

SOPHOMORES TO CARRY ALABAMA HOPES THIS YEAR

is confident that they can play good football and that they will be able to give any man's team a warm afternoon.

Sharpe will be at the pivot position this fall after a year as understudy for the brilliant Ebert, while Whitworth and Sanford are expected to start at guard. Whitworth is the boy who booted that 42 yard field goal against Washington State in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day. Sanford has had plenty of experience and should be an excellent running mate to the brilliant Whitworth.

The team this season will be somewhat lighter than usual, but it will also be somewhat faster. Thomas feels that this will be of aid to him in drilling in his Notre Dame system. He is also putting a great deal of faith in his sophomore material and says that the success of the team will depend on how the first year varsity men come through.

At one tackle will be the giant Godfrey who played such a whale of a game in the Rose Bowl last winter. At the other tackle post will be either Laslie or Jackson, veterans. The ends will be well fortified with Big Ben Smith and Dotherow guarding the terminals. Dotherow was a sophomore last season, but Smith was a regular and rates as one of the best pass receiving ends in Dixie.

The backfield will be built around "Hurry" Cain, who will do most of the kicking and passing as well as a good share of the ball carrying. Last fall, as a sophomore, Cain was one of the mainstays of the Bama attack and his fine punting was in evidence in practically every game of the season.

The other backs will probably be Holley, Hughes, Chappelle, and Cochrane. Holley was a reserve in 1930, but the other three are sophomores. Hughes is the most promising of the bunch and is said to be one of the best triple threat prospects ever to register at the Tuscaloosa institution.

FIRST WEEK OF BOXING PRACTICE DRAWS FIFTY-TWO

Nicholson, who will be out for ten days or more with a burned hand. Three more welters reported Friday in Nat Lumpkin, Cecil Jackson, and Jack Farris. Jackson is the only one who saw any action with the varsity last year, but Farris had one fight two years ago and won by a technical knockout. Lumpkin fought for the Tar Babies in the lightweight division year before last and has been improving steadily since.

Marty Levinson has also reported and is going about the process of getting himself in condition for another hard campaign. He is almost down to his regular weight already and should begin heavy workouts in a few days.

Peyton "Wildcat" Brown, sophomore knockout specialist, is back at work and seems to be rarin' to go. Two more heavyweights have reported, but neither has any experience to speak of and Kayo Wilson still rules supreme in that division. Wilson made his appearance Friday for the first time and has begun taking light workouts.

If Jimmy Williams can get down to weight this year something should happen in the bantamweight class. Jimmy is already hard at work and is confident that he'll have little trouble getting down to the 119 pound limit.

Bruce Langdon is another man who reported Friday. He fought as a lightweight on the frosh squad last winter and was showing good form at the end of the season. Langdon has a fine right hand, and will make an excellent prospect if he can develop his left.

Billy Stallings, winner of the middleweight title in the spring intramural tournament, is also working out. The weight question is bothering Bill, and he has not decided whether he will try to get down to his former poundage, 149, or not. He may decide to let the welters alone and go in with the 164 pounders where competition will probably be less keen.

MISSING STUDENT IN DURHAM BAND

erally known in Chapel Hill and Durham as Jimmy Valentine.

While at the University Ingrao lived in ease and luxury. In his dormitory room there were: tapestries and paintings on the walls, thick rugs on the floor, a beautiful grand piano, and an electric radio. He attempted to organize an orchestra here, but he met with little success.

In the middle of the winter quarter last year the missing man was required to withdraw from the University because of deficiencies in scholarship.

Ingrao is five feet seven inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. He has a dark complexion and has dark wavy hair. When last heard from by his parents he was plentifully supplied with money. As far as is known he is now residing in Durham.

PIERSON SPEAKS AT MEETING OF GRADUATE CLUB

Michael has been residing in this country for some years. The University of London is represented by Mr. Duncan.

Eighty-four of the number enrolled are working for their doctor's degree. For majors English seems to be the most popular for there are fifty-three majoring in this subject. History follows with thirty-six. The number majoring in chemistry is twenty-five, while twenty-one have selected romance languages. Education, sociology, and economics have, respectively, seventeen, fourteen, and thirteen, while mathematics and engineering have ten each.

Thirty-three states and foreign countries are listed by the members in this school as their residences. They have their bachelor of arts degrees from one hundred different institutions. Fifty-three of these were from the University. Master of arts degrees have been received from twenty-four institutions. There are 171 men and sixty women.

An election was held following Dean Pierson's address. Hill Shine was selected president, while Florence Ahuer received the appointment as secretary.

Carolina Victorious Over Wake Forest

his third counter in the third period.

Though his running brought out no sensational 70 and 80 yard dashes of yesteryear, Johnny Branch displayed a brand of field generalship that this scribe will remember for not a few years. His punting was nothing short of spectacular, booting one for seventy yards and placing the pigskin in the corners with amazing consistency. His blocking, just between you and me and the goal post, was just as good as any quarterback has displayed in these parts in many a moon.

From end to end, the line assumed the proportions of an all-American forward wall, and though the work of the ends was outstanding, no one man outshone the other, and as lines go, it was the real McCoy.

"Pardner" James, president of the Y. M. C. A., will then give his policy for this year. McBride Fleming-Jones, president of the debate council, will then cover in his speech the whole field of forensics, including societies and debating medals.

John Schon, representing dramatics, and Steve Lynch, representing musical organizations, will then continue the program. Haywood Weeks, president of the Order of the Grail, will discuss social life at the University, with special reference to the awards given each year by the Grail to outstanding freshmen.

Noah Goodridge, manager of the Graham Memorial, will close the meeting after presenting the cause of the new student union.

Seen And Heard At The Game

ference. . . . In the second quarter, the Deacons played in their 1930 form. Following a fumble on their own ten yard line, Wake Forest made a great stand to resist the inevitable, holding the Tar Heels for three downs, but on the last try, Rip Slusser circled left end for twelve yards and a touchdown. . . .

"Red" Gilbreath seems to have an uncanny instinct for sensing enemy plays. In the second quarter Red backed out of the line just in time to snatch a Deacon pass out of the air. . . . Johnny Daniels' run from his own thirty-two yard line to Wake Forest's thirty-six was one of the prettiest of the day.

Shades of Maryland. The Deacons worked their spinner play in a manner that reminded the fans of last year's Maryland team. . . . It was on a spinner that the Deacons made their only first down. . . . There was an unusual play on Branch's punt in the second quarter. Johnny's punt traveled about sixty yards in the air and when the visiting quarter got the ball, he swept back to reverse his field, and after going back about fifteen yards, Brown nailed him. . . .
