Chick Meehan of New York university, Benny Bierman of Tulane, and Pop Warner of Stanford are being linked in a reported shift in football coaching circles.

The report has it that Meehan will resign from N. Y. U. to succeed Bierman at Tulane. Bierman reputedly has promised Rosen, playing for Everett, to accept the head coaching post at his alma mater, Minnesota.

> Although Warner recently said that he preferred a far west coaching post to one in the east, the "hot stove" gossip predicts that he will ask to be considered by N. Y. U. as Meehan's successor. Both Bierman and Warner can remain in their present positions, but Meehan, despite his success, is at odds with the N. Y. U. athletic authorities, and is not expected to be offered a new contract.

Smith May Join Battley in Defending Title If Arm Injury Heals.

There is a possibility that two rather than one of the men crowned intramural boxing champions last spring will be on hand to defend their titles next week. At present the only champion sure of entering the tournament is Dick Battley, welter champ, but Alan Smith, A.T.O.'s king of the bantamweights, may also defend his laurels.

Smith underwent an operation on his right arm this summer and it looked for a while as though the winner of last year's intramural cup would not be able to participate in any form of Select Co-Captains athletics until spring, but the arm has healed so well that Alan At the conclusion of a very thinks he can start now. He has been working out in the Tin Can all this week in order to get himself in condition and establish his eligibility, and will go to next year.
