ORDER OF GRAIL ELECTS FIFTEEN TO MEMBERSHIP

Thirteen Students and Two Members of Faculty Initiated Last Night.

Fifteen men were taken into the Order of the Grail at the annual initiation last night.

The Grail is an honor organization which attempts to promote closer and better relationships between fraternity and non-fraternity men. Six non-fraternity and six fraternity men are usually chosen each year with the odd man alternating between the two groups.

The new fraternity members are: John Manning, business manager of the Daily Tar Heel and Phi Kappa Sigma; Archie Davis, varsity baseball and football man and Delta Kappa Epsilon; Henry Connor, basketball squad and Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Charles Rose, chairman of the editorial board of the Daily Tar Heel and Beta Theta Pi; Ed French, managing editor of the Daily Tar Heel and Pi Kappa Alpha; Red Gilbreath, varsity football center and Pi Kappa Phi; Sam Breen, assistant manager basketball and Tau Epsilon Phi.

The following non-fraternity men were initiated: Percy Idol, varsity wrestler; Graham Trott, self-help student at the Book Exchange; Red Hamlet, varsity high jumper; Phil Alston, assistant sports editor of the Daily Tar Heel and manager of boxing next year; Bobbie Mason, art editor of the Buccaneer; and Lee Greer, vice-president of the Y. M. C. A.

Dean F. F. Bradshaw and Coach Bob Fetzer were also taken into the Grail as honorary members.

There will be a banquet for the order tonight in the Carolina Inn when officers for next year will be elected and the year's work discussed. Saturday night there will be a Grail dance in honor of the new members.

Students Drive Salesmen Away

Two representatives of a well-known national tobacco company started a near-riot yesterday afternoon when in a high-powered car they stopped in front of Swain hall to give away samples of their wares to after-dinner smokers.

The salesmen had come to Chapel Hill with the purpose of disposing of four thousand packages of cigarettes in an advertising scheme; and the first stop in their plan was in front of Swain hall. Over-eagerness caused the would-be smokers, learning of the representatives' purpose, to shove and push around their would-be benefactors until it was unfeasible for the salesmen to complete their attempt.

By this time a larger number of students had gathered and made the spectacle seem much like a street fight. The representative beat a rapid retreat to their automobile, closely followed by the students. They were unable to get started either backwards or forwards as the crowd had gathered all around their car.

Thus they departed, leaving a disappointed line of would-be smokers.

Dr. E. A. Alderman

Dr. Alderman, president of the University, 1897-1900, and president of the University of Virginia, 1904-1931, was stricken by apoplexy while on his way to the inauguration of Dr. Harry W. Chase as president of the University of Illinois.

FORMER HEAD OF INSTITUTION DIES IN PENNSYLVANIA

Dr. Alderman Stricken By Apoplexy While En Route To Chase Inauguration.

Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia died as a result of an attack of apoplexy Wednesday evening while on the way to Urbana, Illinois, where he was to deliver an address today at the inauguration exercises of Dr. Harry W. Chase as president of the University of Illinois.

Dr. Alderman was sixty-nine years old and would have completed his twenty-seventh year as president of the University of Virginia in June. The late doctor was an alumnus of the University of North Carolina and was at one time president of this institution. Later he became president of Tulane University whence, after a term of four years, he went to take up his duties as president of the University of Virginia.

Dr. Alderman was born at Wilmington, May 15, 1861, and was graduated from the University in 1882. While here he won much praise for his oratorical ability and was later elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

After graduation he was superintendent of education of North Carolina for ten years. In 1893 he became professor of education at the University and was president of the institution from 1896 to 1900. Following this he spent four years as president of Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana.

During his administration as president, the enrollment of students at the Virginia institution has increased from 500 students in 1904 to 2,514 resident students and 3,500 summer school and extension course affiliates in 1931. The faculty that worked under him numbered 48 men in 1904 and 300 at the time of his death. He was to a great degree responsible for the increase of that University's endowment from $350,000 to more than $10,000,000.

Dr. Alderman was a life-long friend of Woodrow Wilson and was chosen by Congress as the speaker for its joint session in honor of the war President when he died in 1924. At that time he delivered what has been considered one of the most memorable eulogies ever made before Congress. He defended his

BATTIN ON GUEST ORGANIST SERIES

Meredith Professor Will Appear For Recital in Music Auditorium Monday.

Professor Isaac L. Battin, of the faculty in the Meredith College school of music, will present the third of the guest series of organ recitals in Music hall on Monday evening, May 4, at 8:15.

An attraction on Professor Battin's program is the Grieg Concerto No. 2 which will be played on the piano by Miss Galt, of the music faculty at Meredith, with the orchestral part played by Professor Battin on the organ. In view of the fact that this is probably the last of the guest series concerts, a large audience is expected on Monday evening.

Professor Battin, although only in his second year in North Carolina, has become known as a musician of high rank. A native of Pennsylvania, Professor Battin was graduated from the university of that state and has since carried on the study of music in New York under prominent teachers and coaches.

His interests are not limited to the organ. He is a choral enthusiast and has brought the Meredith choral activities to some degree of attainment. Under his direction, at least four choral works of major character each year are being studied and publicly performed at that institution. Professor Battin has recently organized and trained the Raleigh Choral Society, which will present Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise with the Raleigh Symphony Orchestra early in May.

Galli-Curci To Sing Here Next January

Amelita Galli-Curci, whose name has become a household word among the musical artists of the generation, will sing in Memorial hall January 2, 1932. By an unanimous vote at the bi-monthly meeting, Wednesday, of Alpha Rho chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, national honorary musical fraternity, it was decided to bring to the University during the next school year this famous soprano singer.

Only once before has this artist appeared in the state of North Carolina, when she was in Charlotte six years ago. The members of Phi Mu Alpha feel that they will render a distinct service to the musical life of the state by this concert and will begin plans for the occasion as soon as school reopens in September.

MOORE OUTLINES INSTITUTE'S WORK IN RADIO SPEECH

Student Chairman Gives Program of Human Relations Body Over WPTF.

Beverly Moore, student chairman of the Human Relations Institute, made the third radio speech sponsored by the new student council Wednesday afternoon over station WPTF when he outlined the program of the Human Relations Institute.

Beginning his message, Moore told of what the institute is and its purpose. He stated that the fact that it is a student affair does not exclude interest and active participation of the citizens of the state. "The Human Relations Institute is one of the most distinctive features of student life in the University; as far as we are able to ascertain, it is the only institute of its kind in this country which is chiefly a student enterprise," the student chairman said.

A history of the institute was given in brief form in which the speaker told of the work of the first institute which took place in the spring of 1927. Moore explained that the financing of the institute is a difficult task but due to the benevolent aid of the Phelps-Stokes fund the first speakers of the program were made possible which are the Weil lecture series. The present senior class contributed financially to the institute by the gift of $500 from its gift fund.

Concluding his address, Moore said that the second quadrennial institute would be conducted on the same general range of subject matter such as international relations, industrial relations, and inter-racial relations. He mentioned some of the eminent speakers who are to participate in the program, and also told of the exhibit which is to be staged in Memorial hall.

Foreign Talkie Postponed

Owing to a missing of connections of the Spanish picture, "Un Leon de Sociedad," scheduled to appear at the Carolina Wednesday night as the week's foreign language feature, was delayed and will be postponed until Wednesday of the following week at the same time.

SEMINAR STUDIES 'DUPLIN'S CYCLIDE'

A. E. Cameron Presents Paper At Regular Wednesday Mathematics Meeting.

A. E. Cameron, of the mathematics department, read a paper on "Dupin's Cyclide" at the regular seminar of the mathematics faculty in Phillips hall Tuesday afternoon.

The cyclide is a mathematical surface first studied by Pierre Dupin in 1822. The characteristic property of the surface is that all lines of the curvature are circles, and it may be defined as the envelope of a sphere tangent to three fixed spheres. The locus of the center of the moving sphere which generates the surface is a conic. An interesting property is that the planes of all the characteristics pass through a line.

The limiting case of Dupin's Cyclide is the ordinary anchor ring, for any cyclide may be transformed into an anchor ring by inversion. Two models of this surface are owned by the mathematics department.

Cameron will read his report again on May 9th before the North Carolina Academy of Science which will convene at State College, Raleigh. This will be the annual meeting of the academy at which professors of natural sciences throughout the state gather and present papers.

Cameron obtained most of his material from French journals. Information first regarding the surface was published in 1822 in Dupin's Application of Geometry and Mechanics.
