CRITICS ACCLAIM OPENING OF NEW PLAY BY GREEN

Enthusiastic Reception Accorded "House of Connelly" by Metropolitan Critics.

Press reports received from New York indicate that Paul Green's new play, The House of Connelly, has received enthusiastic endorsement from the dramatic critics of the metropolis. The Martin Beck theatre was packed for the first performance presented Monday night by the Group Theatre under the auspices of the Theatre Guild.

Laudatory Reviews
J. Brooks Atkinson, New York Times critic, who described it as "abidingly beautiful," remarked on its marvelous character portrayal. "It is not too much to hope that something fine and true has been started in the American theatre," he wrote.

Percy Hammond of the New York Herald Tribune, acclaims the presentation as "notable" and adds: "The play is interesting, the acting is fine."

Burns Mantle, reviewing for the Daily News, says enthusiastically that the actors "played it with an intensity that was fairly feverish and with results that were greatly to their credit."

Contrasting the effect of Mr. Green's Pulitzer prize winner, In Abraham's Bosom, and his second theatre production, The Field God, with this third play to gain a New York audience's attention, Gilbert W. Gabrell, of the New York American, says The House of Connelly is, in his opinion, "worth all the rest of Paul Green's plays combined." He denominates it as "ten times finer" than the other two. "It is, all told," he says, "the evening to be remembered as the first fine contribution of this dramatic year."

DR. ELISHA KANE PAYS VISIT HERE

Elisha Kent Kane, former professor in the Spanish department of the University, who is facing indictment in Virginia on a charge of murdering his wife by drowning, was in Chapel Hill a week ago. The purpose of his visit was to consult with members of the faculty and physicians who were acquainted with him and his wife with a view to obtaining evidence in the trial.

Many University professors who knew Mr. Kane hold the opinion that "he was not the sort of man" to commit a murder. There has been considerable speculation here as to whether or not some of the professors would be called as character witnesses.

HOUSE STRESSES INDIVIDUALISM AT FRIDAY ASSEMBLY

Executive Secretary of University Gives Concept of Student Life in Chapel Talk.

Speaking of a university student's life, the executive secretary of the University, Robert B. House, addressed the freshmen and sophomores assembled for chapel yesterday morning.

The speaker began by telling something of the English university student of the fourteenth century, calling attention to the fact that the life of the scholar at that time was in many ways similar to that led by the present college student. He mentioned that many Cambridge undergraduates of long ago worked their way through college.

Individualism Stressed

The executive secretary urged those present to allow themselves ample time to participate in student life to the fullest and best of their ability. Three things pointed out by Mr. House, to be followed by the college student were: "be yourself," "train yourself"; and "invest yourself." The matter of individualism was stressed by the speaker, after which he said that a university student must learn to adapt himself to varying circumstances. Discipline of study was also mentioned.

In conclusion, the speaker labeled three other essentials the college man should possess, which were: a good use of the English language, executive ability, and an idea of what to do after finishing college.

PRATT LEADS IN ORGANIZATION TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Theatre to Run Special Matinees at Which Flour May Be Substituted for Admission.

A central committee has been organized with J. H. Pratt as chairman, to coordinate the activities of the several charitable organizations in Chapel Hill and to direct the community's efforts for the relief of the unemployed. It will supersede the emergency unemployment committee appointed by the mayor last year.

The keynote of the campaign is: Try to find work for those who need it. Food, clothing, and sometimes money will be given to people in distress—particularly to families in which there is no breadwinner—but able-bodied men will be expected to return some sort of service for whatever support they receive; for example, they may work upon the streets or upon the restoration of Battle Park.

A "flour matinee" for children at the Carolina theatre today will start the movement to establish a store of supplies. Every child who brings a substantial amount of flour (say, from around 10 pounds upward) will be admitted to the show. The flour will be deposited in the lobby and later will be stored in a room, across the street in the Pickwick, offered to the committee by E. Carrington Smith, the Carolina manager. A family without children may contribute by sending Mr. Smith an order upon a grocery store for flour.

There will be a "canned goods" matinee the next Saturday morning, October 10, and a "potato matinee" Saturday morning, October 17, managed upon the same plan.

The central committee was or-
