CONSTRUCTION OF NEW RESERVOIR TO START THIS WEEK

Project To Be Built Three Miles West of Chapel Hill.

For several years it has been realized that the University has needed improved source of water supply. This week work begins on a new reservoir which is to be built about three miles west of Chapel Hill, and if there is favorable weather, the contractor, T. C. Thompson, expects to have the project finished in four or five months.

T. C. Atwood, a designer of long experience in this type of work, drew the plans and will have general direction of the construction. The reservoir will have a capacity of 638,000,000 gallons and will eliminate the danger of a water famine which is present in the prevailing system.

For the following facts about the dam taken from the Chapel Hill Weekly were secured from H. D. Carter of the Atwood-Weeks staff: The dam is to be built near the present weir and pumping station. Tributary to Morgan creek, above the site, are Mill creek, Price creek, and Neville creek. The general shape of the reservoir will be that of a dachshund lying on its side. The area of the land to be submerged is about 200 acres. The average depth of the water will be about 10 feet, and when full the reservoir will hold 638,000,000 gallons. The length of the shore line, when the water is at the top of the spillway, will be about nine miles. The main dam of concrete masonry will be 380 feet long and will have a maximum height of 30 feet. The spillway will be 250 feet long. There will be a brick pump-house on the downstream side of the dam, with provision for the construction of a future power house with turbine wheel and connecting motor for the use of the engineering school in the study of hydraulics. The specifications require that the foundations of the dam shall be on solid ledge rock.

The money for this water supply project was included in the appropriation voted to the University for permanent improvements by the 1929 legislature. The total cost, including the land and the clearing, as well as the dam itself, will probably be around $130,000.

HOBBS TO SPEAK AT SAVANNAH, GA.

Dr. S. H. Hobbs of the department of rural social economics leaves tonight for Savannah, Georgia, to address the South Eastern Conference Monday on "The Balance of Trade Against the South." He will be accompanied by Dr. Claude Murchison, of the school of commerce, and Dean H. G. Baity, of the school of engineering, as a delegation from the University.

The South Eastern Conference is an annual meeting of the economic leaders of the South to develop common understanding of the economic problems of the southeastern area and to bring the benefits of organized leadership to this area. The Savannah conference will set up a regional council composed of the councils of the various states. The business of the main council will be transacted through the state groups.

Freshman Is Apprehended After Dousing Village Cop With Water

First Year Men Lack Ability to Perpetrate Pranks and Escape As Their Wily Superiors, the Sophomores, Have Learned to Do.

By J. D. Winslow
There are some freshmen that have an extraordinary propensity for involving themselves in scraps. They see their older brothers, the sophomores, play pranks and escape. In their reasoning they do not see the reason why this is so; therefore, they essay to emulate them, much to their sorrow. Perhaps the sophomores escape unscathed because they have been taught slyness through the entanglements of their first year.

Regardless of all the reasons, freshmen usually are apprehended. A particular group of freshmen was holding a bull session in which they were so inspired by its delights that they were induced to extinguish all lights. They watched the shadowy forms of passersby enter the dormitory. A brilliant idea entered the head of one of the participants.

He had seen at least one sophomore toss water upon the heads that passed below. This marvelous mind conceived brilliant idea of lowering it in paper cups. The first paper he saw was stationery with his hometown address upon it.

After having carefully made two cups which he filled with water, he stationed himself at the darkest window. Patiently he watched for some unfortunate who would furnish the best entertainment. After a short wait he saw approaching the person who best suited his purpose. Throwing all caution aside, he disregarded the fact that the man was extremely large and let the water go.

The falling water narrowly missed the person. Thinking that he was perfectly safe the freshman prepared to sleep off the effects of all the exhilaration caused by the excitement of perpetrating this contemptible trick.

The policeman located him under the shower, and a penitent kid confessed to his crime. Realizing that the lesson was sufficient punishment for the freshman, John Law of the campus departed. This freshman now is an excellent example of goodness becoming an inhabitant of the Carolina campus.

ROOSEVELT GIVES LEAD TO YOUNG IN PARTY FIGHT

Hoover Continues to Gather More Votes Than Other Candidates.

Owen D. Young supplanted Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt as the leading candidate for Democratic nomination in the Daily Tar Heel straw presidential nomination vote yesterday, with Senator William E. Borah rising in the Republican ranks to challenge the lead of Herbert Hoover. Young's margin was scant, but enough to send him ahead by twenty votes of Roosevelt, who has been leading the Democrats undisputedly for three days.

Al Smith, Governor Richie of Maryland, James Cox, and Newton D. Baker, were the only other Democrats to receive a look-in on the party ticket, each polling two-score votes.

Norman Thomas still leads the Socialists with 34 votes, his only competition being Abie Leo Spatz, whose name was found written-in on two ballots, thus substantiating another pre-election forecast.

Hoover still leads the three tickets with the largest number of votes polled by any one candidate. His total of Thursday was augmented yesterday by an extra 367 votes, also the largest number of votes for the day.

Mrs. Vining's Latest Book Has High Vote

Meggy McIntosh, one of the several of Elizabeth Janet Gray's books that have been published by Doubleday, Doran & Co., has achieved a distinct popularity in the children's libraries. Elizabeth Janet Gray is the maiden name of the author, Mrs. Morgan F. Vining. In a poll taken of the nineteen leading children's libraries in this country, Mrs. Vining's book was found to have tied for first place, leading the book by Elizabeth Coatsworth which won the Newberry prize.

PRESS INSTITUTE WILL MEET HERE

The executive committee and the officers of the North Carolina Press Association will meet in joint session with the University committee at the Carolina Inn today. The business of the meeting is to decide upon a date for the Annual Newspaper Institute, a journalism convention to last three days which has been held in Chapel Hill for the last seven years. This is the leading journalistic conclave of the South; all North Carolina newspaper men and University journalism students will be invited.

The officers of the association are as follows: J. L. Horne, Jr., of the Rocky Mount Evening Telegram, president; J. S. London, of the Rockingham Post-Dispatch, vice-president; Miss Beatrice Cobb, of the Morganton News Herald, secretary. The remainder of the executive committee consists of John A. Park, Raleigh Times; W. C. Dowd, Jr., Charlotte News; Haiden Ramsey, Asheville Citizen; Herbert Peele, Elizabeth City Daily Advance; and J. W. Noell, Roxboro Courier.

The University faculty committee is composed of O. J. Coffin, professor of journalism, chairman; R. M. Grumman, director of the extension department; R. W. Madry, of the University News Bureau; and M. F. Vining, director of the extension bureau of lectures and short courses.

Stringfield Plans Folk-Music Lectures

Lamar Stringfield will deliver the first of a series of one hour lectures on folk-music, Tuesday at 4 o'clock in the choral room of the music building. His topic will be "Folk-music in Art-music."

The lectures will be delivered: October 27, November 10, January 12, February 2 and 23, April 19, and May 3.

The series of lectures is one of the projects of the Institute of Folk-Music. The lectures will deal with the aspects of folk-music as it is reflected in the music of Europe and America.

GOODRIDGE ASKS CAREFUL USE OF STUDENT'S UNION

Graham Memorial Manager, in Chapel Talk, Stresses Need For Sane Usage.

Noah Goodridge, manager of Graham Memorial, spoke to the combined assembly of freshmen and sophomores Friday.

"In spite of the fact that the Graham Memorial building is a new enterprise, it has a nine year tradition," began the speaker. He told of its beginning nine years ago, and of the suspension on its construction because of lack of sufficient funds, and also of the donation of a New York alumnus which has brought about the completion of the building.

The manager asked that the students take the utmost care to keep Graham Memorial new and clean. He said that the game room manager has complete supervision of the game tables installed there. Continuing, Goodridge stated that Dr. English Bagby, and Dr. J. L. Caldwell will from time to time give instructions on the games of pool and bridge respectively. Piano music is to be played each night, according to the speaker. He mentioned further that pictures are to be hung in the main room with additional furnishings which will be purchased as soon as possible. The Order of the Grail and the German Club are furnishing two of the committee rooms in the building.

The speaker stated in concluding that the student union is a notable institution and that it is the duty of the student body to preserve it as such.

Beers To Address Sigma Xi Society

At the next meeting of the Sigma Xi, a scientific society composed of faculty and graduate research students, to be in Graham Memorial building Tuesday evening at 6:30, Dr. C. D. Beers, of the zoology and botany department, will speak on his research at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute, Berlin, which was conducted this past summer.

Dr. Beers' experiments were on one-celled animals, chiefly, the didinium, and their diet. He has continued his research work since his return to the University and is now interested in finding how long the didinium can live without food, its diet being that of another one-celled animal, the paramecium.

Almost Three Hundred Men Are Pledged To Fraternities

Harvard Professor Visiting University

Theodore F. Hatch, faculty member of the Harvard engineering school and the Harvard school of public health, specialist in the field of industrial sanitation, ventilation, and dust prevention, is now visiting the University engineering department to observe its work in municipal and sanitary engineering. Hatch is making a study of the "Elimination of Dust Hazards in Industry."

GRID COACH URGES '35 TO HEARTILY ENTER ACTIVITIES

Collins Speaks at Freshman Smoker Presided Over by Hobgood.

The first of the quarterly freshman smokers which convened Thursday night in Swain hall was successful in fulfilling its purpose which was to offer the members of the class an opportunity to become acquainted with each other.

Hamilton H. Hobgood, president of the senior class and acting head of the freshman class, presided over the meeting. Preliminary to the speeches Hark The Sound was sung, accompanied by Bill Stringfellow and his orchestra who played various selections while the refreshments were being served.

Hobgood, while presenting Noah Goodridge, manager of Graham Memorial, introduced him as the man who was talented sufficiently to hold the position of student pastor at a local church as well as being captain of the University boxing team. Goodridge stated that he thought of the freshman class and the new student union in the same light. They are both new, and the success of each is still to be proved. He affirmed his belief in the class and stated that it could make the student union a successful feature of the college if they would cooperate in preserving the building and enter wholeheartedly into its activities.

Ed Hamer, former president of the Y. M. C. A. and now freshman secretary, commended the purpose of the smokers. He urged each member of the class to concentrate on the important features of their college life and to ignore the trivial.

In a short speech Alan Howard, varsity backfield coach, expressed his best wishes for the class of 1935.

The principal speaker of the occasion was Chuck Collins. He stated his belief that the freshmen suffered annually from too much advice. He urged all the class to enter one hundred percent in all the activities they attempted. He asked all to be considerate of the traditions of our University and to uphold them and to add to their excellence through their efforts.

The decrease in freshman football candidates was dwelled upon. He stated that the coaching staff is the best that has ever been at the University, and that all the freshmen should take advantage of this opportunity to learn the fine points of the game which develops in the boy all the characteristics of a successful person.
