

NOMINATION AND ELECTION DATES SET BY COUNCIL

Class Officers To Be Nominated
Thursday and Campus Officers
Friday; Election Tuesday.

At a meeting of the student council, the dates for the nominations and elections of the various campus officers were set.

The freshmen will meet to nominate rising sophomore officers, Thursday night, at 7:30, in Gerrard hall. The meeting will be presided over by Ike Minor, president of the class. Sophomores will meet to nominate officers for the rising junior class, Thursday night, at 7:30, in Bingham Hall. Dave Henry will preside over the meeting. Juniors will meet to nominate the rising senior officers, Thursday night, 7:30 in Murphey hall. Theron Brown will be in charge of the meeting. Men from each class will be nominated for the following offices in the respective rising classes: president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and the representative on the student council.

Friday at chapel period in Gerrard hall, nominations for the campus officers will be made. Nominations for the following offices will be made: president of the student body, president of the Y, vice-president of the Y, secretary of the Y, treasurer of the Y, editor of the Daily Tar Heel, editor of the Yackety-Yack, editor of the Buccaneer, editor of the Carolina Magazine, president and vice-president of the Athletic Association, one representative on the P. U. Board from the rising senior class, one representative from the rising junior class, and one representative at large, and two representatives at large on the debate council.

The candidates for the presidency of the student body will speak to the students, Monday morning, at Chapel period, in Memorial Hall. The election of all officers will be Tuesday, March 31, in the Y. The polls will be open from nine o'clock to five o'clock.

Y WILL SEND DEPUTATION TEAM TO NEARBY TOWNS

The deputations team of the local Y. M. C. A. has definitely decided to make trips to Greenville, Roanoke Rapids, and Rocky Mount. The date for these trips has not been decided, but all three must be made before May 10. The team will present a three-day program of talks and music at each city, and will be under the auspices of the high schools in the respective cities.

BRADSHAW ADDRESSES FRESHMEN IN CHAPEL

Dean F. F. Bradshaw, speaking to the freshmen at chapel period yesterday, discussed the advantages of universities and colleges. "The greatest thing that students obtain from college is not the knowledge of math, English, and other academic subjects, but is the personal likes and dislikes that the students cultivate at college," said Dean Bradshaw.

Debate Squad

A short but important meeting of the debate squad will be held in 201 Murphey hall Thursday night at seven-thirty. All members are requested to be present.

Hall of Fame

The editor of the Daily Tar Heel has been informed that College Humor has selected Pictures of Mayne Albright and Jack Dungan which are to be run in the September Hall of Fame section of the magazine.

The campus was recently visited by Miss Frances Lee, society and fashion editor of the publication, who was making a tour of eastern and southern colleges.

Beck To Speak On N. Y. Stock Exchange

Cameron Beck, director of the personnel department of the New York Stock Exchange, will speak in Gerrard hall at the regular chapel exercises this morning.

In his work with the Stock Exchange, Mr. Beck supervises the employment and training of a large number of men among whom are many college graduates. He will speak on some phase of his experience in personnel management with the Stock Exchange.

Mr. Beck is being brought here by the office of the dean of students and through the courtesy of Mr. Henry Dwine, director of public relations at Duke University where Beck is scheduled for talks later in the day.

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR NEXT ANNUAL DRAMA FESTIVAL

Delegations from Ohio State to Hear Prominent Guest
Speakers.

The program for the eighth annual Festival of the Carolina Dramatic Association and the State Dramatic Tournament, which are to be staged here on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, was announced yesterday.

Among the speakers from outside the State scheduled for addresses are Barrett Clark, New York dramatic critic; Lynn Riggs, Oklahoma playwright, and Harry Davis, director of the Town Theatre of Columbia, S. C.

Colleges, high schools and community clubs from all sections of the State will send dramatic clubs to compete for State titles in the Tournament. Many of the plays have been written and produced by the students. President Frank Graham will make the awards at the closing session Saturday night.

The opening feature will be a preliminary play contest between Mars Hill College and the Reid Players of Reidsville at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

A contest in original plays between the Seaboard Woman's Club and Mars Hill College, and the final contest of play production between the Rocky Mount Little Theatre Guild and the winner of the afternoon preliminary, representing the community clubs and junior colleges, will be staged Thursday night beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Friday's session will open at 10 o'clock with an address by Professor Frederick H. Koch on "Our Local Theatres." After that will come a conference of directors and students with discussions on dramatics and other stage topics, to be followed by

N. Y. U. DAILY NEWS PRESENTS EDITORS' VIEWS ON R. O. T. C.

Daily Tar Heel Managing Editor Is Among Those Quoted in Article Giving Results of National Survey Among College Editors.

"Along with the rest of the important nations of the world, this country is entirely too militaristic," Jack Dungan, managing editor of the Daily Tar Heel is quoted in the New York University Daily News. The rest of the article, which is a survey of the popularity of the R. O. T. C. system among college editors, is reprinted below:

Today military training in the R. O. T. C. is compulsory at ninety colleges and universities in the United States with a total enrollment of 75,441. It is elective at thirty-six institutions with a total registration of 11,295.

To determine the consensus among editors of student newspapers regarding the popularity of the R. O. T. C. system and its bearing upon the movement for world peace, the writer with the cooperation of the New York University Daily News requested the editors of thirty-nine leading college newspapers to indicate their opinions and the general campus attitudes on this question. Twenty-five editors responded. Drill is compulsory at seven of the institutions represented and optional at twelve. Six have no drill.

Four Questions Suggested
The following questions were suggested, not so much for specific answers, since each editor was urged to reply freely, but rather to indicate the type of information desired:

"If there is a R. O. T. C. unit at your school, is it popular? Are you personally in favor of the system? Is there a militaristic spirit on your campus or encouraged by the faculty? Do you think colleges generally are too pacifistic or too militaristic?"

Answers Fall Into Groups
The replying editors fell into four groups: three who unqualifiedly approve of the R. O. T.

C.; four who are non-committal about it; nine who are opposed only to compulsory military training; and nine who object to agitation in recent years to make R. O. T. C. optional with Physical Education or to institute a system combining the two, which he himself favors. He finds "no particular militaristic spirit on the campus among students or faculty" and does not think it advisable for "colleges to go to extremes with regard to pacifism of militarism" because "it is essential and valuable for college students to become at least basically familiar with military tactics, especially as long as the European countries continue their present state of unrest."

The editor of the University of Cincinnati's Bearcat is "not in favor of the militaristic machine" and believes colleges permitting compulsory military training are "too militaristic."

Not Installed at Brown
There has never been any agitation for the establishment of an R. O. T. C. unit at Brown, writes The Daily Herald's editor who is opposed "to the introduction of militarism in educational circles unless it be placed on a thoroughly optional basis." He believes the "vast majority" of colleges are pacifistic, "but neither too much nor too little so," and notices at Brown "a decided apathy of interest" on this question.

Dungan Quoted
"Along with the rest of the important nations of the world," the managing editor of the North Carolina Daily Tar Heel maintains, "this country is entirely too militaristic." He sees no apparent movement toward pacifism or militarism at North Carolina, which has had no R. O. T. C. unit since the World War, but observes "from what

Kedroff Quartet Now Acclaimed On Both Sides Of The Atlantic

The Kedroff Quartet, distinguished ensemble of Russian singers, which will appear in Memorial hall in a concert March 31 under the auspices of the student entertainment committee, is making its fourth triumphant tour of the United States and Canada this year. This unique organization, composed entirely of accomplished musicians and singers came to America for the first time in January 1928. In three seasons before the American public, filling over 190 concert engagements, the Kedroff Quartet has won a triumph which rivals their conquest of the music world of Europe.

Besides the musical perfection of this quartet, their sincerity and intensity of expression, these four masters have achieved remarkable success in popularizing and in keeping alive Russian vocal music in all its forms. The Kedroffs have made it possible for us to hear these old folk songs, used by eminent composers, in their original form.

Professor N. Kedroff, who is considered as one of the outstanding authorities on Russian folk and church music, has spent years in research work and in collecting and harmonizing these treasures of the Slavs, keeping intact their original style, beauty, and spirit.

The quartet was honored by the French Government with an invitation to participate in the ceremony of laying the cornerstone of the memorial to Marshal Foch to be erected in Metz. The singers have also received many medals from this same government when they celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of their founding.

The late Czar Nicholas II was fond of the singing of the Kedroff Quartet, and often invited them to his intimate evenings in the palace. The Queen of the Belgians and also the Queen of Spain were very fond of hearing the singers, as is King George of England.

These unusually fine artists have received numerous compliments and favorable press reports in practically all of the prominent papers in the country. The New York Telegram commenting on their last New York appearance says: "The four scholarly gentlemen merely polished the golden table they have erected for themselves in America's music records."

Tar Heel Reporters

The following reporters are required to report to the news editor this afternoon between one-thirty and two o'clock: Mary Buie, E. M. Spruill, Frank Hawley, McBride Fleming-Jones, Charles Poe, L. L. Pegram, Alex Andrews, Jack Riley, and F. W. Ashley.

Koch Editing Book Of Carolina Plays

Professor Frederick H. Koch is now editing the fourth volume of Carolina plays which will be published soon by Samuel French. The first three volumes of the plays were published by the Henry Holt Publishing Co. Between 8,000 and 9,000 copies of the plays have been sold since they were published, and the plays have been produced extensively all over the United States.

Some of the plays which will be considered for publication are: Magnolia's Man, by Gertrude Wilson Coffin; Cloey and Blackwater, by Loretto Carroll Bailey; Companion Maggy, by Helen Dorch; The Lie, by Wilkinson O'Connell; Ever Snitch, by Irene Fussler; The New Moon, by Telfaire Peet; and Third Night by Thomas Clayton Wolfe. All of these plays were written in Professor Koch's class in playwriting.

NEWSPAPER MEN TO CONVENE HERE

Annual Meeting of College Publicity Association Will Take Place in April.

This year the annual meeting of the American College Publicity association is to take place in Chapel Hill. The program for the convention will begin Wednesday evening April 22, and continue through Saturday, April 25. This organization is made up of the publicity directors of the various colleges and universities in the country.

As a part of their entertainment, the delegates to the convention will be shown over the Duke and Carolina camps and will, through the courtesy of E. Carrington Smith, at all times have free access to the Carolina theatre. At twilight Thursday evening Duke University will be host to the convention at a southern barbecue and Brunswick stew supper.

Coach R. A. Fetzner of the University and Coach Wallace Wade of Duke will give their views of the good and bad features of college sports publicity. Both coaches will discuss the question: "Are College Sports Overemphasized?"

Some of the prominent men who will speak at the convention are: Earl Reed Silvers, of Rutgers university; Harold Ellis, of the university of California; Frank Wright, of the university of Florida; Frank R. Elliott of Indiana university; Miss Edith Johnson, of Wellesley; Robert W. Madry, of the University; L. C. Boochever, of Cornell university; H. L. Herbert, of the university of Pennsylvania; Nathaniel Sherman, of Yale university; Don M. Cresswell, of Penn State; Miss Katherine Rochmis, of Hunter college; Josef F. Wright, of the university of Illinois; Henry R. Dwine, of Duke university; Miss Lillina Gardner, of New Jersey college for Women; James Pollard, Ohio State university; Hector Perrier, New York university.

TRUSTEES NAME J. GROVER BEARD PHARMACY DEAN

Former President of Association
Of Pharmacy Colleges Takes Howell's Place.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the University trustees held in Chapel Hill on March 19, J. Grover Beard, on recommendation of President Frank P. Graham, was made permanent dean of the pharmacy school, succeeding the late Vernon Howell.

Professor Beard graduated from the University school of pharmacy in 1909, winning the Bradham prize for highest scholastic honors in his class. Because of his fine record he was offered a place as instructor the year following his graduation, and since that time has served continually as a member of its faculty.

Paralleling his duties in the school of pharmacy, Mr. Beard has served for nineteen years as secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association. His work with the druggists of this state has been an important factor in the close relationship which today exists between the profession and the school of pharmacy.

Last June he was awarded the honorary degree of master of pharmacy by the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, in point of enrollment the largest college of pharmacy in America. Also last year Mr. Beard served as president of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, and is this year in office as first vice-president of the American Pharmaceutical Association. In addition to these honors he is president of the National Conference of Pharmaceutical Association Secretaries for the present year.

J. C. Bynum Plans Geological Tour

Professor J. C. Bynum, of the geology department of the University, who has been on leave in order to take up studies at Clark University, returned to Chapel Hill recently and announced his intentions of going on a geographical exploration tour early next month.

He will sail from New York with a number of other students from Clark University. The party will first go to Cuba and then to northern South America. They will penetrate into the depths of Panama, and on the return trip will make a brief stay in Porto Rico. The tour will last six or eight weeks.

FORMER PLAYMAKERS WORK ON BROADWAY

Several former Playmakers are now in New York engaged in dramatic work in various forms. Among these, Howard Bailey is acting in Lynn Riggs' play, Green Grow the Lilacs. Bill Atlee is acting in radio drama connected with the Columbia Broadcasting System, and Al Kahn is acting in Five Stars Final. One of the former Playmakers, P. L. Elmore, is directing Mary Nash in A Divorced Woman.

Miss Herring in Baltimore

Miss Harriet L. Herring of the local institute for research in social science is in Baltimore where she is securing material for her forthcoming book, The Textile Industry in the South.
