

COURSE FOR CAKE RACE IS MAPPED OUT BY OFFICIALS

Organization Entering Largest Number of Runners Will Receive Prize.

The course over which the Cake Race to be held October 23 will be run has finally been announced by athletic officials. The race will start at the north end of Freshman Field, go by way of the Tin Can up the Raleigh road and under the railroad trestle to the Carolina Inn. From the Carolina Inn it goes one block up Cameron Avenue and turns to the left up Pittsboro St., to Pittsboro Highway, then turns to the left at the intersection of the street and the highway and back to the Raleigh road by way of Pittsboro Highway and from there through the gate in Emerson Field next to Freshman Field and finishes with one lay around the track.

A prize is offered for the organization entering the most men, a prize for the team qualifying the most men in the first 100, prizes for the ten teams having the lowest scores, and prizes for the first seventy-five men to finish. Among the prizes offered are neckties, theatre tickets, watches, meal tickets, cakes, shirts, socks, and medals. The winner of the Cake Race has without exception proved to be one of the outstanding men on either the track or cross-country teams. Harry Thach, the 1923 winner, developed into a 4:30 miler as a varsity track man. Galen Elliot, winner in 1925, won the Southern Conference mile run in 1926, setting a new record of 4:21.2. This was the best time made by any college runner in 1926 and

INTRAMURAL RESULTS

INTRAMURAL TENNIS

Intramural tennis competition was rained out yesterday, as a rather unsteady drizzle kept up throughout the entire day.

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL

Out of the five scheduled games yesterday afternoon in tag football, two teams made an appearance on the field. Kappa Alpha was awarded a 2-0 forfeit game over the Pi Kappa Alphas. New Dorms made an appearance and their opponents, Manly, did not appear to contest the victory, giving New Dorms the decision by 2-0.

COACHES STRESS DEFENSE TACTICS

Tar Heels Come Through Maryland Game With Only Minor Injuries.

Coaches Collins and Cerny sent the Tar Heel football team through defensive drills to correct the faults brought out in the Maryland game and begin preparation for Saturday's contest with the Georgia Bulldogs.

Six backfields and the ends spent the afternoon in drilling on pass defense. Coach Cerny, not satisfied with the showing of the backs in this department of the game against Maryland, was careful to see that the ball carriers covered their men more closely.

Tackles and guards were busy with continued drills at blocking on offense and breaking up interference on defense. Ends who were not in the pass defense drills worked on the pucks for a part of the afternoon.

Fewer injuries were received by the team from Maryland than from either V. P. I. or Wake Forest, and the team is in good shape physically except for a few minor injuries to Henry House and Larry Johnson. June Underwood, not getting into the game Saturday, gave his injured knee a chance to heal. George Thompson's bad knee is practically well now.

Herb Nelson, in Watts Hospital at Durham, is greatly improved, but will not be out for several weeks. Irwin Walker is taking light workouts with the team, but will be on the bench for some time longer because of his broken wrist.

Coach Collins intimated yesterday that there would be hard work for the team today and

By K. C. RAMSAY

THE OLD LINERS DO NOT SEEM TO LIKE SMALL QUARTERBACKS, for on two successive Saturdays they lost games because of spectacular runs by Johnny Branch and Albie Booth. Booth carried the ball twelve times against Maryland and gained 114 yards, or nine and one-half yards each try. To match this performance our own Johnny made two runs for touchdowns against the Liners, one for 94 and the other for 36 yards.

It is very early in the season for any one to make predictions about candidates for all-Southern and all-American teams, but with our own 156-pound field general and broken-field star making runs of 65, 84 and 94 yards in the first three games of the season, we do not think it amiss to call attention to such consistent performances. Tar Heel quarterbacks seem to have developed a fancy for turning opponents' punts into spectacular touchdown runs. Pete Wyrick fell only a few yards short of the last stripe in his 74-yard return of Chalmers' punt Saturday.

STIFF OPPOSITION FOR the Tar Heel line is helping them to remove weaknesses and rough spots more rapidly now. We believe that the green forwards will perform like veterans in the coming stiff engagements, if they continue to improve as they have during the past three games. Maryland didn't seem to enjoy hitting the Tar Heel line during the first half of the game; it was only during the second half when Fullback Evans started his fake reverse play that they got going through the "Big Blue" line, and the Tar Heels were on to that before the game ended. If youngsters such as Bud McIver, Harry Hodges, Roy McDade and Larry Johnson continue to improve, it won't be long before Carolina's line will compare favorably with the traditional strong and powerful Tar Heel forward wall.

GEORGIA'S VICTORY OVER

Yale makes it look as though the Tar Heels will have awfully rough sledding down at Athens this week-end, but we are planning to go down there to see the Tar Heels upset the Bulldogs' hopes for the conference title. Coach Collins' team is just the one to do this. Remember that Georgia Tech was supposed to beat the Tar Heels down at Atlanta about this time last year?

IT SEEMS NOW THAT TWO

big games are scheduled for Kenan stadium for the rest of the year instead of one. The Georgia Tech game is expected to draw the largest crowd of the year, but now that Duke has upset Davidson's hopes for the state title, we believe that the Tar Heels and Blue Devils will have to settle the "Big Five" controversy here December 6. Jimmy DeHart's team has developed considerably this year, and probably will get even stronger with more seasoning.

STATE COLLEGE IS HAVING a hard time with the Notre Dame system. Well, it took Carolina several years to learn Rockne's style of play. With the green material which Van Liew has at Raleigh it will be hard for him to get a strong

GEORGIA BATTLE SATURDAY WILL RENEW RIVALRY

Game May Have Important Bearing on Conference Race.

With the Maryland game a matter of history, the University of North Carolina football squad was thinking tonight in terms of the invasion of Georgia next Saturday when the Tar Heels and Bulldogs will lock horns in the 11th chapter of a 35-year-old gridiron rivalry.

Tar Heel supporters, looking at such stars as Captain Nash, Branch, Magner, House, and the rest, claim the strongest backfield in the South for the home-staters. Georgia's veteran eleven is conceded to be one of the strongest Southern machines in all departments.

The clash will be the first elimination affair in the heated Southern Conference race, and this fact, plus the intensity of the ancient rivalry, promises to draw a record crowd. North Carolina will contribute its share, it's certain, for excitement is running high hereabouts, so high that special cars have already been arranged from all the big towns to carry the Tar Heel invaders to Athens.

Tar Heel and Bulldog held their first two gridiron clashes in 1895, with the North Carolinians winning twice, 6-0, and 10-6. Doggie Trenchard of Princeton was coach, and Edwin Clarke Gregory of Salisbury was captain.

Since that opening game, the old rivals have met 10 times at intervals over a 35-year period. The series shows 7 victories for Carolina, 3 for Georgia, with
