

CONEY SCHEDULED TO SPEAK BEFORE TAYLOR SOCIETY

Assistant Librarian To Tell Group Of Scientific Library Management Monday.

Donald Coney, assistant librarian of the University, will speak before the local student branch of the Taylor Society on "Libraries and Scientific Management" tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in room 103 Bingham hall.

In his talk Mr. Coney, who has been connected with library work for ten years, will discuss the place of scientific management in educational institutions as well as the functionalized organization of libraries and standardization of library methods and personnel.

The field which Mr. Coney will treat is one in which no organized work has been done, although there has been activity in the scientific management of libraries since the beginning of the scientific management movement.

The discussion which Mr. Coney will present Monday will be very general, for it is impossible to treat in an hour a subject on which he states an entire volume could be written.

The field of scientific library management is one which offers almost limitless opportunity, for as yet the field has scarcely been touched.

Mr. Coney, who has been connected with library work for ten years, was with the library at the University of Michigan for several years and was then librarian at the University of Maryland before coming to Carolina a year and a half ago.

The speaker has been actively interested in the subject of scientific library management, and is well qualified to speak on the subject which he will discuss tomorrow.

The Taylor Society, of which the local organization is a student branch, is an international organization for the promotion of the art and science of scientific management and administration, and as such the local group has held a series of meetings during the year at which faculty members and outside speakers have presented subjects related to scientific management.

The meetings of the society are open to the public, and the officers of the group extend an invitation to any who may be interested in hearing Mr. Coney.

Frosh Council Banquet

The freshman friendship council will meet at an annual banquet tomorrow night in the basement room of the Methodist church at 6:30. This banquet, planned for some time, will be the climax of the quarter's program.

The officers of next year's sophomore cabinet are to be elected tomorrow from a list of nominees already drawn up.

A Correction

The Tar Heel was erroneously informed concerning the recent election of the Glee Club Librarian. In correction we announce that Alden J. Stahr, of East Orange, N. J., was unanimously chosen to serve as librarian for 1930-31.

Tar Heel Meeting

The regular weekly meeting of the Daily Tar Heel staff will convene tonight in the basement of Alumni building. Members of the reportorial staff will gather at 7:15. City editors will meet at 7:00. New beats will be assigned at this meeting, from which nobody will be excused. The rule whereby two absences drops a member from the staff will be enforced. Both the editor and the managing editor will be present.

BAND CONCERT AT CAROLINA TODAY

The University band will give a benefit concert this afternoon at 2:30 in the Carolina theatre.

Following an instrumental program of about 45 minutes in length, the picture, "Sweetie," will be shown through the courtesy of the theatre manager, E. C. Smith. The picture stars Nancy Carroll and is supposed to have taken place in western North Carolina.

A silver offering will be taken to secure necessary funds for the band, a condition which has arisen from the fact that the University has been entirely unable to support the organization this year.

COMMENCEMENT BEGINS ON JUNE 7

Davidson College President Will Preach Baccalaureate Sermon June 8

ELEVEN CLASS REUNIONS

Class Day exercises on Saturday, June seventh, will formally open the University of North Carolina commencement exercises which will last through June tenth.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by W. L. Lingle, eleventh president of Davidson College, who will have been inaugurated at that institution on June first.

On Sunday afternoon at five o'clock there will be a band concert under Davie poplar and in the evening the Y. M. C. A. will hold vesper services.

At ten-thirty on Monday in Gerrard hall Judge Francis D. Winston, as usual is to preside over the Alumni meeting, calling the classes holding reunions to come on the platform and having their presidents tell something about them.

The alumni luncheon will be presided over by President W. T. Shore of the Alumni Association at twelve-thirty in Swain hall.

Following another band concert in the afternoon under the poplar, class suppers are to begin at six o'clock. At nine o'clock President Chase gives a reception after which the annual Alumni ball will be given in the Tin Can.

The speaker for commencement day is John H. Finley, editor of the New York Times, who was here in 1904 for the same purpose. Exercises are to begin at eleven o'clock and if the weather is clear they will be held in the open space around the Davie poplar. Dr. Hubert Hayward of Raleigh, is chief marshal.

FULL SCHEDULE OF DANCES HELD

Junior and Senior Affairs Well Attended; Sigma Zeta Fraternity, Phi and Grail Give Dances.

A full week-end of dances was completed last night with the Grail's final social event of the year. This dance was given in Bynum gymnasium from 9 to 12, music for the affair being rendered by Russ Bolin and his Ohio Cotton Pickers. According to those attending, the dance was a big success.

The junior tea dance given Friday afternoon from 6 to 9 was the first dance of the week-end. Henry House, Herb Nelson and Jack Lindley led this dance, while the committee in charge of the dance was Artie Marpet, Will Yarborough, Tom Craig, Mayne Albright and Pat Patterson.

This dance had been planned to be the annual junior prom, but on account of the other dances it was changed to a tea dance. The attendance at the dance was very good, according to reports.

Immediately following the junior dance, the seniors gave their annual dance. Leaders for the dance were Red Greene, Julian Fenner and Bob Merritt, who led a very attractive figure. This dance, which was a formal affair, was played for by Russ Bolin and his Ohio Cotton Pickers, who played for the junior dance also.

Another dance given Friday afternoon was the annual spring dance of the Philanthropic Assembly. This dance, a tea dance, was given in the Phi hall from 6 to 9 o'clock. The hall was elaborately decorated by Charles Whedbee. Refreshments were served to the 30 members of the Phi and their girls and guests. Music for the affair was played by Jack Wardlaw and his orchestra.

EPISCOPAL TEAS COME TO CLOSE

Parish House Entertainments Have Brought Students and Faculty Closer Together.

The curtain will ring down on one of the most successful activities of the year this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock when the last tea of the quarter will be held in the Episcopal parish house.

Made possible through contributions from the many Episcopal women's organizations in the state, these affairs have become widely known as valuable contributions to the student life here. They have not only served to furnish a period of wholesome entertainment for student recreation, but, in addition, have offered occasion for meetings of faculty and students which would not have otherwise been possible.

Thus, the student teas have become a unique and important addition to the social life of the University community.

Rev. A. S. Lawrence, rector of the parish, has had general supervision of the teas, but the major part of the work and responsibility has been willingly assumed by Mrs. J. H. Anderson. Mrs. Anderson, who is to leave Chapel Hill soon to make her home in Raleigh, is one of the state's prominent clubwomen and a religious and social worker. She has successfully carried on the teas, planning the programs and providing for refreshments.

Entertainment for these affairs has been unusually varied, featuring the best of talent from among the students and faculty and ranging from musical saw solos to readings of original poetry.

MAJOR CAIN THREATENS TO SUE CHAPEL HILL EDITOR

Says Louis Graves Has Libelled Him In Referring to His Age As 86; Will Hurt His Chances In Matrimony.

Major William Cain, one of the state's grand old men, has threatened to enter into a friendly law suit against Louis Graves, editor of the famous Chapel Hill Weekly.

The Major alleges that Editor Graves heaped libel upon him by referring to his age as 86. The Major avers that he is only 83, and that three years makes a whale of a lot of difference with a man who is still in the market for matrimony.

The Major has never married, but, says he, "a man never gets to old for marriage, and I still consider myself an eligible bachelor."

The Cain birthday was celebrated Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Nash gave a dinner party for him at their home, and invited many of his close friends in for the feast.

Years and honors sit lightly upon Major Cain, who was formerly head of the department, and is now professor emeritus, of mathematics in the University. He has a keen intellect, a kind heart and an intense interest in the problems of his profession.

When the Civil War broke out he was too young to fight in the army of the Confederacy, but he was such a master of military tactics that he was selected to drill large bodies of that army. Again he was prepared to practice law, but discovered that he was too young to stand the bar examination or to go before the courts. These are but two incidents in the life of Major Cain.

One of the foremost authorities in America on earth pressure and retaining walls, the author of eight authoritative books on mathematics and civil engineering, a writer of scientific papers for learned journals, a violin player of no mean ability, a sportsman who enjoys hunting, fishing and riding, a member of society who is genial, witty and pleasant in his intercourse with friends and relatives—few men have lived lives as full and varied.

"You have five or six professions," said his friend, the late Dr. Whitehead. "You're a teacher of mathematics, a civil engineer, a violinist, a hunter, a fisherman, and several other men."

Magazine Staff Meeting

The first of the regular bi-monthly Carolina Magazine staff meetings will convene tonight at the magazine office in the basement of Alumni building at 7:30. All candidates for the tentative staff must be present unless excused by the editor.

Editor.

BEARD ELECTED PHARMACY HEAD

Presides Over Annual Session Of Pharmaceutical Associations.

At the recent meeting of national pharmaceutical organizations, Professor J. G. Beard of the University's school of pharmacy, was elected a member of the executive committee of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, and was made president of the National Conference of Pharmaceutical Associations.

Professor Beard was also nominated as first vice-president of the American Pharmaceutical Association, the election to be decided by mail ballot. Professor Beard presided over the annual sessions of the Association of Colleges referred to above.

UMSTEAD IS TO RUN FOR SENATE

General Opinion Is That He Will Win Democratic Nomination June 7

WELL-KNOWN IN COUNTY

John W. Umstead has announced that he will enter the Democratic primary June 7 as a candidate for the state senate from Orange county.

The prevailing opinion hereabouts is that he will win over J. Clyde Ray, the only other contestant for the Democratic nomination. Mr. Umstead came from Durham two or three years ago to make his home here, but even before he became a resident of Orange he had a wide acquaintance throughout the county. A graduate of the University in the class of 1909, he is the representative in this section of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company.

His friends welcome with delight the announcement of his candidacy and they are going to make a vigorous campaign for him.

Another Chapel Hill resident who will have his name on the Democratic primary ballot is S. W. Andrews. He is running for register of deeds. L. J. Phipps of Chapel Hill and Sam Gattis, Jr., of Hillsboro are seeking the nomination for assemblyman from Orange.

HARLANDS TO BE HOSTS TO TAFT

Lorado Taft, who will speak at the University within the next few days, will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Harland on Briarbridge Lane during his stay in Chapel Hill. Friends who wish to see Mr. Taft are invited to call on him at the above address.

Infirmiry List

The following persons are confined to the infirmiry: V. E. Rubel, chicken pox; I. Rice, cold; W. D. Croom, mumps; J. F. Mewborne, cold; and S. D. Jackson, with a cold.

MRS. KENAN GIVES $25,000 TO HELP NEW COLLECTION

Wilmington Woman Gives Money For Southern Collection Of Historical Material.

Another generous gift has been added to the already long list of benefactions of the Kenan family. Mrs. Graham Kenan has recently given $25,000 to the University to be used for the southern collection of historical material which has been established at the University.

The Kenans have been outstanding in their generosity to the University. Back in 1905 Mrs. Henry M. Flagler, who was Mary Lily Kenan before her marriage, gave to the library a fund to be used in the collection of books and material relating to the Civil War. This collection is known as the Kenan Collection of Civil War Books. At her death Mrs. Flagler, then Mrs. Robert Bingham, left to the University a fund of a million and a half dollars for the establishment of the Kenan professorships.

Soon after the World War Mrs. Graham Kenan established the Graham Kenan Fellowship in Philosophy in memory of her husband, and in the spring of 1927 William Rand Kenan gave to the University, in memory of his father and mother, the magnificent stadium which was completed in the fall of that year.

The recent gift enables the University to carry on with much more effectiveness its program for the collection of manuscripts and documents relating to the history of the south.

PHI TO DISCUSS RECENT CUT IN APPROPRIATIONS

The Phi Assembly at its regular session Tuesday night, will discuss the present situation in regard to the cut in the appropriations for the University. The bill as submitted is as follows: "Resolved, That the legislature of North Carolina should be called upon to support its institutions in the proper manner."

This question has been widely discussed since the appropriations to the University have been cut recently to the amount of $170,000 yearly.

The Assembly in its last meeting rejected by a large majority a bill submitted by Representative Nazareno of the Philippine Islands for immediate independence of the Philippines.

The rejection of this measure called forth the criticism from the Filipino that the Phi defeated the measure due to false statements submitted by Representatives Stanley, Kelly, Jackson and Hoobgood. At the coming meeting Representative Nazareno will probably submit his criticisms to the Assembly. This will undoubtedly call forth a defense of the stand taken by the representatives.

Debate Council

The old and new debate councils will meet together Monday night at 7:30 in 210 Murphey hall. The old council will officially turn over the reins of office to the new members. Immediately following, the new council will choose a president.
