Glee Club To Decide Hour Of Rehearsals

The Glee Club following a meeting last night with about 100 men present will again gather this afternoon at 5:00 in the music building for the purpose of selecting hours for rehearsals. As the club is composed of men from all departments in the University, it is necessary, in selecting hours for rehearsals, to consider those students who have laboratories in the afternoon. In the event that it is decided to hold the rehearsals at 7:00, the practice will last for only an hour.

The classification of voices will continue all this week. Voices are tested so that they may be properly classified in a way that the training will be of the most benefit.

ALUMNI TO OPEN NEW ART STUDIO

Gene Erwin and Clement Strudwick Plan School of Painting and Costume in Durham.

Cultural tendencies in Durham are expected to receive an impetus October 1, when Gene Erwin, of that city, Clement Strudwick, of Hillsboro, and Mrs. Mary Michie open an art school at 138 1-2 Chapel Hill street. Erwin and Strudwick are former University students, and Mrs. Michie is Erwin's sister.

The prospectus for the first session embraces six distinct fields of artistic accomplishment. Mr. Strudwick will instruct in figure drawing, and oil painting; Mr. Erwin, in advertising, water color, and costume design. Craft, as taught by Mrs. Michie, is to include decorating boxes, card tables, screens and other furniture.

The instructors plan to hold two hour classes in each course twice a week, and will extend to the students the privilege of working in the studio at other times.

Gene Erwin received his A. B. degree from Carolina in 1929 and has since studied and taught at the New York School of Fine and Applied Art. Clement Strudwick attended the University from 1918 to 1920. He has been the pupil of George Luks, noted New York portrait painter, and of Bouill in Paris. Both Strudwick and Erwin presented exhibitions of their work in Chapel Hill last spring.

At the Sunday evening student fellowship hour at the Methodist church Sunday, H. F. Beam of Chapel Hill was elected to lead the organization for the forthcoming quarter. On Beam's executive committee are W. H. Andrews, who is also vice-president of the Sunday School, and "Sonny" Carnegie, secretary-treasurer. The subject of the program was "Our Obligations."

Chapel Hill Blue Laws Restrict Sale Of Dopes At Church Hours

Local Council Favors Ordinance Passed in 1926 Which Prohibits Barter of Soft Drinks and Cigarettes at Certain Times Sunday.

"Give me a dope, please," asks the stranger, depositing five cents on the counter.

"Sorry," says the soda-clerk, after consulting his watch, "We are not allowed to sell soft drinks during church hours."

It is in this manner that the stranger to liberal Chapel Hill gets his first taste of the Sunday "Blue Laws."

The Mayor's Attitude

Mayor Zeb Council states that this three hour restriction period is the alternative to having an all-day prohibition. He points out that many towns do not allow their drug stores to remain open even part of the day.

When asked what he thought the exact purpose of the ordinance was, the mayor stated: "The object is to give the church three hours a day in which to hold services. The stores have the rest of the day in which to do business."

"Do you mean that the purpose of the bill is to allow clerks working in the drug stores to attend church," he was asked.

"Not only the clerks," the mayor stated, "Everybody."

The mayor explained that, although regarded as new by many of the students, the Sunday ordinance was passed in 1926. "Occasionally," said the mayor, "we have to check up on the stores."

Merchants' Opinion

Sam Paulsen of the Smoke-Shop was asked his opinion of the bill. "Naturally," he said, "we lose considerable trade. It is very inconvenient to our customers, especially at night."

Paulsen explained that on Sunday nights, when the streets are thronged with students, he loses a great deal of business because he is prohibited from selling soft drinks and cigarettes. Last Sunday the Smoke-Shop had an open box of cigarettes from which old customers were allowed to help themselves to enough cigarettes to tide them over the "dark ages," between 11 to 12:30 in the morning and 6:30 to 8:30 at night.

Pastor Favors Ruling

C. E. Rozzelle, pastor of the University Methodist church, said that he is in favor of the ruling although it does not, he believes, have any effect on church attendance. "Those who go will go and those who stay away will stay away, regardless," he stated. He volunteered the information that the church's chief objection to the drug stores remaining open on Sunday morning was that the noise from radios and phonographs was distracting to the congregation. The Sunday ordinance contains nothing pertaining to the running of radios or phonographs.

Introduced in 1926

It was in February, 1926 that Alderman C. T. Durham introduced the bill which provided Chapel Hill with the Sunday "Blue Laws." W. S. Roberson was mayor of Chapel Hill at that time.

The ordinance states: "That soda fountains . . . and stores of like nature may remain open for business on Sundays, except during the hours from 11:00 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 6:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m."

During this time they " . . . shall sell no soft drinks, cigars, cigarettes or tobacco or anything which is not classed as food . . ." It is understood that milk-shakes are not prohibited by this ordinance.

It is rumored that certain students on the campus are bootlegging Coca-Colas during the hours covered by the "Blue Law." If caught, they will be subject to imprisonment or the payment of a $50.00 fine.

DYER SPEAKS AT MUSIC GATHERING

Head of University Music Talks on Condition of School Music Throughout the State.

Dr. Harold S. Dyer attended the meeting of the board of directors of the Federation of Music Clubs in Greensboro, September 24, as chairman of the choral festival. Plans were undertaken for the convention of the federation, which will take place in Charlotte during the first week of April.

It is planned that a mass chorus will be formed, the members to be drawn from all over the state. Present indications show that the chorus will number approximately 400. The program is to be given with the accompaniment of an orchestra of about 75 musicians, who are to be selected from the state at large. This will be the first project of the kind that the federation has undertaken. The program will for the most part consist of American compositions.

While in Greensboro, Dr. Dyer made a radio talk over station WBIG, using as his subject: "Music, and a School Budget." In his talk he reviewed the growth of school music in North Carolina since before the war. He stated that the high point in school music was reached during the year ending in June, 1930. This high point included: the number of student musicians, the number of teachers employed to teach music only, the amount of money invested in musical equipment, the amount of time allotted on school programs for the study of music, and the number of public performances given by school musicians.

Dr. Dyer took occasion to praise the cities in the state whose boards of education had handled their various budgets in such a way as not to curtail the musical program of the cities.

Held in Memorial hall, the program was established to correlate in student enterprises the idea of a University convocation in University affairs. It is proposed to make activities day the question to which awards night is the answer.

Representatives of the major fields of extra-curricular activity explained their work. Theron Brown, president of the athletic association, spoke first, telling what the student athletic fee is for. Brown expressed confidence in the Carolina coaching staff, and urged all Carolina men to support the teams with great fervor.

Playmaker Tryouts Planned For Today

Sam Selden announces that the tryouts for Saturday's Children, the first Playmaker production of the year, are scheduled for 4:30 this afternoon and 7:30 this evening. Any students who think they can act or who would like to get experience in acting are urged to come to the tryouts. Everyone will be given a trial.

The characters of the play are: Florrie Sands, Willy Sands, Mrs. Halevy, Bobby, Mr. Halevy, Rims O'Neill, Mrs. Gorlik and a chauffeur. These characters become involved in a very amusing comedy typifying American society. This is one of Maxwell Anderson's plays.

Florrie and Bobby and the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Halevy. Florrie is the rather cynical and fussy match-maker for her younger sister, Bobby, who plays the heroine's part. Willy Sands is Florrie's husband and O'Neill becomes the husband of Bobby. Mrs. Gorlik is the proprietress of a boarding house.

Bobby and O'Neill are in love and marry in the first act. After settling down in the little cottage they had dreamed of they find that married life is not as thrilling as the courtship they had formerly engaged in. After much quarrelling in the second act they part. Bobby goes to Mrs. Gorlik's to live. When parted they find they can't live without each other, so the last act finds them united by the wise and good natured father, Mr. Halevy.
