

Question Marks Take Campus Cage Title In Upset Win Over K.A.'s

Greek Basketball Champs Held To Lone Field Goal In Final Three Periods.

VICTORS LEAD AT HALF

E. Beam Leads New Title Holders With Eight Points; Brandt, Wells, Good For K. A.'s

Led by E. Beam, flashy forward with eight points, the Question Marks defeated the Kapap Alpha's, 15-8, to win the campus championship and score one of the biggest upsets in intramural basketball this year.

The Kappa Alpha's, top heavy favorites to win the title after their defeat of the strong Phi Gam's and Phi Delt's in the play-offs for the fraternity title, started off with a rush scoring six points in the first quarter while holding the Question Marks to one point, a free toss by E. Beam. The highly touted K. A. attack seemed unable to get going after their first quarter spree and the Question Marks coasted through the last three quarters to win easily.

E. Beam, with eight points, and Barnwell, center with three were the big guns of the Question Marks.

For the losers Wells, forward, and Brandt, guard, were best, scoring an action toss each. House played a good floor game for the K. A.'s, although once tucking the ball under his arm in true football style and crashing into two or three men under the basket.

The score at the half was 10-8 in favor of the Question Marks.

The officials were: referee, Artie Marpet, varsity basketball captain; scorer, "Mac" Gray, assistant director of the intramural department; timekeeper, Wallace Shelton, assistant director of the intramural department.

CHARLOTTE MEETS RALEIGH IN HIGH TITLE CAGE GAME

Class A Champions Play in Tin Can Tomorrow Night at 8:00 O'clock.

Four undefeated teams will get into action in the Tin Can tomorrow night at eight o'clock, when the finals of the state high school basketball tournament will be played. In the Class A contest, Charlotte, undefeated in their ten western conference games, will endeavor to halt the march of Raleigh's courtmen, victors in their six eastern games. The other members of the eastern division were Fayetteville, Wilmington, Goldsboro, Durham, Rocky Mount, and Wilson, the last named being the runner-up. Gastonia took second place in the west, other teams being Salisbury, Winston-Salem, High Point, and Greensboro.

The unbeaten Rose Hill quintet will represent the east in the Class B contest, meeting the winner of the Spencer-Bakersville game, being played tonight.

Intercollegiate Sports

Soccer, a rising sport in the collegiate athletic field, has been made an official minor sport at Emory University. This action was taken by the athletic association in response to appeal of forty-five students interested in the sport.

Among promising collegians signed recently by big league baseball clubs was Dallas Warren, catcher, a University of Arizona product.

Dartmouth College students are vigorously contesting the recent decree of the athletic association to abolish water polo in that institution. Against the statements of three Hanover physicians that water polo participation might lead to defects of the ear, students based the nucleus of their arguments.

Said Knute Rockne, Notre Dame's gridiron mogul, mentor of bone-crushing, line-driving, Southbend elevens, at a recent football banquet in Berkeley, "I have noticed that the Western schools still retain a certain manliness that is disappearing in the East... I mean this in all seriousness... In the East we are inclining to be the least bit effeminate."

Trailing, 6 to 0, Wake Forest's black shirted winter football team threw aside all hopes of scoring on their more experienced white jersied opponents. Came a pass, black quarter back to one of his own ends from the thirty yard line to the twenty. The end received the pass, was tackled, and the elusive pig skin escaped from his hands to hurtle through the air into the arms of the other end who skipped across the goal for a score and a 6-6 tie.

Prominent among intramural activities at the University of Indiana is the age-old "barn yard sport," horseshoe pitching. Seventy-six teams, comprising 152 players have entered the annual horseshoe tournament at that institution.

Colleges of the present generation have gone conservative, if a recent editorial published in the "Depau," campus publication of Depau University is any criterion.

"Coaches may bemoan the lack of school spirit in the student body and tell how the 'slackers' refuse to yell themselves hoarse at every game just to spurt the team on to another victory. Students still have school spirit but they do not believe in expressing it that way. College spirit as evidenced in pep meetings, celebrations before and after big games, snake dances, and the like has disappeared," the editorial averred.

WRESTLERS TO MAKE BID FOR TITLE

The wrestling team broke V. M. I.'s three-year string of victories Saturday night, and seem likely contenders for the conference title at Lexington this week. V. M. I. probably ranks as first choice for the title because of past records, and the fact that they have not been beaten in the south, but then the Tar Heels also have not lost in the south. They at least will rank second choice. With Captain Stallings, Mayne Albright, Conklin, Tsumas, Fred Ferguson, and Marion Cowper in form, Carolina should be able to boast of some individual conference title holders next Sunday.

Carolina Places Third As Noah Goodridge Wins Lightweight Title; Warren Second In Heavyweight Division.

(By Phil Alston)

The University of Virginia won the Southern Conference boxing championship Saturday night by pushing four men through to championships; Tulane took second place with Carolina third. Tulane's eleven points came by way of one champion and two finalists while the Tar Heel points were earned when Captain Noah Goodridge won the lightweight title and John Warren took second place in the heavyweight division.

Carolina lost four men in the semi-finals after having pushed six men through the opening bouts of the tournament. Son Young, bantam lost to Riddick of Duke in the preliminaries.

Goodridge won his title by taking a decisive victory over Graves of the Mississippi Aggies, Smith of Virginia, and Barrow of L. S. U. Goodridge showed his usual brilliant form in all three of his matches, and put a fitting end to one of the greatest boxing careers ever known in the South.

John Warren scored two knockouts before losing to Hill of Tulane in the final round. The Warren-Hill fight was one of the best of the tournament. Both men were on the floor several times and the decision was close. Hill weakened Warren with a hard left to the body in the second round and scored heavily with blows to the head in the third round to take the fight after Warren had almost knocked him out in the early part of the second round. Warren's first fight ended in the opening round when John caught Bacon, W. & L. with a right hand punch that put the General battler out for the count. Warren met Proctor, Florida, in his second match and knocked his opponent out with a terrific right uppercut to the chin at the opening of the third round.

Marty Levinson was the first Tar Heel to fall in the semi-finals when he lost a very close decision to Martin of Duke. Both boys battled hard for three hectic rounds, but the Blue Devil carried off the decision. Levinson had previously won a decisive victory over Jones, Mississippi A. & M.

After winning over McKinney, W. & L., Dail Holderness lost to DeBuys of Tulane by a technical knockout in the first round of the semi-finals. Holderness started off well, but DeBuys landed a hard right to the jaw that dropped the Tar Heel.

Best Distance Bet

CAPT. CLIFF BAUCOM

Cliff Baucom, cross country captain last fall, will be Carolina's best bet in the distance events here Saturday.

SOUTHERN INDOOR TRACK MEET

The most outstanding sports event of the winter quarter is now less than a week off. We, of course, refer to the Southern Conference indoor track meet at the Tin Can Saturday.

Three hundred entries, sixteen conference colleges and universities, forty non-conference, freshman and prep school teams. That will be a real array of athletic talent.

Our own Charlie Farmer racing against a field of the finest dash men in the south will offer one of the feature events of the meet.

DeColigny of Tulane will be here to take the hurdles at a fast clip, and Maddox of Georgia has made it known that he will give Tulane's star a race for the honors. Maddox was outdoor winner on the low hurdles last spring.

Dickens of Georgia will be here to demonstrate his ability at pole vaulting, and Carolina will present Arnold and Ruble to compete in this event.

Georgia Tech hasn't Ed Hamm to broad jump this year, but Doug Graydon has learned to jump 24 feet, so it looks like some stellar performances will be witnessed in this event.

These are only a few of the many star cindermen who will be here to race on the hardwood track. Almost every school and college entered boasts at least one individual star.

FULL DAY OF SPORTS SATURDAY

The Southern Conference track meet will not be the only event on tap for Saturday. Monograms meet Rookies in Kenan stadium for the closing event of the winter football season.

It will be the last time that such stars as Ned Lipscomb, Captain Strud Nash, Jim Magner and others will don football uniforms for Carolina.

And the winter practice has developed a smooth working machine of no individual stars but plenty of fellows who are capable of working well together. Some of the best football played at Carolina has been played in these Monogram-Rookie games. Indications

Miss Fiditch Our Old School Teacher?

Tar Heel fans in Atlanta this past week-end have been endeavoring to offer various conjectures as to the identity of a basketball player, snapped by Atlanta Constitution cameramen on the tournament court Saturday, and whose likeness appeared in a huge two-column picture in that newspaper under the caption "Artie Marpet, Tar Heel Captain."

News bureau and Daily Tar Heel sports scribes were of diversified opinions, one stating that the player was a Tulane man, while others upheld the argument that he was a Kentucky basketeer.

The identity of "Artie Marpet" is still unknown.

Plans Made For High Athletic Meets

Plans are being made by the University extension division for the state high school contests in baseball, tennis and track to be conducted this spring. Extension circulars containing rules and information concerning the contests are being mailed to North Carolina high schools.

The tennis tournament will take place in Chapel Hill April 16 and 17, with the track meet April 17.

CHAMPIONS COMING

Tulane Javelin Hurlers Will Enter Pole Vault Event Also; Arnold Highly Touted.

The Southern Conference is having a bumper year for shot putters, and it looks as if this event will prove one of the extraordinary features of the Second Annual Southern Conference Indoor Games.

The twenty-six event program will be run off here next Saturday afternoon and night, and will draw forty Non-Conference, Freshman and Scholastic teams, along with sixteen Southern Conference teams, which is two more than participated in the outdoor championships last spring.

Fatty Oelkers, of Tulane, who holds the Southern Conference record, will be here, and likewise Cox, of Mississippi A. & M., who won the event at the Southern outdoor meet last year.

But that's only a starter. Jim Swart of V. P. I. holds his school record of forty-five feet five and three-quarters inches. Grinus, a Gobler soph, is almost as good. Hickman of Tennessee and Coleman of Auburn were second and
