

INAUGURATION OF GRAHAM PLANNED FOR NOVEMBER 11

Official Ceremonies Will Take Place on Day Graham Memorial Will Be Dedicated.

November 11 has been set as the date of the inauguration of President Graham which will begin with the academic procession to Memorial hall.

The procession will be formed by representatives of American institutions of higher learning. The delegates to the inaugural will probably represent their institutions in the convention of the Association of American Universities which convenes directly following the inaugural proceedings. These delegates will be made known in a later release to the press. Also on the date of these proceedings the new Graham Memorial building will be dedicated. The committee in charge of the program will make public the final plans in a few days.

President Graham was elected by the board of trustees in the spring of 1930 over his protests to succeed Dr. Harry W. Chase, the former president. The new president's election was hailed by general approval by the students, alumni, and citizens of the state who had long appreciated his excellent service to the University as instructor and ambassador of good-will; the state as an example of fearlessness, unselfish liberalism, and the whole South as an enlightening influence. He has been very successful in his term of office as president for during these times the state and the University has needed most of his genius.

WATKINS CHOSEN PRESIDENT FIRST YEAR LAW CLASS

Law School Has Record Enrollment of 112 Including Five Co-eds.

With a record attendance, two additions to the faculty, and a touch of feminine grace, the law school is prepared to start its year's program. The law students now total 112, the largest enrollment on record, with five women among the list. In the third year school there are twenty-seven students, thirty-four second year students, and fifty-one in the first year class.

Economist Talks At Informal Gathering

Mark M. Jones, consulting economist of New York City, addressed an informal gathering in the seminar room of Bingham hall last Tuesday evening on his work as an economic counselor to large corporations.

After explaining his role in the economic world, Mr. Jones spoke on the outstanding problems of today. He advocated a system for each industry whereby that industry would be controlled by a board representing the owners, laborers, and the general public. Though this board would be independent of the federal government, Jones felt that the government might delegate powers of control to the board to be used in severe cases.

The speaker was formerly industrial relations manager for the Thomas A. Edison Industries and is a pioneer in the development of personnel work in this country. Through his connections with industrial leaders, he was able to tell the group that his plan of central coordinating agencies for industry is gaining popularity and consideration.

SUMMER SCHOOL HAS FEW FIRES

Chief Foister States That Only Three Alarms Have Occurred in Last Sixty Days.

Chapel Hill has enjoyed an almost fireless summer, said fire-chief J. L. Foister yesterday. According to the veteran firefighter who has for twenty-three years served the Hill as chief of the three-man fire department, this has been a record season for few blazes, with the truck having been called for only three runs during the past sixty days. Not once in the entire summer has it been necessary to use the hose, since the firemen were on the scenes to extinguish the small blazes with chemicals before they gained any proportions. It is not unusual during some seasons to have as many as eighteen runs a month here, added Fireman J. F. Partin, while Durham has been known to have had as many as five in a single hour.

Chief Foister states that there are less than a dozen false alarms a year, but as near as can be determined, only a small proportion are turned in by students. However, the chief confessed that a false alarm is no infrequent thing immediately after quarterly examinations.

Dormitory fires are often caused by the carelessness of women students with electric appliances. Numerous small but smokey blazes, say the firemen, are developed from celluloid toilet articles ignited from un-mindful handling of curling irons. For this reason women students are generally responsible for dormitory fires.

New Location For Bull's Head Planned By Group Of Sponsors

English Department, Y, and Book Exchange Behind Reopening of Literary Dilettantes' Retreat in the Reconditioned Social Rooms of the Y Building.

The Bull's Head Book Shop, formerly located in Room 214, Murphey hall, will be re-opened in the Y. M. C. A. The reason for this change of location is that the Y is much more centrally located on the campus, and will give the students easier access to the shop.

This shop, which was formerly run by Mr. Mahler, was intended for the students of this University. It kept all the latest books, both fiction and non-fiction, as well as the classics. It was purely a literary venture, no text-books being sold there.

Financially it was not at all a success, but this was expected by its sponsors. It was intended as a browsing-room, for literary devotees, more than a commercial book-shop.

Until the opening of the Graham Memorial the only room for the shop was in Murphey hall, but now, most of the student activities, which were formerly held at the Y will be transferred to the new memorial, thus leaving room for the Bull's Head in the Y. The Y intends to combine its policy of having a reading room with the book shop, by

Patterson to Visit Hill
Dr. Howard Patterson, well known physician of New York and alumnus of the University, will be here this week-end for a short visit. He is related to Rufus Patterson, who is one of the donors of our new bell tower. Dr. Patterson is a Phi Beta Kappa man, and was in various organizations at the University.

BETTER CHAPEL PROGRAMS MADE

Leaders in Several Fields Will Acquaint New Men With Campus Activities.

Plans are now being made for the presentation of more interesting assembly programs than have been given in the past. The purpose of the meetings during the first few weeks will be to acquaint the new men with the different phases of campus activity here at the University, by having leaders in the several fields give talks of an instructive nature.

The University administration will be represented on the program each day in order that any special announcements of general concern might be made. There will be a short prayer and a hymn to open each meeting.

Space for Guests

The freshmen and sophomores are so arranged in the hall that the two front rows are vacant for the use of faculty members or any other guests who may care to attend.

According to the present requirements, freshmen are required to attend assembly five days a week, while the sophomores are expected to be present on Mondays and Fridays. The regulations governing absences are much similar to those of the regular classes, and might be found in the University catalogue.

Any question or suggestion concerning the assembly program may be turned over to Henry Johnston, 204 South, between 2:00 and 4:30 on any week day except Saturday.

having a reading table at the lobby end of the room in which the book-shop will be kept. At present this room is not ready for occupation as plasterers are at work on the ceiling, and bookshelves are being built on the north wall.

The backers of the new venture are the Book Exchange, the English department, and the Y. M. C. A. With this large backing the shop will be enlarged, and the volume of material will be larger and more varied.

The shop was started in 1928 and has been situated in room 214 Murphey until this summer. A fair amount of interest was shown by the student body for whom it was intended. About thirty students a day entered there, most of them for the purpose of inspecting and handling the books. However, enough of these individuals bought books to enable the place to pay for itself.

The staff and new policy have, as yet, not been decided upon, but it is expected that the renovated Bull's Head will be in running order in a short time.

Hinman Is New Professor
A. G. Hinman, land economist, has recently been added to the faculty of the school of commerce to teach marketing. Coming here from Northwestern, he is now acting associate professor of commerce, taking the place left vacant by M. D. Taylor, who is now doing research work in Washington.

John Phil Cooper

Cooper, president of the interfraternity council, is asking the cooperation of every fraternity man and every freshman rushee during the ensuing rushing season.

RUSHING SEASON TO MAKE DEBUT OVER WEEK-END

Fraternities Will Entertain Prospective Members at Houses Tomorrow and Saturday.

Rushing for the first two days of the season, which begins tomorrow at 2:00 p. m., will be strictly confined to the fraternity houses in which the fraternity members shall act in the capacity of host alone. There will be no other rushing of any kind whatsoever during this period. Fraternity men are not to engage in conversation with freshmen at any time except in their respective houses until Sunday. The football game Saturday afternoon is included in this restriction.

This portion of the regulations regarding rushing was especially emphasized at the meeting of the council which took place in the Coop Tuesday evening. It is desired by the executive committee that fraternity members, as well as freshmen, take note of this ruling.

Limited Number of Dates
The committee also wishes to warn freshmen that the rules distinctly forbid any one to take more than two dates during the first two days with any particular fraternity. This is done in order to prevent a fraternity

ALBRIGHT STARTS PROGRAM KNOWN AS ACTIVITY DAY

Meeting Which Formally Begins Work of Student Activities to Take Place Monday.

Beginning next Monday Mayne Albright, president of the student body plans to instigate an annual exercise that will be known as Activities Day. Just as Awards Night culminates a year of endeavor and achievement in the various fields of activities here at Carolina, so will Activities Day mark the formal beginning of the work in these activities.

The program will be held during chapel period as the regular nine-thirty classes will be shortened so as to allow time for its completion. The chapel period on Monday will begin at ten o'clock instead of ten-thirty and run until ten-fifty-three. The tentative plans call for the presentation of the leaders in the different branches and they will in turn give a short talk explaining their particular activity. President Albright has not as yet completed this program, but it will be published in its entirety in the Sunday edition of the Daily Tar Heel.

Albright wants to stress the purpose of this exercise. It is his desire that through this program, the new members of the University, as well as the old, may know these various leaders to explain the aims and plans for this coming year in their branch of campus life.

FIVE ALUMNI OF UNIVERSITY MEET AT A. C. S. SESSION

While there, Dean Bell met five alumni of the University. They were: Dr. T. M. Andrews associated with the Mellon Institute; Dr. C. R. Harris with the Dupont Company; Dr. V. C. The Phi Assembly had its first session of the college year when Hamilton Hobgood, speaker for the fall quarter called the assembly to order Tuesday night at seven-fifteen o'clock.

Most of the meeting consisted of business discussion. It was decided after considerable discussion that the first initiation for the new men would be at the regular meeting of the Assembly next Tuesday night. Representative James and Uzzell were appointed by speaker Hobgood on the initiation committee.

Speaker Hobgood postponed the usual inaugural ceremonies until the next meeting. He announced that his inaugural address would be delivered previous to the initiation of the new men at the next meeting.
