COMMENCEMENT MARSHALS MAY BE RESELECTED

German Club Executive Committee Decides to Confer With Officials of Junior Class.

At a meeting last night, the German club executive committee decided to confer with the executive committee of the junior class in regard to the selection of commencement marshals which the club conducted last fall. The two groups may decide to rescind the selection and ask for an election which the junior class would conduct next quarter.

Elected by Class

Until some three years ago the marshals were elected by the junior class, and when the class forgot to choose the men, the German club stepped into to carry on the election.

Through the current attack that the club is exerting too much power on the campus it was brought to light that the dance organization was infringing on the affairs of the whole junior class.

Milton Barber, Zeta Psi, chief; Bob Barnett, Beta Theta Pi; Bill Hoffman, Kappa Sigma; Arlindo Cate, Sigma Chi; Vass Shephard, D. K. E.; Joe Pratt, Zeta Psi; H. G. Connor, S. A. E.; and Lenoir Wright, Sigma Nu were the marshals who were elected by the club.

UNIVERSITY PRESS WILL ISSUE BOOK ON LUDWIG TIECK

Dr. Lussky's Investigation Into Tieck's Irony Is Shown In Publication.

The University press had just published Tieck's Romantic Irony by Dr. Alfred Edwin Lussky, professor of German at the University of Arkansas. Lussky is the author of two earlier Tieck studies, Tieck's Approach to Romanticism, 1925, and Cervantes and Tieck's Idealism, 1928.

The investigation by Lussky is an attempt to define and explain the romantic irony of Ludwig Tieck. The study of this subject necessitated a research of the romantic irony of Friedrich Schlegel, who is usually regarded as the originator of the concept.

The author has laid special emphasis in his study of Tieck upon the influence of Cervantes, Sterne, and Goethe. He has also devoted some space to a discussion of the romantic irony of Shakespeare.

Hamilton Speaks On Library Collections

Speaking before assembly yesterday, Dr. J. G. deRouhaac Hamilton, Kenan professor of American history, urged students to aid and contribute to the library collection of southern historical manuscripts by being on the alert for any material such as old letters which might furnish valuable data.

"The south has been shockingly careless in preserving these records which contribute a great deal to its history," said Dr. Hamilton. "Anything and everything that throws any light on the past the library is interested in getting. Family letters, diaries and papers of public men, and ledgers of business prove valuable material towards this collection."

In three years, stated Dr. Hamilton, the library has obtained over a million and a quarter pieces of manuscript.

Hamilton and Wilson Return

Dr. J. G. deR. Hamilton of the history department and Dr. L. R. Wilson, librarian, returned Sunday morning from a business trip to Lenoir and the western part of the state.

Erratum

The Daily Tar Heel erroneously stated that the manager of the University laundry conducted a representative of the publication through the plant in order to gain information for a feature article in Sunday's issue of the paper. Correctly stated, the statement should have read that an employee of the laundry acted as guide.

North Carolina Club Formed In 1914 To Study State Economic Problems

Dr. E. C. Branson, Head of Rural Social Economics Department, Conceived Idea of Patterning After Watauga Club Of Raleigh Organization.

Eighteen years ago, in the fall of 1914, a small group of students and faculty members interested in learning more about the state met and organized what is today the North Carolina club.

According to Dr. S. H. Hobbs of the department of rural social economics, the purposes and aims of the group are to learn more about North Carolina and the underlying social and economic forces that are a part of its life. The organization, he said, to study the problems brought on by these forces and, wherever possible, to offer a solution.

Unaided by a larger organization, the newly-formed club found it difficult to get at the real causes for social disorders because of the difficulty of making extensive and thorough surveys. Despite this handicap, it began its work under Dr. E. C. Branson, head of the rural social economics department and by the end of 1916 had made much progress.

Makes State Survey

The club's first work, extending through 1915-16, was a survey of the natural resources, advantages, and opportunities presented by the state. In 1916 a report of its study was printed in the extension division's report to the president. Since that time the work of the club has

Thomas Bowie Is Well Known For Efforts To Build Up Road System

Prominent University Alumnus, Former Speaker of State Legislature and Member of General Assembly for Several Years, Is Now Candidate for United States Senate.

"Good roads for North Carolina" has been the slogan of Thomas C. Bowie, University trustee and candidate for the United States Senate, throughout his political career of a quarter of a century.

Beginning in 1909, eight years after his graduation from the University law school, as a member of the legislature, his rising prominence in politics has been rivaled only by his popularity as the idol of the isolated western counties, known as North Carolina's "lost provinces." Widely heralded as the strong-armed champion of the mountain counties, he proved his position when, as co-author of the Connor-Bowie-Doughton road bill, he helped lay the foundation for North Carolina's present highway system.

Stating that he saw no reason why western North Carolina should be isolated from the rest of the state, he strongly advocated the connection of the border counties with their eastern neighbors as well as with Tennessee on the west.

Prominent at University Entering the University in 1895, "Tam," as he is best known, revealed unusual gifts as an orator, being president of the Di senate, winner of the freshman orator's medal, the sophomore debate medal, and the Mangum medal for oratory. Since graduation in a successful career as a jurist, the memory of his alma mater has never been obliterated from his mind and he has championed the University's cause many times on the floor of the legislature. Gaining his early experience in campus politics, he has continued to make fully as active use of these strategies in state affairs as when he was a student.

In law, Bowie's success is illustrated by his appointment by the governor as emergency judge of the state superior court, as well as his being prominently mentioned for judge of the eleventh district.

Speaker of Legislature Being sent to the state legislature in 1909, 1913, and 1915 as representative of his native county of Ashe, he was elected speaker of that body in 1915. Since that time he has been a member of the General Assembly in 1921, 1923, and 1925. Coming as a climax to his brilliant career is his recent candidacy for the United States Senate on a platform of downward revision of the tariff, revaluation of land values to lower the farmer's tax burden, and a program of economy in federal, state, and local government.

Recognized for his loyalty to the University where he received his early training Bowie was appointed a trustee of the institution and since then has given it his generous support.

Women Voters Will Gather Here Today

The state meeting of the League of Women Voters will begin at the Carolina Inn this morning at 9:30 o'clock. Miss Elsie Riddick of Raleigh will preside.

Dean M. T. Van Hecke of the law school will address the group at the luncheon at 12:30 o'clock on the subject "Aspects of Revision of the State Constitution," and another speaker has been procured for the afternoon session. Reservations for the luncheon can be arranged with Mrs. Clarence Heer.

ALDERMEN WILL CONSIDER CHANGE IN TAX PAYMENT

Proposed Plan, Used by Kingsport, Tennessee, Is Backed by Dr. E. C. Branson.

The local city aldermen will discuss at their next meeting a new plan for the collection of taxes. The new plan, which is now being used in Kingsport, Tennessee, embraces a proposal whereby taxpayers who pay their taxes in advance will receive interest at the rate of six per cent on the money paid in before the specified time. Dr. E. C. Branson, professor of rural social economics in the University, who has corresponded with Kingsport authorities, is instrumental in having the new plan taken into consideration.

At present, if taxes which are due November 1 are paid in August, two per cent reduction is made; if in September, one and one-half per cent reduction; if in October, one per cent; if in November, one-half per cent; and if paid thereafter, a fine is imposed. Some of the local authorities think that this schedule of reduction would be sufficient to urge the people to pay.

By the new plan six per cent interest would be paid on all taxes paid in advance during the time interval between January 1 and November 1, on which date the taxes are due. This proposed means of collection would make much more bookkeeping necessary.

Asbury College Will Debate Here Tonight

"Modern Advertising" will be the subject of the debate this evening between representatives of Asbury college and the University. The Oregon plan, which met with much success at its first trial on the University campus, will be used in a revised form. This plan consists of an argument, cross-questioning, and a rebuttal. After the debates there will be an informal discussion among the debaters and persons in the audience.

W. R. Eddleman and Ed Lanier will uphold the affirmative side of the question which is "Resolved: That modern advertising is more detrimental than beneficial to the American public."

STUDENT BODY TO MEET THURSDAY FOR CONVOCATION

President Graham Will Lead Discussion on Honor System In Special Meeting.

Members of the student union and members of the faculty will gather Thursday morning in Memorial hall at 10:00 o'clock for a University convocation on the honor system. President Frank P. Graham will be the speaker.

The object of the convocation is a discussion of the plan for a more thoroughgoing observation of the honor system. The plan now under consideration would hold equally responsible a witness to a violation of the honor system and the student violating it.

Would Sign Pledge

Under the proposal, which was advanced in a joint meeting of the faculty executive committee and the student council ten days ago, each student would sign a pledge at the beginning of next quarter and at the beginning of each scholastic year to support the system.

The University convocation Thursday morning will last one hour; the 9:30 classes will be cut a half of an hour. Officials of the University have urged that all students and members of the faculty be present at the convocation.
