ISSUE OF MAGAZINE READY TO GO TO PRESS

Last Number By Retiring Editors Carries Material By Prominent Negro Authors and Poets.

Material for the annual Negro Number of The Carolina Magazine came into chapel Hill at the last minute, and the issue will be ready to go to press before the end of the week. This will be the last number of the literary publication to be edited by the present staff.

The leading article for this issue is a discussion of the verse of Countee Cullen, one of the foremost of the younger Negro poets, by Emile Trevelle Holley. Lewis Alexander has a story, "Red Moon Time." There will be another story by Mae Miller, and a play, "The Nude Siren: A Farce," by Willis Richardson. Many of the outstanding younger poets have sent in verse, among them being Waring Cuney, Carrie W. Clifford, Donald Jeffrey Hayes, Sterling A. Brown, and H. Von Avery. Several books dealing with the Negro and Negro life have been received for review.

The Negro Number of the Magazine has become an annual feature. Each year the circulation of this issue has grown larger. The present issue is made possible through the courtesy of Lewis Alexander, a poet and a critic, who is co-editor of

(Continued on page two)

ED HAMER STATE Y CABINET HEAD

Meeting In Greensboro Of Presidents and Secretaries Results In Choice of University Man.

President Ed Hamer of the University Y. M. C. A. has just been elected president of the cabinet of the Y. M. C. A.'s of the colleges and universities of the state. A meeting was held in Greensboro over the week-end which was attended by the president and secretary of the association in each of the institutions of the state. At this meeting, Hamer was elected president of the cabinet, A. C. Clark of State College was elected vice-president, and W. M. Upchurch of Duke was elected secretary and treasurer. Those who attended the meeting from the University of North Carolina were Ed Hamer and H. F. Comer.

Ed Hamer is a former treasurer of the local Y as well as its present president, is a member of the Grail and the Minotaur, and was commence marshal at the last commencement, assistant editor of the Yackety Yack, and a member of Epsilon Phi Delta fraternity.

FACULTY PLANS TO MAKE FLUNKS START STUDYING

New Measure Before Undergraduate Faculty Provides For Still Higher Scholarship.

At a meeting of the undergraduate faculty Friday a motion was introduced stating that "a student who has attended college, here or elsewhere, for as much as one academic year, must, in order to continue in the University any given quarter, have passed at least one course the preceding quarter and four courses in the two preceding quarters of his residence. (Courses passed in summer school, in interpreting this restriction, are to be excluded.)" This resolution was presented as a requirement to be added to the present regulations governing academic eligibility for sophomores, juniors and seniors. Dr. W. D. Toy, executive-secretary of the faculty, stated that this motion was made as a recommendation from the committee of deans but that it had not been adopted by the committee or voted upon by the undergraduate faculty. "The faculty is in favor of a movement of this nature tending toward higher requirements," Dean Addison Hibbard stated before the meeting. The resolution has been referred to the committee from which it originated.

Dr. Gay made the statement that Dean W. N. Walker of the school of education in his detailed report on entrance requirements of schools over the entire country emphasized the fact that the entrance requirements here belong in the class of those of universities and colleges having strict entrance requirements and also that the present requirements of the University are very much like those of the better schools of the United States. No need was cited at the meeting for any change in the present requirements here, since they compare very favorably with those of Harvard, Yale and other institutions of higher learning.

"It is a tendency of the undergraduate faculty," Dr. Toy impressed upon the Tar Heel reporter, "to make requirements of good scholarship somewhat more rigid without being extravagant. The comprehensive examination, above all other examinations on courses and which is a general quiz that does not ask mere facts, but which is intended to show that a student is able to correlate his studies in his major, is an example of this tendency." Seniors in the college of liberal arts will take their comprehensive examinations Wednesday.

The regulation requiring students to make an average of "C" on at least half of their courses has already been passed and will go into effect at the beginning of school next fall.

Tickets For Play

Tickets for the forthcoming production of the Imperial Stock Company to be called "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" are now on sale at the Students' Supply Store at one dollar each. The play will be given for the Chapel Hill audience both Friday and Saturday nights of this week.