HEAVY BALLOTING

McClure Gets Largest Majority In Magazine Contest; Gilchrist Editor of Comic.

To the accompaniment of a cold, persistent, dreary drizzle, the University of North Carolina has once again gone to the polls; and once again has the voice of the student government asserted itself in one of the largest votes ever cast since 1905. Surpassing even the most sanguine expectations, the All-Campus party swept into office with an overwhelming majority; not a single nominee of that political association failed to be placed in office by the ballots of their fellow students. The key positions on the line-up, those of the Presidency of the Student body and editorship of the Tar Heel demonstrate well how the ballots ran: Mayne Albright received 987 votes to 538 for Bill Speight. This was the largest vote cast with 1525 ballots counted. Jack Dungan received 1057 votes, as contrasted to 449 votes for J. C. Williams.

The remainder of the ticket reads the same way; with each position definitely, unequivocally and irrevocably filled by student choice. W. C. Medford received 1016 votes, C. Shreve received 457, for the vice-presidency of the student body. Pete Gilchrist was elected editor of Buccaneer by 1045 votes against 437 for Gil Pearson. The largest vote cast for any individual candidate was for B. C. "Spec" McClure, who received 1135 votes for the editorship of the Carolina Magazine as against 347 ballots marked with a cross opposite the name of Phil Liskin. Cecil Carmichael and Carlyle Rutledge are now members of the Debate Council, 1049 and 1011 ballots cast for them, respectively. McBride Fleming-Jones received 1005 votes as the senior representative from the Senior class on the Publications Union Board. Theron Brown was elected to the position of president of the Athletic Association with 1064 votes against 428 votes cast for Paul Edwards.

Harry Hodges carried the day with 1008 votes for the vice-presidency of the Athletic Association, against 495 for Ellis Fysal. Many of the campus positions were filled last Thursday, when there were but single nominations made for eight offices. Thus since that time, it has been certain that Holmes Davis is to be editor of the Yackety Yack, F. M. James, president of the Y. M. C. A., Lee Greer, vice-

EXTENSIVE PLANS MADE FOR HUMAN RELATIONS BODY

Institute Taking Place Every Four Years Will Meet Here May 3-9.

The authorities in charge of the Human Relations Institute announced yesterday that General Charles P. Summerall and Fletcher Sims Brockman have agreed to speak at the Institute which is to take place from May 3 through May 9.

General Charles P. Summerall recently retired as chief of staff of the United States army to accept the position of director of The Citadel in South Carolina. General Summerall occupied the position of chief of staff since 1926. He has received the Croix de Guerre (with two palms), the D. S. C., the D. S. M., is a member of the Legion of Honor, and is the recipient of many other honors.

Mr. Fletcher Sims Brockman is often spoken of as the most influential foreigner in China. He probably understands China and its people better than any other person not of the Chinese race. He has spent the last thirty years of his life there and is now working on a plan of international education. Mr. Brockman now occupies the position of executive secretary of the Committee for the Promoting of Friendly Relations between America and the Far East.

The purpose of the Institute is to teach people to understand the problems confronting the United States and the world as a whole. In 1927, the University conducted its first Human Relations Institute and had many prominent men as lecturers.

At the former Institute it was decided to have a meeting every four years so that each generation of students at the University would be able to hear the nationally and internationally prominent speakers who would address the Institute. A good part of the Institute's time will be given over to the discussion of such questions as inter-

The sensational success of the All-Campus party in the campus wide elections carried through not only to every office of a campus wide character, but to every office in each class.

For the rising junior class, Sparks Griffin was elected over Don Conklin with the impressive vote of 250 against 79; Haywood Weeks is vice-president of the class with 224 votes against 97 for G. Biggs; Tom Watkins is undoubtedly secretary of his class, for he polled 239 votes against 83 for Marty Levinson, reputed boxer; Dan McDuffie will bear the problems of the treasurer of the Junior class, for he obtained 219 votes against diminitive Kornegay's 100 votes. Bim Ferguson is to be the representative from his class on the Student Council, with 209 votes against 110 for F. Anderson.

The Kedroff Quartet

Appreciative Audience Hears Russian Quartet Performance

The justly praised Kedroff Quartet sang last night in the auditorium of Memorial hall. Their selections and the variety of the folk and church music of Russia which they offered were commendable.

They arrived in Chapel Hill early yesterday morning and spent the forenoon and afternoon walking about the campus and taking in the sights which the University has to offer. They remained in Chapel Hill over night and left early this morning for their next engagement.

The first group which the quartet sang was a collection of the most popular songs written by Russian composers. The next group was made up of Russian folk songs, most of which had been revised by the leader and organizer of the singers, N. N. Kedroff. The third division of the program was a selected four or five art songs from the music of various nations, and the fourth and final part was closely connected with the third division in that the offerings were selected from pieces written by the composers of all countries.

At first the unusual arrangement of the singers in the quartet led to comment, but the audience soon realized that it was probably due to this one fact that the music of the quartet was so peculiarly like the music of a single instrument. The usual order of quartet arrangement is to have the men lined up according to the pitch of their voice, as from the lowest on the right, or the basso, to the highest on the right, the first tenor.

The quartet is now on its fourth successful tour of the United States, having made their first in January 1928. This year's tour will extend until late in the summer, when the singers will return to the European continent.

WILLIAMS LOSES BY 1057 TO 449

Present Managing Editor and Editor-Elect Was Staff's Unanimous Nominee.

Jack Dungan, for the past three years an active member of the Daily Tar Heel staff, justified the opinion of the staff members, receiving a tremendous majority over his competitors for the position of editor of the daily publication.

Much interest in this particular office was created by the fact that both candidates were non-fraternity men and were of proven ability in the newspaper field. Nevertheless J. C. "Red" Williams, present editor of the Carolina Magazine, was defeated by Jack, who was unanimously nominated by the men who have worked with him for the past year or more.

Undoubtedly the campus at large agreed with the men who were in a position to know for they elected him to the second highest position on the campus by 1057 votes to 449—a clear majority of 608, more than one-fourth of the entire student body of the University.

The student body certainly realized that the man who has served the Daily Tar Heel as star reporter, with sixteen hundred inches on the tri-weekly Tar Heel, as a freshman, city editor during his sophomore year, and second managing editor of the first Daily Tar Heel to be published, deserved to be promoted to the higher position of editor. The congratulations and cordial good wishes that Jack Dungan has received since the eventful yesterday are expressive of the esteem in which he is held by the student body and his statements as to the future policies of the paper may well be relied upon by those who are acquainted with his past work.

PERCY MacKAYE TALKS TO CLASS

Percy MacKaye, well known poet-dramatist, man of the theatre, and recognized critic of American plays, in addressing Professor's Koch's play-writing class, Monday morning, spoke on the tradition of the American theatre, which extends back to the time when his father and grandfather were the moguls of the theatre.

He said that the central background of the dramatic tradition of the stage here in America was broken by the World War, and that his recent book, Epoch, a biography of his father Steele MacKaye, aims to pick up the loose threads of this scattered background.

MacKaye spoke of the eternal quality of the moment as being of great significance in art and in the theatre. "We must create now," he said and went on to stress the need of the conviction that we realize the possible permanence of our creation.

He concluded his talk by reading a scene from the Scarecrow. The most logically interesting feature of Epoch is a reproduced page of Steele MacKaye's notes, which outline the plans for a Carolina folk play in 1891. It was to be named The State Line but, for some reason, was never written.

FIRST FRATERNITY HOUSE ON CAMPUS IS FINALLY RAZED

Old Phi Kappa Sigma House Passes By Order of City Council.

One of the landmarks among fraternity houses on the campus passed out of existence during the recent vacation when the old Phi Kappa Sigma hall, on the corner of East Rosemary and Henderson streets, was torn down by order of the city council.

The building was the first fraternity house on the campus and thought to be the second in the South.

The wooden structure, built in 1884, shortly after the ban on fraternities following the post-war re-establishment of the University, housed the organization for twelve years and saw the vicissitudes of Hellenistic life on the campus in that very critical period.

Following the break-up of the organization in 1896 due to stringent regulations on secret societies, the meeting-hall was rented to other groups for fifteen years, when the advent of well-equipped residences for fraternities made that use of the house impractical.
