

TAR HEEL SQUAD IN GOOD SHAPE TO MEET STATE

Underwood, Fysal, McIver Only Injuries; Extra Backfield Punch Is Needed.

The Carolina squad started the week's preparations fairly well satisfied with the Tar Heels' showing in holding Tennessee's Conference leaders to the surprisingly low margin of 7-0 last Saturday, and indications are that the Tar Heels will play State with about the same team and about the same kind of attack they used against the Vols.

June Underwood, who played such a whale of a game at tackle, and Ellis Fysal and Staton McIver, who continued their fine work at the guard posts, were the only players receiving any kind of injuries, and theirs were only muscle bruises, according to Trainer Quinlan. These Tar Heels must be getting tough, for they played the hardest football imaginable Saturday, to which Brackett and McEver, Tennessee's backs, can well attest.

Red Gilbreath, Carolina's charging center, hit Brackett with a flying tackle just as he got hold of a punt in the first quarter and drove him back five yards, he was coming so fast and hard. Incidentally, Brackett ran sideways with most of the punt returns after that.

McEver, the "Wild Bull" and former All-American, who was held to a low net gain of 27 yards for 13 tries with the ball, got his later when he attempted to return a punt. Big Emmett Strickland, a 77-inch reserve tackle, crashed him like a steam roller, with the ends, Brown and Walker, driving in behind, and McEver was smeared in the sod by one of the hardest tackles ever seen in Kenan stadium.

The whole Carolina team was tackling much faster, much harder and much more surely, and to Coach Collins that was the most gratifying feature of the Tar Heels' performance.

The Tar Heel mentor was obviously very disappointed when Carolina missed that first down by inches down on Tennessee's five-yard line, for if Carolina had gotten it, it might have meant a tie game at least.

The Tar Heel backs, and especially Stuart Chandler, who played quarter and then fullback, were doing fine defensive work, however, but Collins wants to develop more punch on offense.

It looks like it may be needed Saturday, for State showed a much improved team against the strong Catholic university eleven last week. Catholic won, 12-7, but it was on a couple of breaks, a surprise pass and an intercepted heave, and State's stout line only yielded one first down.

Brewer Leads Scorers

A 26-point scoring spree against Wake Forest last Friday thrust Kid Brewer, Duke fullback, into the lead of the Southern Conference scoring race with a total of fifty points in five games played. By going scoreless against Carolina, Gene McEver of Tennessee, the leader a week ago, was forced to drop into a three way tie for second place with Hillman Holley and Leon Long, Alabama's touchdown twins. Holley and Long each scored one against Sewanee to raise their totals to forty-two and tie McEver.

Following McEver, Holley, and Long, is Nollie Felts, Tulane fullback, with six touchdowns and one extra point for thirty-seven points, one ahead of Joe Gee of Sewanee who has six touchdowns to his credit. Other leading scorers are; Hitchcock, Auburn, 32; Roberts, Vanderbilt, 30; Key, Georgia, 30; Waite, V. M. I., 25; and Cain Alabama, 25.

TAR BABIES WILL MEET TECHLETS TO OPEN SEASON

The State college freshman football team continued its fine play last Friday afternoon in defeating the strong Davidson machine and Monday began pointing for its game Friday afternoon at Raleigh with Carolina's first-year men.

State marched up and down Richardson field at Davidson Friday for eighteen first downs. The Techlets presented a well-rounded team capable of passing, running and charging.

Roscoe Roy, State's diminutive quarterback, is already being hailed as the Homer Key of North Carolina. Press men commenting on his play Friday said that he ran a lot like the famous Johnny Branch of Carolina, but that he was more of a dare-devil type of a player. Roy has starred in all State's freshman games this fall.

Another Techlet back that Carolina must watch is Roy Rex, 215-pound fullback, who is the fastest man on the squad. Rex runs the hundred yards in ten seconds and has complete control of his speed and weight in a football uniform. He has wrecked yearling lines this fall in a more convincing manner than did Mope Comiskey in his freshman days. Along with these two backs there is Robert McAdams and Glen Goodwin, brother of Frank Goodwin of Greensboro who was a great end during his college days at State and an All-Southern basketball center.

Clifton Daugherty, tackle, product of New Bern and a kin of Ohio State's famous player by the same name; Farrar, tackle; John Fabri, 160-pound guard; and, Hammerick, center, are stars in the line. The Techlet ends, Redding and Red Stephenson of Apex worked nicely as pass receivers.

Carolina is stated to have another powerful yearling squad and the game Friday is expected to be a thriller.

Seven Teams Remain Undefeated in Race

The list of seven undefeated Southern Conference teams is due to be diminished this week-end if pre-game expectations run true to form. Florida, Kentucky, and Maryland, tied but undefeated, all meet first class opposition Saturday and two of them at least, are due to join the class of conquered teams.

Two undefeated teams will meet at Gainesville, Fla., when the Alligators try to stop the victorious march of Harry Mehre's Georgia Bulldogs. The Georgians are expected to win without much trouble, but they are not forgetting that Florida was not expected to offer much opposition last year when the game ended in a scoreless tie.

Kentucky faces the Red Elephants of Alabama in another game that may see the undefeated list shortened. Although decisively beaten by Tennessee, the Tide has shown tremendous power this year and has a fine chance to upset the Kentuckians.

Maryland, also, may pass out of the picture as a prospective champion. The Old Liners meet V. P. I., and rank as favorites, but will have to be on their guard against the Gobblers, who have played in-and-out ball this year.

Tennessee may find trouble in the Blue Devils from Duke, but is expected to continue its undefeated march for another week at least. The other two undefeated teams, Tulane and L. S. U. should come through without any trouble. Tulane meets Mississippi A. & M. in what should be a scoring spree for Dawson, Zimmerman, and Felts, and L. S. U. looks too strong for the rejuvenated Tigers of Sewanee.

CAROLINA'S BOARD OF STRATEGY

With the "suicide" stretch of the schedule over the three North Carolina varsity football coaches are shown "putting their heads together," mapping out strategy for the State game Saturday when the Tar Heels turn from seeking Conference honors to swing back to the Big Five wars in their campaign for state honors. Left to right the coaches are Bob Fetzer, line coach; Chuck Collins, head coach of football; and Al Howard, backfield coach.

Only Eight Undefeated Teams Remain In Race As Intramural League Ends Third Week's Play

Chi Psi, A. T. O., Sigma Nu, S. A. E., and Beta Theta Pi Remain Undefeated in Fraternity League; Best House, Grimes, And Lewis' Top Dormitory League.

With the third week of the intramural football tournament ended, five fraternity and three dormitory teams still remain undefeated. In the play of last week many upsets were registered, the supposedly weak Theta Chi team downed the D. K. E.'s and the following day the Dekes lost their second game to the T. E. P.'s, who in turn were defeated by the strong Chi Psi team. In the Dormitory league the Question Marks met their first defeat when Grimes eked out a 6-0 victory.

The Best House team held on to the top position in the dormitory league when they took their fourth straight victory in as many starts. In the fraternity league, four teams with three victories each led that league. The Sigma Nu's led the team scoring of the fraternity league with a total of sixty-one points; Chi Psi and S. A. E., who were tied for second in scoring, followed close behind the leader, with a total of fifty-seven points. In the dormitory league the Best House team led the scoring by a big margin, they had a total of eighty-one points while Grimes, who was second had only twenty-five points.

The leadership of the individual scoring in the fraternity league was held by Barclay, of Phi Gamma Delta, who had a total of forty-two points, closely followed by Dudley, of Chi Psi, with thirty-six points. In the dormitory league the individual leadership was held jointly by Harrington and Leonard, of the Best House, and Legore, of Lewis, all having twenty-four points to their credit.

The feature game of the week was that played between the two undefeated teams Phi Delta Theta and the S. A. E.'s. After a hard fought game the S. A. E. team downed the Phi Deltas

Homecoming at State

Homecoming day will be observed at North Carolina State college this Saturday. The main attraction will be the annual football game between the University and State.

Special entertainment will be furnished the night before the game at the annual stunt night when the organizations sponsor a program of stunts for the homecomers and students.

Greason Has High Average

Bob Greason, State college end and one of the best punters in South, uses a number seven and a half football shoe to boot his punts. Greason has averaged close to forty-five yards this fall.

three downs to two downs. All the teams entered have been showing marked improvement and as a result during the week more close games were played than at any other time during the year.

Red Cross Occupies Office On Franklin

In a united effort to relieve the suffering in Chapel Hill and to make the hurrying winter less miserable for the unfortunate, the Central Welfare Committee of the service organizations and the Red Cross of the village established headquarters Friday in the store next to the Friendly cafeteria. The office is already equipped for operations under the direction of Col. Joseph Hyde Pratt, state prominent social worker. A collection of supplies for needy charges has already assumed large proportions and plans are under way for a community drive for subscription.

CAROLINA MEETS STATE COLLEGE THERE SATURDAY

Thirty-Seven Year Old Rivalry To Be Renewed When State Institutions Clash.

After the "suicide stretch" of the schedule against Vanderbilt, Georgia, Florida, and Tennessee, all Southern Conference contenders, the Carolina Tar Heels this week take up their quest for Big Five honors, meeting North Carolina State on Riddick field Saturday.

The ancient rivalry between the sister state institutions goes back thirty-seven years. Carolina has sixteen victories, four ties, and three losses to show in the twenty-three times the two teams have met on the gridiron. Carolina possesses the traditional habit of always defeating State, but Saturday's game promises a lively contest after the splendid showing the Wolf-pack defense against Catholic university last Friday night, holding the heavier Northerners to two touchdowns while garnering one themselves.

The Techmen gave Wake Forest a great fight before bowing to the Baptists by the narrow margin of one touchdown, while the Tar Heels smothered the Deacons under by a 37-0 score.

State and Carolina first met on the gridiron in 1894. It took the Techmen six seasons and seven games to cross the Tar Heels' goal, scoring twice in 1899 to tie the Blue and White 11-11.

The Carolina goal was uncrossed by another red jersey until 1919. Except for the tie battle in 1899, the Tar Heels won every game from 1894 to 1901 by large scores ranging from 10-0 to 44-0.

The Techmen eked out scoreless ties in 1904 and '05, but a break in relations followed the 1905 meeting, and State had to wait until after the World War to count their first victory.

The first post-war game went to Carolina, 13-12, but Tech won in 1920, 13-3. Dick Gurley, Lenoir-Rhyne coach, led that win. A field goal by "Runt" Lowe saved the Tar Heels from a shut-out, but a fumble by Lowe the next year allowed Faucette to spring fifty yards to give State a 7-3 victory.

A ninety-five yard run for a touchdown by "Monk" McDonald won the 1922 contest for Carolina's Middle Atlantic champions, 14-9, and the four games following were won by the Heels by shutout scores.

Jack McDowell, State's all-star all-time quarterback, led the Techmen to a 19-6 in 1927. The 1928 game ended in a 6-6 tie, Mac Gray scoring for Carolina on a pass on the last play of the game.

The great offensive team of Carolina wiped out that tie with a stinging 32-0 victory, while last year the Tar Heels, led by Captain Strud Nash countered twice to get a 13-6 victory. Gurneau, State's Indian fullback, raced seventy-six yards for the Tech score.

ROOM RESERVATIONS ARE MADE FOR TECH GAME

The University "Y" has received a letter from the Y. M. C. A. of Atlanta, Georgia, stating that they have rooms for many of the Carolina students who will attend the Carolina-Georgia Tech game in that city.

A student may procure a single room for one dollar a night or two persons, accommodations for seventy-five cents each. The Atlanta "Y" is located in the heart of Atlanta and offers excellent rooms. Only a certain number of rooms will be available, and reservations addressed to the Y. M. C. A. in Atlanta will be the only possible means to guarantee obtaining one.

PHI DELT'S UPSET BY SIGMA CHI'S

S. A. E.'s, Dekes, Phi Sigs, Delta Psi, Pi Kaps Win in Tag Football League.

Scoring once in the third quarter, the supposedly weak Sigma Chi team upset the strong Phi Delta Theta team 6-0. The only score of the game came when Myers intercepted a Phi Delta Theta pass and raced sixty yards for a touchdown. Aside from the lone touchdown neither team threatened to score, both trying long passes which were hard to complete. Hines was the star of the winners on the defense while Barrow showed up best for the losers.

Pi Kaps Win

In a close game in which neither team was able to cross the goal line, the Pi Kappa Phi team won over the Phi Kappa Sigma team six downs to four downs. Pool led the attack of the winners, his passing and running being responsible for most of the first downs and his kicking often put the losers far into their own territory. Wilson was the star for the losers.

Dekes Win

The D. K. E. team finally came to life, after two losses in a row, to take an easy victory from the Zeta Beta Tau team 28 to 0.

The winners scored in every period and twice in the third quarter. The Dekes showed an attack that used passes, runs, and all kinds of trick plays, so the losers were never sure what would be used against them on the next play.

S. A. E.'s Victorious

The S. A. E. team kept up its long streak of wins when it won another easy game by a large margin. The Lambda Chi Alpha team was the victim and the final score was 31 to 0.

After the opening whistle the winners started to work and continued to score throughout the game. Hammond's passing and punting featured throughout the game. Odum was also good for the winners while McCracken was best for the losers.

Pikas Lose

In a game featured by long runs and passes the team from Phi Sigma Kappa downed the Pi Kappa Alpha team in a hard fought game. Teachey and Evans led the attack for the winners while Shoemaker and Clarke showed the best form for the losing team.

One Forfeit

The Delta Psi team won over Theta Chi team when they failed to make an appearance at game time.
