

KLIESTIAN DRAMA IS LATEST BOOK ISSUED BY PRESS

Life and Works of German Dramatist Treated in University Publication Release.

Newest publication of the University Press is The Dramas of Heinrich von Kliest, a biographical and critical study of the great German dramatist. The volume is written by John C. Blankenagen, of the faculty of Ohio-Wesleyan university, who is a prominent specialist in the field of German literature. Blankenagen has written periodicals on the subject, but this is his first Kliestian biography.

The opening chapter of this book of 80,000 words contains a brief sketch of the significant events in Kliest's life, and serves as an orientation to biographical data which are more specifically linked with the various dramas. Kliest is viewed in the light of his times, in his relation to his contemporaries and to the important events of his day. The crises of his life, the goals to which he was impelled by ambition and desire, his heroic struggle with adversity, and his tragic end are portrayed.

Critical study of the book embodies a review of Kliest's own conflicting criticisms in his plays. Eight dramas are analyzed and ideas underlying them are set forth. An extensive bibliography of Kliest's literature is appended.

Librarians Entertain

The American Association of Library Women entertained at a benefit dinner and bridge party Friday night at the home of President Frank P. Graham. The receipts will go to the scholarship fund of the association.

Moving Picture Causes Change In Policy Of New York Tabloid

After Seeing "Five Star Final" Captain Joseph Patterson, Publisher of "Daily News," Orders Staff Not to Report Scandal or Damaging Rumors

In the current issue of Variety, theatrical weekly, "Five Star Final" is suggested as having had its effect upon America's biggest tabloid daily, for the New York Daily News has received clean-up orders. Meanwhile the Hearst papers are giving "Final," as a picture, terrific lacings in type wherever Hearst has a paper, pointing it out as an affront to all newspapers, and a disgrace to the picture industry, thereby mightily swelling business for the film.

On the opposite side is the Scripps-Howard chain of papers which have commenced to answer the Hearst salvo by praising the film editorially, even referring to Hearst and Brisbane by name in their answers. But the most startling of all newspaper edicts has gone into effect on the Daily News.

Pred-Med Students

All students expecting to enter the medical school next fall should see Dr. J. M. Bell immediately about their applications. The only pre-medical examination that will be given this year is scheduled for December 11 at 3:30 p. m. in 206 Venable hall.

SPANN ADDRESSES GERMAN SOCIETY

Country's Problems Are Life and Death Matter for German Students, Says Professor.

Dr. Meno Spann, who joined the University German department in September, spoke of "Modern German Student Life" at the meeting of Friends of German in Graham Memorial Sunday afternoon at 4:30.

"The modern German students are now divided into all kinds of groups according to their different outlook on politics, religion, and life generally," said Dr. Spann. "They are not only interested in the problems of today, but these problems are a life and death matter for them."

Dr. Spann believes that the German student is more mature, than the American student. He states: "It is understandable that the young German students of today who have experienced much suffering in the past and who will experience more suffering in the future should be more mature than the average American students of the same age."

Pharmacy Students To Be Examined Today

The North Carolina board of pharmacy will hold its fall meeting in the Howell hall of pharmacy today and Wednesday for examinations of candidates to practice both as pharmacists and assistant-pharmacists.

I. W. Rose of the school of pharmacy faculty is a member of this board. Other members are E. V. Zoeller of Tarboro, president of the board since 1894 and a member since 1892; F. W. Hancock of Oxford, secretary-treasurer since 1902; J. G. Ballew of Lenoir; and W. L. Moose of Albermarle.

JITNEY PLAYERS

A scene from one of the "divertissements" between acts in "The Murder in the Red Barn," which will be given at a matinee performance in the Playmakers Theatre, Monday afternoon, December 4, by the Jitney Players. This is a repeat performance of the old time melodrama presented here last year. "The Bourgeois Gentleman" by Moliere will be presented by the same group in the evening.

CHIMES IN BELL TOWER ARE LIKE WEST POINT SET

Thanksgiving Day, Before Annual Virginia-Carolina Clash, Is Date for Dedication.

The Morehead-Patterson Memorial bell tower will be formally dedicated Thursday morning before the annual Thanksgiving day classic. The chimes are manipulated entirely by hand, and will be played by Chester Meneely, of Troy, N. Y., who comes to Chapel Hill for the occasion.

Site of the Tower

The tower was designed by McKim, Meade and White, of New York. The architects were Atwood and Weeks, of Durham, and the T. C. Thompson Brothers of Chapel Hill were the contractors.

Site of the tower is between the library and Kenan stadium, on the south side of the Raleigh road (route 54). This places the structure on an axis passing through the middle of South building and the library. From the middle of the campus the tower's spire may be seen rising above the library dome. Spectators on the south side of Kenan stadium will be able to obtain a full view of the new structure.

Park Around Tower

The space around the base of the tower has been converted into a sort of park which is a distinct adornment to the University grounds. More than $2,000 worth of box plants, which form small hedges for the pathways, have been set out around the base, the knoll on which the tower is placed has been graded a bit, and newly sown grass is springing up. Dr. W. C. Coker, director of the University's famous arboretum, is in charge of this park layout.

The chimes for the tower, which are exact replicas of the famous West Point chimes, consist of twelve bells. They were made from bell metal alloy composed of seventy-eight per cent New Lake Superior Copper and twenty-two per cent block tin. They were cast and installed by the Meneely Bell Company of Troy, N. Y. They hang at a height of 103 feet from the ground.

HISTORY OF RED CROSS REVIEWED IN CHAPEL TALK

Colonel Pratt Declares Confederate Army Partially Responsible for Organization.

The speaker at assembly yesterday morning was Colonel Joseph Hyde Pratt, chairman of the Chapel Hill division of the Red Cross and former professor of economic geology in the University.

Pratt reviewed the history of the Red Cross. It was founded, he stated, by a young man of Switzerland, who, after witnessing a battle between Austrian and French troops in northern Italy, recruited a number of men and women from nearby villages to care for the 40,000 wounded left on the field. In 1862 this same young man published a pamphlet on the need of having organized medical aid present at like catastrophes.

Peace Time Aid

"Indirectly, the Confederate Army is responsible for organizing the Red Cross," declared Pratt. At the second battle of Bull Run in 1862, protection was first offered to those who aided in caring for the wounded, and a provision was made that all those taken prisoner who were caring for the wounded should be returned under truce.

Pratt specifically referred to the New Bern fire and Sanford mine disaster as examples of Red Cross relief in North Carolina. $50,000 was appropriated for the care of the homeless in the instance of the former, even though Red Cross funds are kept up entirely by voluntary contributions. "We want everybody given an opportunity," he stated, "to become a member of the Chapel Hill chapter of the Red Cross."

SWAIN HALL TO CLOSE DURING THANKSGIVING

Owing to the fact that almost the entire student body leaves the campus at Thanksgiving, Swain hall will not be open during the holidays. It will close its doors after the noon meal Thursday and will not reopen until Sunday night at supper.

RELATIONS CLUB WILL BE REVIVED

Group, Which Functioned Last Year, Will Again Discuss International Problems.

The International Relations club which met as a regular organization last year will be revived this year, Thursday evening, December 3 at 7:00 in Graham Memorial.

The organization which was under the faculty leadership of Professor K. C. Frazier last year, did not get started at the beginning of the year since Frazier was given a leave of absence and very few of last year's club are still in college.

Membership in the group will be open to all students and faculty members of the University, who are genuinely interested in international relations. The club is already linked up with the Carnegie foundation and will continue to get literature and subject matter from this source. It is planned that meetings should be held about once every two weeks, and the sessions will be mainly for discussion.

German Club Tickets May Be Secured Now

Tickets for the German club Thanksgiving dances may now be secured from John Park at the Sigma Nu house any afternoon between 1:00 and 2:00 o'clock. Both tickets for members of the club, as well as guest tickets may be obtained during this time.

According to a new ruling of the executive committee it will be possible for German club members to receive their tickets at a much lower price than has formerly been charged. The guest tickets likewise are considerably reduced.

Park requests that all members planning to attend get their tickets as early as possible.

Self-Help Students Have Hard Time Raking Leaves For Money

Now That Men Can't Take Tickets at Football Games, They Must Turn to More Soul-Searching, Trying Work for Livelihood.

Hard is the life of the self-help man of this day and time. Coupled with existing, or said to exist, hard times, he is barred from taking tickets at the football games. What has he to choose as an alternative?—raking leaves.

That's when the young man really sacrifices his labor, his time and above all his character for an education. Few people who have never raked dry leaves in an autumn wind know the hardships which that task offers.

Many Sacrifices

The self-help man sacrifices athletics as well as other afternoon events in order to make a little, very little, money raking leaves. He dons his working clothes, and goes out to toil under an unusually warm autumn sun. He wrestles with loads and loads of leaves until they are nicely assembled in a pile. Tired from work and damp with perspiration, he leans back on his rake handle for a few breaths before seeking something to convey his pile of leaves to a more desirable spot.

Test of Character

It's a blow to him, and would be to anyone, to come back and find the leaves scattered all over

AWARD OF HOLT SCHOLARSHIP IS GIVEN FOUR MEN

Mayo Bundy, W. C. Hewitt, A. O. Carraway, and M. M. Matthews Are Winners.

The Holt scholarships for 1931 have been awarded to the following students of the University: Mayo Bundy, of Falcon, a freshman in the school of education; W. C. Hewitt, of Elizabeth City, a sophomore in the school of education; A. O. Carraway, of Snow Hill, a junior in the school of commerce; and M. M. Matthews, of Asheville, a senior in the school of engineering. These scholarships are presented annually to the neediest and worthy student in each of the four undergraduate classes.

Fund Begun In 1904

The fund was established in 1904 by Lawrence S. Holt, of Asheville and Burlington, of the class of 1904. The committee which interviewed the twenty four applicants for the scholarship and made the award after considering each man's merits consisted of A. W. Hobbs, dean of the college of liberal arts, chairman; H. Comer, secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; N. W. Walker, acting dean of the school of education; D. D. Carroll, dean of the school of commerce; R. B. House, executive secretary of the University; M. C. S. Noble, dean of the school of education; F. F. Bradshaw, dean of students; J. Ames Bell, dean of the school of applied science; and H. G. Baity, dean of the school of engineering.

Assembly Today

F. F. Bradshaw, dean of students, will address the freshman class at the regular assembly period today. There will be no assembly tomorrow.

A.B. Seniors

All seniors in the college of liberal arts whose names begin with A through E, please report today to room 203 South building to make application for their degree.