COMMUNITY CLUB HEARS LIBRARIAN

Mrs. M. L. Skaggs Talks of Magazine Facilities in University Library.

Mrs. M. L. Skaggs, who has charge of the magazine department of the University library, talked to the literature department of the Community Club at its regular monthly meeting in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Skaggs talked of the magazine facilities of the library and the use of the reader's guide. She stated that there are about 22,000 magazines published in the United States and Canada, and that the University library receives over 3000 of these each month. There are a great number of bound volumes in the library, and by a system of exchange others are borrowed from libraries elsewhere.

Mrs. R. L. Boggs read an article, "The Chicago Complex," which appeared in the October Atlantic Monthly.

Following this there was a general discussion of magazines and magazine articles for the month of October.

The department will meet again November 4 in the social room of the Methodist church. Dr. George Howe will talk on "Virgil." Mrs. P. C. Farrar, chairman of the department, states that they would be glad to have any one who is interested attend this meeting and hear Dr. Howe.

Judges Visit Stations

Launch Contest in Beautification; Verdict Next Summer

Mrs. H. R. Totten, Mrs. J. M. Valentine, G. M. Braune, Carl Durham, and T. F. Woolfer, the judges in the filling station improvement contest, visited 16 stations in Chapel Hill township last Sunday afternoon.

They took photographs of every station while the proprietor looked on in approval and expressed his gratification that his place was receiving attention. The station men listened eagerly to suggestions about beautifying both the buildings and the surroundings. The judges made copious notes as well as photographs, and when they go around again in June they will be able to compare the October 1930 and the June 1931 appearance of every place.

Prizes have been offered for the greatest improvement in appearance between now and next summer.

Filling station proprietors may obtain shrubs from W. C. Coker without cost; and he will also give them information about planting.

DEBATE SQUAD TO HEAR ZIMMERMAN

The Tar Heel debate squad will meet in 201 Murphey at 7 o'clock Thursday night to hear E. W. Zimmerman, economics professor, discuss free trade, the subject of the dual debate with State College, November 20 and December 9.

Zimmerman, an authority on commerce, will define the term "free trade," and show how its meaning has changed since 1800. Eligibility to compete for a place on the team for this debate is dependable upon attendance at this lecture. Both men and women may compete. Attention is called to the change in time of the meeting.

President Graham Good As His Word

Takes Plane to Get to Georgia Game, As He Promised.

Greenwood, S. C., Oct. 19—When President Frank Graham of the University of North Carolina promises the "that he will be on the bench to watch them play a football game, obstacles in his path are merely little things to overcome.

On a train which he expected to reach Athens in time to witness the Georgia-North Carolina game yesterday he found it was about two hours behind schedule and would not arrive in time for him to even hear the final whistle.

At Whitmire, S. C., he sent two telegrams, to Greenville and Greenwood, asking whether airplane service could be had.

On arrival of his train here he found Greenwood could not furnish plane service but Greenville could. Another wire brought a plane here and forty minutes later he was in Athens. "I promised my boys I would be on the bench and I must get there," he told the pilot.

Student Paper Crashes Movies

Out in California, which has some of the finest and most beautiful schools in the country and which is also the cradle and home of the national movie industry, the college campuses are frequently used for the filming of college comedies. On this subject, the editor of the Los Angeles Junior Collegian writes interestingly:

"The Junior Collegian is now in the movies.

"In a preview shown at a local theatre we saw a good picture. It was a college picture.

"Most of it was filmed on this campus. Things were going along quite smoothly until someone woke us up and said, 'Why there's your paper!'

"And sure enough, it was. A co-edish looking damsel was looking at it so intensely she might have been reading it."

It is quite possible that, in some of the college pictures that come to this state, the Los Angeles Junior Collegian and its worthy newspaper have appeared before local audiences.

Wigue And Masque

All members of the Wigue and Masque are urgently requested by Wex Malone to attend the meeting in the office of the old music building tonight at 7:15.

Cheerleaders!

Billy Arthur, chief cheerleader, requests that the cheerleaders meet him at Gerard hall, chapel period, this morning.

Dramatic Association Announces Arrangements For Play Contests

The Carolina Dramatic Association, under the supervision of Secretary Louise S. Perry has announced plans and activities for the coming year. This association was formed by the Bureau of Community Drama, directed by Professor Frederick H. Koch, in 1924. The purpose of the organization as stated by Professor Koch are, "to promote and encourage dramatic art in the schools and communities of North Carolina and to meet the need for a genuinely constructive recreation; to cooperate in the production of plays, pageants and festivals of real worth; and to stimulate interest in the writing of native drama."

The services of the Bureau of Community Drama are available to all schools, colleges, and communities throughout the state. Requests for suggestions concerning organization, play selection, rehearsals, problems and lighting, planning, programs, and the teaching of dramatics are promptly handled by Mrs. Perry in cooperation with the officers of the Carolina Playmakers and the Carolina Dramatic Association.

The Bureau has at its disposal 2,000 volumes of play books and subject matter dealing with the various phases of dramatic art. These along with illustrations and many magazine articles which help in the solution of problems are willingly loaned to interested little theatre organizers throughout the state of North Carolina upon the payment of postage and packing charges.

In order to assist schools and communities in dramatic work the bureau offers the services of a representative who upon request directs the initial rehearsals and gives personal information and advice concerning organization, directing, and acting.

Any dramatic group or any individual interested in the drama may become a member of the Carolina Dramatic Organization.

V. P. I. Has School Song Problem Also

The University is not alone with its school problems. At V. P. I., they have found that the regular school anthem is not suited for all occasions. So, the student paper there is recommending the writing of a new song, just as was done by Dr. Dyer, of the University music department, through the Daily Tar Heel not long since. The following is the first paragraph of an editorial in the Virginia Tech:

"Last spring we proposed a new school song. Not to replace 'Tech Triumph,' not even to detract from its glory, but to be substituted for it on certain occasions where it is apparent 'Tech Triumph' is not the most appropriate song that could be sung. We heard of one instance where a V. P. I. cadet tried his hand at composing such a song. We have not heard the results. We again recommend the writing of such a piece."

OBERLIN COLLEGE HAS DEPARTMENT OF PEACE STUDY

Society Is Formed to Discuss Effects of War As Aid to World Peace.

More than seven hundred Oberlin College undergraduates have formed the Oberlin Peace Society, an organization which evolved from a chapel address made by Dr. Ernest Hatch Wilkins, president of the college, and one which the student leaders hope will spread, in one form or another, to all the colleges and universities of the country.

Many of the students who joined the society pledged themselves to do special research work in problems of peace and war in an effort to arrive at an intelligent solution of the problem.

The address which inspired the formation of the society was one in which President Wilkins expressed the belief that colleges ought to make the study of peace one of their main subjects.

Warning the students that this generation, although due the credit for starting the movement for world peace, will never see the culmination of their work, Dr. Wilkins continued:

"I have imagined that for a period of seven years Oberlin might devote itself to an intensive study of this problem—elementary work in all departments to continue in the normal way, advanced work in all or nearly all departments to concentrate very largely on the common theme. Thus the department of history would study the causes of war and their correction; the departments of literature would deal with those works which set forth the experience of war as seen by men of genius who have shared in it; the departments of physics and chemistry would study the implications of physical and chemical warfare, and the departments of biology the implications of that bacteriological warfare which is all too possible; and the other departments would study the actual effects of war upon the body and the mind and the spirit of men.

"A monotonous and a ghastly program, you say? Yes, but less monotonous than the trenches; less ghastly than a city street where a bomb has fallen."

Dr. Oscar Jaszi, former Hungarian cabinet member, now professor of peace and war in the college, is to have a part in the society.

Education School

All juniors and seniors of the school of education, who have not as yet had their majors and minors approved, are requested to see C. E. McIntoch at once. This matter will have to be attended to before registration for the winter quarter.

FOERSTER HEADS SCHOOL AT IOWA

Former University Professor Is Directing an Experimental School of Letters.

The University of Iowa launched a school of letters this fall, a school believed to be the first project of its kind in the history of education in the United States.

Under the direction of Professor Norman Foerster, well known for his work in humanism at the University of North Carolina, the new school has placed all the languages in one group, and the organization for the study of language and literature has been outlined much in the same way treatment is given to subjects in the schools of religion, schools of journalism, and similar university departments.

All of the University's language and literature departments—Greek and Latin, French and Spanish, German and English, are participating in the program.

Dr. Foerster declares he is seeking to break down artificial departmental barriers between these closely related subjects, and to keep the common life and specialized interests of the languages in the foreground.

Cameron Off to Africa

Son of Professor Here May Be Gone Two or Three Years

Francis Cameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cameron of Chapel Hill, is on his way to Africa and will be there two or three years. His mission has to do with mining explorations, and he will penetrate into the wildest and most savage regions of the Dark Continent.

He and his bride-to-be were on a visit with his parents last week. He had thought of getting married before starting on the trip, but it was decided that the character of his travels and work would be such that the marriage had better be postponed.

From Chapel Hill he went to New York and sailed on the Mauretania this week. He will be in London for a few days before sailing for Africa, and he expects to be leaving the borders of civilization about six weeks hence.

Mr. Cameron is 28 years old. He is a graduate of Leland Stanford where he specialized in geology and other subjects related to mining. He served for a while with the U. S. Geological Survey.

Co-eds Entertain

The regular weekly house tea was given at Spencer Hall Wednesday afternoon between the hours of 4:30 to six. As is the custom, tea was served in the long living room which was cheerfully lighted for the occasion. A large log fire added much to the pleasure and enjoyment of the afternoon. Along with the tea delicious cakes and nuts were served. There were
