PRESENTATION OF HOWELL PAINTING SET FOR MONDAY

Oil Portrait by William Wirtz Is
Gift of J. Edward Murray, University Graduate.

At 4:00 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Howell hall of pharmacy, an oil portrait of the late Dean Edward Vernon Howell will be formally presented to the school of pharmacy by J. Edward Murray of Baltimore.

The presentation of this portrait will come on the first anniversary of Dean Howell's death. It is given by J. Edward Murray, formerly of Durham, an alumnus of the school and a graduate of the class of 1913. Murray, who was a warm friend of the late dean, is now vice-president and treasurer of the Emerson Drug company of Baltimore.

The portrait was painted by William Wirtz prominent artist of Baltimore. As Wirtz knew Dean Howell intimately, he was able to combine this knowledge with many photographs to make the likeness. The painting will hang between the two south windows in the library of the building.

Although no formal invitations to the exercises have been issued, all former students and friends of Dean Howell have been invited to attend.

Dean Howell founded the school of pharmacy here in 1897, and was its head for thirty-three years. He died February 14, 1931, following a two-week's illness with pneumonia.

CASTS FOR NEXT BILL ARE PICKED BY PLAYMAKERS

Try-outs for the next Playmaker production were conducted Tuesday afternoon and night. Tentative casts were selected for three one-act plays written by University students in playwriting courses this year. They will be produced March 3, 4 and 5.

Tentative selections for Bloomers, by Jo Norwood, are: Betty Jones and Aliee Prioleau for the part of Mrs. Saunders; Fletcher Walters, Mr. Saunders; Jo Norwood and Alice Blakely, Nancy; John, Bob Reid; Bill, Ed Robbins.

For the cast of Elwyn de Grafenreid's Common Gift were selected: as Mildred, Alice Prioleau and Betty Bolton; as Ellie, Olive Newell and Louisa Fleet; as Florrie, Esther, Greene, Marion Tatum and Mrs. Carr; as Lucy, Betty Jones; and as Dr. Armstrong, Bill Evans and Moore.

Those eligible for the parts in Wilkerson O'Connell's Loyal Venture are as follows: for Lawyer Saunders, Malcolm Seawell and William Pitt; for Benny, John Barrett and John Sehon; for Marpent, Guilbert Stamper; for Durant, Harold Baumstone; for Dyckman, Forney Rankin; for Sally, Mary Bennett and Dorothy Brown; and for a loafer, Fletcher Walters.

After the first rehearsals candidates will be definitely selected for the plays.

Infirmary List

Students who were confined to the infirmary yesterday were: J. C. Meekins, E. S. Newton, J. S. Young, J. N. Ross, and Claude Sims.

Hilton Rufty Will Appear In Concert

Hilton Rufty, one of the most outstanding of younger composers and pianists in America, will appear Sunday afternoon at 5:00 at Graham Memorial. This is the fourth presentation in the Memorial lobby in the newly instituted entertainment series.

Rufty, who is from Richmond, Va., has won considerable praise throughout America for his compositions. One of his principal works, Hobby On the Green, has been popularized all over the world by the playing of John Powell, prominent piano artist.

The composer will play some of his own compositions in the concert.

BATTLE LEAVES JOB OF ALUMNI HEAD TO LEWIS

Durham Alumnus Withdraws as Nominee for President of Alumni Association.

Kemp D. Battle of Rocky Mount, in a letter to J. Maryon Saunders, secretary of the Alumni Association, stated that he wished to withdraw his name from the list of nominees for president of the General Alumni Association.

The two candidates for the presidency are Kemp P. Lewis of Durham, who is now serving the unexpired term of the late Felix Harvey, and Kemp D. Battle. These two men are cousins.

In the letter Battle stated "commitments of my time for the next year are such as to incapacitate me from putting the necessary effort into the job. Furthermore, the president should be some one who has served on the directorate and become acquainted with the problems of the association."

He particularly wished that it be made clear to the alumni that Kemp P. Lewis was only serving an unexpired term and not one of his own. Voting for the head of the alumni group is done by mail, while nominations were made at the meeting last month. The ballots for the election have already been mailed out.

Wisconsin Loan Fund Is Increased by $3,500

The student loan fund at the University of Wisconsin received a boost when the alumni association turned over $3,500 to Professor Julius Olson, chairman of the faculty committee on undergraduate loans and scholarships.

This contribution marks the association's first installment to the fund following the completion of a campaign among Wisconsin graduates throughout the country. Over 1,500 letters were mailed to alumni. Funds contributed by this organization may be loaned with few restrictions and bear two per cent interest while the borrower is an undergraduate and four per cent when he is no longer enrolled in school.

Phillips Russell To Give Reading Sunday

Phillips Russell will read two of his own one-act plays, in the Playmakers theatre Sunday night. He will read two burlesque comedies, A Parcel for King Solomon and A Course in Piracy. Lamar Stringfield will furnish incidental music for the occasion.

GRADUATE SCHOOL ISSUES REPORT OF RESEARCH WORK IN UNIVERSITY

Eleventh Number of "Research in Progress" Gives Summary of Yearly Activities of Faculty and Advanced Students in Specialized Fields.

The graduate school has published the eleventh issue of Research in Progress, an annual record and summary analysis of research activities of the graduate faculty and advanced students of the University. The journal is brought out with the purpose of familiarizing the University and other educational institutions with the scholarly pursuits of graduate work done here. It is now being mailed to colleges and universities throughout the country.

From the vast amount of research recorded and described in the publication, the scientific, historical and sociological stand forth as most useful to the state and nation. Industrial experiments which have attracted attention in both scholarly and commercial circles include Professor Frank Cameron, and N. W. Dockery's investigation of the possibility of growing cotton commercially as a source of alpha cellulose; the studies of Dean Herman G. Baity and E. B. Shore to render wastes resulting from textile processing and dyeing suitable for discharge into streams or into sewage systems tributary to sewage treatment works and the experiments of Professor Thorn-dike Saville, as a member of the Federal Beach Erosion Board, on the causes and effects of beach erosion.

Prison Reform
The study of prison and after-prison life in North Carolina has been the subjects of contributions from the sociology department. J. P. McConnell's dissertation on after-prison life shows that three-fourths of ex-convicts begin their anti-social tendencies early in life and that their after-prison life is only a continuation of their pre-prison habits. Dr. H. W. Odum has been engaged in studying the state penal system with R. M. Brown and Clarence Heer.

Professor C. C. Crittenden of the history department has turned back the pages of North Carolina's past to investigate such subjects as the seacoast, ships and shipping, and inland navigation as related to the state's history, while the economic history of the South Carolina railroad was the basis of a doctoral dissertation by Samuel Derrick. Dr. S. H. Hobbs, Jr., is serving as directing editor of a series of volumes on the economic and social history of South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

English Research

One of the outstanding efforts of the English researches is Dr. Richmond P. Bond's critical analysis of English burlesque poetry in the first half of the eighteenth century, while Dr. J. C. Lyons and Dr. U. T. Holmes of the Romance language department are preparing an edition of the works of Salluste du Bartas.

An interesting specimen of the work in the fields of psychology is a dissertation by William Darby Glenn, Jr., on the history of the Fehler family, a study of six generations of a defective strain. Particular attention is devoted to the problem of the inheritance of defectiveness in the family.

Dr. William deB. MacNider has studied the morphological basis for certain tissue reactions and toxic action of general anaesthetics, exclusive of the central nervous system.

Environment and Cheating
Research activities in the school of education include Dr. A. M. Jordan's work on environmental influences on cheating; doctoral dissertations discussing intercollegiate sports and physical education, and the development of education in Randolph county, negro education in Georgia, and a history of secondary education in the south before 1860 by Howard H. Simpson.

Research in Progress contains a complete explanatory list of all master's and doctoral theses accepted during the year. It also

New Catalogue Will Be Issued During Next Month

Dr. Thomas J. Wilson, Jr., University registrar, is now reading proof on the new issue of the University catalogue. The 1932-33 issue will contain no marked departures from that of last year.

Law School Dance Is Set For February 19

The annual law school dance, sponsored by the Law School association, will take place in the gymnasium next Friday night, February 19. "Jelly" Leftwich and his orchestra from Duke university will furnish music for the dance Friday night and for the tea dance the following afternoon.

The affairs will be managed by a dance committee composed of the three class presidents in the law school, who will be assisted by Reeme Moore and Mrs. R. O. Andrews, first-year law students. Two bids are available for each student registered in the school and may be secured from the presidents of the respective classes.

PHILLIPS RUSSELL EXPLAINS HOW HE WRITES BIOGRAPHY

Author of Life of Franklin Tells Of Efforts to Present Unbiased Viewpoint.

At the meeting of the American Association of University Women this week, Phillips Russell spoke on "Some Experiences in Writing Biography." His talk was chiefly concerned with the composition of his Benjamin Franklin, The First Civilized American. He explained that the earlier biographies had been based on the writing of Jared Sparks, a Unitarian minister who believed in sacrificing the truth to modesty and propriety. Sparks unhesitatingly made changes and omissions in letters and documents pertaining to Franklin, thereby withholding the real facts.

In London Russell became interested in making a study of original letters and documents concerning Franklin. He continued this work in Washington and Philadelphia and out of it grew his biography on Franklin. He stated that he had been severely criticized from the standpoint that he had tried to defame a heroic figure of history, and he read selections from the biography to disprove any such intention.

A history of the Chapel Hill branch of the association since its beginning in March 1923 was read by Mrs. A. S. Wheeler.

MID-TERM REPORTS WILL BE PUBLISHED MONDAY

Mid-term reports for the winter quarter will be posted in the registrar's office Monday morning, February 15.

This report is made out only for students whose work is unsatisfactory at mid-term. The mark of "W" on a course is warning; the student must improve if he is to pass, while a course marked "X" denotes that the student's work therein is very poor.

The fact that a course is not listed either "W" or "X" does not mean that the student will pass that course, for his work may be considered unsatisfactory from the time of the mid-term report to end of the quarter.

Asheboro Group Will Hear Graham and Coffin Tonight

President Frank Porter Graham and Professor Oscar J. Coffin, of the journalism department, will speak tonight before the Asheboro chamber of commerce.

MID-WINTER SET TO OPEN IN GYM THIS AFTERNOON

Formal Affair Tonight to Follow
Tea Dansant; Series Will Extend Through Tomorrow.

This afternoon will see the stage all set for the annual mid-winter dances of the German club which begin with a tea dansant at 4:00 p.m. in Bynum gymnasium. Following the afternoon dance there will be a formal affair tonight from 9:00 until 1:00, at which time the program will officially begin.

The leaders tonight will be James Lynch and Miss Lucille Williams of New Orleans, who was queen of one of the Mardi-Gras balls this year. Assisting them will be Joe Adams with Martha Page of Asheville and Eugene Webb with Mary Elizabeth Perry of High Point.

Bernie Cummins and his Hotel New Yorker orchestra have been engaged to play for the series of dances which will run through tomorrow night.

A partial list of the visiting girls who will attend includes: Misses Mary Frances Stronach, Louise Kennedy, Susanne and Annette Tucker, Molly Allen, Hazel Perkins, all of Raleigh; Jane Morrison, Nonie Withers, Louisiana Wood, Helenora Withers, Frances Allen, Janet Mather, and Courtlandt Preston, from Charlotte.

Winston-Salem will be represented by the Misses Louise Galloway, Margaret Williams, Claire Hanes, and Ruth McLeod. Those from Greensboro are Catherine White, Margaret

KOCH TO ATTEND CONFERENCE ON LITTLE THEATRE

Playmaker's Director Will Address
Conference on Dramatic Art
At Iowa University.

Professor Frederick H. Koch will address the National Conference on Dramatic Art at the University of Iowa, Friday, February 19, on "Experimental Production of New Scripts." The convention, directed by the National Little Theatre council, of which Koch is a member, and sponsored by the Carnegie foundation, extends over three days, February 18, 19, and 20.

Thursday, February 18, the delegates from various university and little theatres throughout the country will register at the Iowa Memorial Union.

On Friday, experimental production in little theatres will be the topic of several addresses, and the service of a national little theatre organization to individual community theatres and to university theatres will be discussed. Discussion Saturday will be confined to the curriculum in dramatic arts: objectives, background, courses, research, and demands made of graduates by positions in professional, community and educational theatres.
