

Georgia Overpowers Carolina, 32 To 7

Croom Runs Fifty-Four Yards For Heels' Score; Slusser Makes Long Run

Croom Scores on Off-tackle Play; Slusser Stumbles on Five Yard Line After Pass.

ROUGHNESS PREVAILS

Leathers Steps in Middle of Houston's Back as Carolina Fullback Lay Helpless.

A crowd of over 18,000 people, the largest crowd to witness a football game in the state this year, saw an unusually game line ripped to shreds as the Bulldogs from the University of Georgia ploughed through on slashing off-tackle plays to defeat the Carolinians 32-7, after the Tar Heels had pulled a surprise touchdown and reached the five yard line on another play in the opening minutes of the game.

Pull Surprise Score

With a gusty west wind behind them, the Heels chose to kick off, the kick reaching Georgia's twelve yard line. Mott took the kick-off racing to the thirty-three yard line, where he fumbled, McIver recovering for Carolina. The breaks of the first quarter were decisively in favor of the Heels. After recovering Mott's opening fumble Carolina was unable to gain and Croom punted to Georgia's one yard line.

Chandler, Georgia left half, punted from behind his own goal line, Croom returning the ball to the forty-six yard line. Slusser took the ball out of bounds for Carolina, and on the next play Croom ran around left end for fifty-four yards and Carolina's only touchdown of the game. Walker, end, blocked Mott, making the touchdown possible. Lassiter kicked the extra point.

Smith Goes In

Georgia began sending in their first string at this point. "Catfish" Smith was the first substitute, going in for Crenshaw at left end. With Smith in the line-up Georgia's much talked about offensive went into action. Croom punted to the thirty-yard line. Mott made nine yards around end. Whire made it first down to the forty-three yard line. Chandler made four. Whire hit the line for no gain, Gilbreath and Underwood being injured on the play. Chandler made four for a first down. Mott hit the line for eleven yards. Mott made eleven again. On the next play Mott went around end on a fake reverse for a touchdown. Sullivan's try for the extra point was bad, and Carolina still led, 7-6.

Tar Heels Threaten

The Tar Heels only threatened once more. Smith kicked to Lassiter, who returned the ball to the thirty-two yard line, where he fumbled, Slusser recovering and carrying the ball to the forty-three yard line. Croom and Slusser made three yards each in succession. Then "Rip" Slusser brought the stands to their feet, taking a pass from Croom on the forty-three yard line and running to the five yard line, where he stumbled over his own interference. However, the Carolina fans were doomed to disappointment, as three successive line plays failed to gain. The fourth down resulted in a pass to Slusser, which was grounded over the end zone.

First Team Sent In

Here Georgia sent in the balance of it's first team. Keys, Downes, Roberts, Kelly, Hamrick, Leathers, and Dickens entered the game in a group. Then the rout started, although the Bulldogs were able to push over

EIGHT FRESHMEN ARE ON MIT SQUAD

Eight of Eleven Men Making Numerals as Freshmen Compete for Varsity Berths.

Eight of the eleven men winning their numerals in freshman boxing last year will make strong bids for varsity berths on the 1931 Tar Heel mitt team. Guthrie, another yearling star, did not return to school this fall, but is expected to return in time for the regular season.

In the batom weight class two members of last year's frosh team are fighting it out with George Biggs for the varsity berth. Williams has seen more service than either Glover or Biggs, the latter suffering from a nose injury.

Furches Raymer, undefeated in the 125-pound class as a freshman last year, has moved up to the lightweight division, competing with Bruce Langdon, last year's freshman regular in that weight. The lightweight division is without Captain Noah Goodridge, last year's Southern champion in that weight.

John Nicholson is making a bid for the call in the welterweight division, while Hudson and Wadsworth are among the outstanding candidates for middleweight honors. Hudson, at present, is unable to work out, having a cracked rib. Wadsworth will be remembered for his work in the intramural boxing tournament last fall.

Peyton Brown, light heavyweight, who won all his fights last year by knockouts, is the last freshman showing varsity promise. Coach Rowe is attempting to develop Brown into a scientific boxer instead of a slugger as last year.

only one more touchdown in the remaining minutes of the first half, Keys taking the ball on the five yard line after a drive down the field from the forty yard line, his twenty-seven yard run putting the ball on the seven yard line.

Leathers Taken Out of Game

Just before the half ended came the one sore spot of the game to both Carolina and Georgia fans alike. Houston kicking for Carolina was knocked down behind the line. The referee called a penalty for roughing the kicker, but before Houston could regain his feet, Leathers, Georgia right guard, deliberately walked over and planted his foot in the middle of Houston's back, for one of the most open pieces of what is known as dirty playing ever seen on the turf of Kenan stadium. He was removed from the game.

Open Drive

Georgia's much heralded drive opened up in the second half to score three touchdowns and one extra point, to give the team that held the Commodores of Vanderbilt to a two touchdown victory after a hard fight, its worst defeat of the season.

Smith kicked off to Carolina to open the second half. Croom was forced to punt, the ball reaching Georgia's forty-seven yard line, Downes returning it to the thirty-seven yard line. After a concentrated drive down the remaining distance of the field, Keys took the ball off-tackle six yards for a touchdown. Smith's kick was good.

Walker staved off another Bulldog touchdown, tackling

ONLY TAR HEEL THREATS

Bill Croom, running in his first game as first string halfback, scored Carolina's only touchdown of the game on a fifty-four yard run off-tackle. Croom also led the Tar Heel drive, averaging over six yards a try, while "Rip" Slusser brought the stands to their feet with a thirty-eight yard run after taking a twelve yard pass from Croom. Slusser failed to score, however, stumbling on the five yard line. "Rip" was also in there on the defensive. Time after time he stopped the Bulldog backs after they had passed the linemen, once stopping "Ripper" Roberts on the nine yard line with a clear field ahead of him.

Many Novel Forms Of Archery Causing Spread Of Interest

Archery Golf, Played by Archer and Golfer, Among Most Popular Forms; Clubs Being Organized to Promote Interest as Sport Everywhere; May Become Intramural Sport.

By Carl G. Thompson
Because of the spreading interest of archery in the United States during the past few years, it is taking its place among the most popular sports of the country. Archery clubs are being organized constantly. Local archers are banding together; state associations bring contact among the local clubs; sectional organizations, such as, the Eastern Archery Association and Mid-West Archery Association, are centralizing the state societies, and the National Archery Association has representatives from these. Colleges and preparatory schools are accepting archery as at least a minor sport, many as a major sport.

Much Discussed Subject
Because of the important place archery once held in the world when it was the most formidable weapon known, much has been written on the sport. The history of archery and essays on it afford infinite pleasure to those reading them. There are many subjects open for debate and discussion in archery. Many eccentricities are introduced almost every year into archery, either a new type of bow or some unusual method of shooting. These are, for the most part, merely fads and soon pass quickly; the long-bow is most universally accepted as the best bow, but often discussions are started as to whether another type is not better.

Many old volumes have been written on archery, which are very interesting for the history and attitude of the people of that time towards archery. One of the most authentic books of this type, and one of the most complete is the volume on archery from the Badminton Library of Sports.

Six Fundamentals
In shooting there are six fundamentals: nocking, drawing, holding, aiming, loosing, and pausing. When a learner has all of these so he does them automatically, he will begin to make good scores. Any one can learn to shoot; it takes patience, skill, and, most of all, practice. It is also essential that one learns to shoot under an instructor who knows the accepted and most efficient method of shooting, which is called the chin draw. The arrow is drawn to the chin directly under the right eye, the left arm extended, the arrow fully drawn, the right elbow straight, the right hand anchored under the chin and against the neck. This form gives consistency in shooting and smoothness in release.

Intramural Sport
Because of the beauty of the sport, the ancient lure of the bow, and the physical coordination and mental alertness developed in this sport, many think it would be excellent to introduce into the intramural program. Mac Gray, assistant director of intramural sports, said, "I personally, enjoy the sport and have made tackle and shot some. I will do all I can to promote archery in the intramural sports and think it will be popular among many students."

Six Teams Undefeated in Dormitory League; Nine Frats Have Perfect Record.

With the first two weeks of play over the intramural football season is in full swing with many teams fighting for the leadership of the dormitory and fraternity leagues. This season promises one of the best the University intramural department has known.

Although the spectators at the games have been few, those that have witnessed the games have seen some well played football. The main attack of the majority of the teams has been the aerial route and as a result some very good passers have made their appearance on the intramural fields. Few teams have used running attacks, but as the interference improves it is expected that more running will be done. The punting, on a whole, has been good, but uniform or no uniform, the players have been rushing the kicker fast and many punts have been blocked. Criss-crosses and trick plays have not worked so well and as a result more straight plays and passes have been used.

Hope Of Victory In Georgia Game Only Short Lived

Many a Roar of All Possible Kinds Fill Stadium During Homecoming Game.

The pavement was packed with limousines, roadsters, coupes, and piebald flivvers together with college students, alumni, and people from all over the South. All were winding their way down to Kenan stadium where the big event of the day was slated to take place—the Georgia-Carolina game.

"Souvenir program, mister? How about some Carolina colors? Gotta show your spirit, lady. Dopes, hotdogs, cigarettes—get 'em before the game."

Three white sweated yel leaders were galavanted before the stands, turning somersaults, handsprings, and what not. Blue and white pennants waved with a few feverish Carolina betters taking 14 points for a good bet. The Carolina band played, "Hark the Sound."

A bellowing roar—Carolina came out on the field to warm up—ready to do or die for the dear old Tar Heel school—a gun shot—the initial signal opening the game—Carolina's section went wild when Croom meandered some fifty-four yards for the first touchdown of the imbroglio. Score 7 to 0 for Carolina. Short lived, however, Georgia happened to register 13 points before the half is up. Nothing wrong, though, we're all going out to see people when the half is over. Did you see Leather step on Houston?

Doctor, doctor—some man swallowed a cork—how many did you pledge—all this goes on during the half.

Who won the game?—A crowd came winding out of the stadium; such is tempo of the homecoming game between Carolina and Georgia.

Man, after experimenting for years, has finally discovered that by an ingenious mixture of castor-oil, ethylene, glycol, carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen he can make a silk fiber almost as good and not more than three times as expensive as the one a Chinese worm has been manufacturing for centuries. — Detroit News.

In the dormitory league six teams are still undefeated, with Best House leading with three wins. In the fraternity league nine teams have not suffered a defeat. Many of these teams are due to meet defeat as many of them are matched to play strong teams in the near future. Mac Gray has been working hard and has a crew of efficient workers under him. The games have been carried out and officiated as near as possible like regular college football games. The complete standings in the two leagues are as follows:
