CARR ADDRESSES N. C. CLUB GROUP

Magazine Writer Will Give Impressions of South Embodied in His Latest Article.

Louis Carr, who writes feature articles for some of the leading magazines, will speak before the North Carolina Club, Monday night at 7:30 in the library room of the department of rural social-economics.

During the last few weeks Mr. Carr has been living in Chapel Hill while working on an article on the South which he has recently completed and submitted to a leading magazine for publication. In his address Monday night, he will give his impressions of the South and of North Carolina, drawing liberally on the magazine article which he has prepared.

Mr. Carr came to Chapel Hill for the purpose of writing this particular article. He has made the library of the department of rural social-economics his work-shop because this library contains more information about the South than can be found elsewhere.

Membership in the North Carolina Club is open to students and faculty members who are interested in economic and social conditions in this state. This year the club is to make a comprehensive study of the taxation in North Carolina. Several students of taxation have already accepted invitations to speak before the Club.

Elaborate Ceremonies To Mark Dedication Of New Auditorium

By R. W. Madry
(University News Bureau)

New Memorial hall, the University's auditorium, which was completed last spring, is to be formally dedicated at exercises to be held Monday morning, October 12, at 10:30 o'clock in connection with the University's celebration of its 138th birthday.

Representing the state, Governor O. Max Gardner is to deliver the address of presentation. Acceptance will be made by John Sprunt Hill, of Durham, chairman of the building committee of the board of trustees. The other speaker will be Stahle Linn, of Salisbury, chairman of the committee on the memorial tablets which adorn the walls of the building.

The new building, which is on the same site, takes the place of Old Memorial hall which was torn down in the spring of 1930 after thorough investigations by competent building experts had convinced the trustees that the structure was unsafe and that it would be a hopeless task to attempt to repair it. Two of the wooden arch supports, which formed the chief support of the building, were found to have rotted, causing a bulging that surely would have led to disaster had the building not been demolished.

Classic In Design

The new building, which was erected at a cost of $182,000, of which $150,000 was authorized by Governor Gardner from an emergency fund, is rectangular in shape. In length it is 157 feet and in width 104 feet. It is of brick construction.

Koch To Read One Of Shakespeare's Plays

The first of the series of monthly dramatic readings will be given in the Playmakers Theatre, this evening at 8:30. Professor F. H. Koch will read Shakespeare's comedy, A Midsummer Night's Dream, and Mendelssohn's music, later written for the drama, will be played. Once each month, during the year, a play will be read on a Sunday evening. For some years, it has been a tradition that Professor Koch should read a Shakespearean drama for the first play of the year.

Professor Koch hopes that Paul Green will be in Chapel Hill to give his play, The House of Connelly, now running in New York, at the Martin Beck theatre. It is planned that numerous playwrights and authors will read their own plays, during the year. Except for the Shakespearean drama, the plays are all by authors of the present day. The public is invited to the readings.

"House Of Connelly" Is Financial Success

According to reports from New York, Paul Green's The House of Connelly is something more than an artistic triumph. In a season which has been notably poor in money-making plays it has established itself as a financial success. Variety, the New York theatrical journal, announces its receipts for last week as $13,000, second only to Grand Hotel. The magazine further states that The House of Connelly should enjoy at least a moderate run, with a strong possibility of its being one of the leading attractions throughout the season.

WORKS FORMALLY ELECTED TO HEAD NEW COMMISSION

Chicago Dean Asked to Name
His Own Assistants for Consolidation Plan.

The sub-committee of the commission on the consolidation of the University of North Carolina met Thursday afternoon with Governor O. Max Gardner, chairman; Dr. Fred Morrison, of Raleigh, secretary; President E. C. Brooks, of State college; Dr. B. B. Kendrick, of North Carolina College for Women; and Dr. L. R. Wilson, of the University. Dr. George A. Works, director of the consolidation survey and dean of students and professor of higher education of the University of Chicago, was also present.

To Choose Assistants

Dr. Works was formally elected as director of the survey staff and was asked to submit names of other men of national prominence to serve in the following capacities; two as associates on the survey staff, three as conferees to participate in the survey in the beginning and through the progress of the survey; and such additional persons as are considered essential for the study of the special fields such as graduate study, engineering, education, commerce, etc. When this work is completed, Dr. Works will return to the state, submit his nominations, and the staff will be considered and formally elected. It has been arranged that Dr. Works will have headquarters for the assemblage of the material in Raleigh and Chicago. The heads of the three institutions through various offices and departments will furnish such information to the investigators and the surveyors as is essential to the survey.

STUDENT UNION'S OPENING IS SET FOR TOMORROW

Graham Memorial Contains Lounge, Banquet Hall, Committee, and Game Rooms.

The long-awaited opening of the Graham Memorial student union will take place tomorrow. The lounge, which has been luxuriously furnished at great cost through a special University dispensation, will be thrown open to the student body, for use as a social room, and as a place to take visitors. Many sofas and arm chairs are distributed throughout the room, some upholstered in tapestry and others in leather. A game room, committee rooms, and a banquet hall are also available. The rugs and curtains for the lounge have not been purchased as yet.

Nominal Charges

The building will be open from 8:00 o'clock in the morning to 10:00 o'clock at night, every day in the week except Sunday when the game room will be closed. There will be nominal charges for participation in some games. For pool and billiards $.05 per quarter-hour for each person will be charged. For ping-pong the cost will be $.05 per hour or any fraction thereof, for each person. The other games, such as checkers, chess, and the various card games will be free. The game room, in the basement, is under the complete supervision of the game room director, and he has the power to stop play, because of the fact that others may be waiting, or because of unsportsmanlike behavior, or any like breach of conduct.

The banquet hall on the second floor will be open for engagements, the only requirement being that persons who wish to use it apply at least two days in advance. It may be used for banquets, dinners, or smokers.

The committee rooms on the second floor and on the mezzanine will be available to those who need them. All are requested to apply at least eight hours in advance, however, for they will be kept locked when not in use.

The official opening of the building will take place when President Frank Graham is inaugurated next month.

METHODISTS ASK TO KEEP PASTOR

Chapel Hill Methodists are determined to retain their popular pastor, Rev. C. Excel Rozelle if they can get the Presiding Elder, the Bishop and the Conference to see things their way.

The Conference appointments come up for consideration within a month, and these sessions always bring about a number of shifts among the ministers.

The Methodist board of stewards here, in session this week, voted unanimously to make every effort to retain the services of Reverend Rozelle, who has proved highly satisfactory not only to them but to the laymen as well, they say. Mr. Rozelle is just ending his fourth year here, and they say he has shown no signs of growing stale. The feeling of the community is that the Methodists have had no stronger man in a long while.
