SENIOR REGALIA CHOSEN AS PLAN OF WEEK BEGUN

Class of '32 Will Have Senior
Week May 9 Through 14
With Usual Events.

The traditional senior week will take place this year, May 9-14, Monday through Saturday inclusive, according to an announcement made yesterday by Hamilton Hobgood, class president. The festivities of the class of '32 will begin with a smoker Monday night, May 9, at which time one of the state gubernatorial candidates will speak and permanent class officers will be elected.

Vesper Speakers

During the course of the week, seniors will compete for the Mangum medal, which is given annually for oratorical merit. As in the past the class will gather each evening under Davie poplar for vespers and to hear prominent speakers. Last year President Frank Graham, Senator Josiah Bailey, Dr. Archibald Henderson, Dean Justin Miller of the Duke law school, and Kemp Lewis, president of the General Alumni association, were among the group who made talks. It is customary also for the Chapel Hill merchants to entertain the seniors during the course of the week.

Junior-Senior Dances

The final activities of the outgoing class will be climaxed by the annual junior-senior dances, Friday and Saturday, in the Tin Can. The junior prom will take place Friday night, to be followed by a tea dansant Saturday afternoon. The senior ball Saturday night will conclude a class of the week.

COMMITTEE WILL ESTABLISH YOUNG DEMOCRAT CLUBS

National Group Decides on Step
To Instill Interest in Politics
Among Youths.

A meeting of young people interested in politics and particularly in Democratic politics convened in Washington March 4 and 5.

The meeting was not sponsored in any way by any organization, and the delegates came because of their own interest and at their own expense. In response to letters sent out by Tyre Taylor, '21, president of the Young Democratic Organization of North Carolina, to the heads of other Young Democratic clubs or the state chairmen of the Democratic party where no young people's organization existed, there gathered at the Mayflower hotel, representatives from 27 states, and proxies from six more. Colleges and universities were represented by Harvard, Princeton, University of North Carolina, Washington and Lee, California, Mount Holyoke, and George Washington university.

Speakers

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee; Nellie Tayloe Ross, vice-chairman of the Democratic executive committee; Congressmen Patman and Connelley were among those who addressed the gathering.

It was decided to create a National Steering committee to

TO PRESENT CONCERT HERE APRIL 3

The Raleigh Male Chorus (above), now in its eleventh season, which will present the second concert of the quarter in Graham Memorial Sunday afternoon. The chorus is noted for its harmonious effects and its shading qualities, and it includes in its repertory all the prize winning songs and ballads of the National Association of Glee Clubs, with which it is affiliated.

RALEIGH CHORUS TO BE HERE FOR PROGRAM SUNDAY

Group Will Present Concert in
Graham Memorial Lounge
At 4:15 O'clock.

The second concert to be presented in Graham Memorial this quarter will be given by the Raleigh Male Chorus Sunday afternoon, April 3, at 4:15 in the lounge. Dr. R. W. Leiby, state entomologist and president of the chorus, promises a varied series of ballads, songs, and chants.

The Raleigh Male Chorus is an organization of twenty professional men, most of whom have been singing together for six years. The chorus is now in its eleventh season and is under the direction of Professor W. H. Jones, head of the music department of St. Mary's college. It is affiliated with the National Association of Glee Clubs. It includes in its repertoire all the prize winning songs and ballads of the national association.

The chorus, which has made numerous appearances throughout the state, has become noted for the harmonious effects and shading qualities that it displays in the rendition of its songs and ballads.

Co-eds And Forced Attendance Berated

Co-education is a hindrance to education and the present system of compulsory attendance is, not only unnecessary, but utterly useless, according to Dr. Hamilton Fyfe, principal of Queens university, recently interviewed by a representative of the McGill Daily.

Of co-education, he said, "That which is suitable in the education of men is in many cases unsuitable for the instruction of woman, and the reverse holds true. I could never stand up and lecture before a mixed class as well as I could before one consisting of men only.

"The system in use at Oxford works very well," Dr. Fyfe remarked in his comments on required attendance. "Here men are sometimes advised to cut certain lectures in order that they may pick up more on their own. On the whole, I believe in fewer examinations and less compulsory attendance at lectures."

Twelve in Infirmary

H. G. Price, Beverly Thurman, Jr., John Queen; A. C. Hitchcock, Esther Green, D. S. Kinsey, L. C. Slade, Jr., M. L. Wood, Frank Dunn, R. H. Carmichael, Foy Gaskins, and C. W. Fox were confined to the infirmary yesterday.

Walter Murphy Is Staunch Friend Of University In State Legislature

At Commencement in 1925, Well Known Trustee of Salisbury Was Given Honorary Degree of LL.D. by University for "Useful Service to the State and Labor for That Institution."

A daring political leader in the Democratic party machinery, Walter Murphy of Salisbury has proven to be a staunch friend of the University in the state legislature. He was prominent as a student leader at the University during a period which the institution furnished the state many prominent figures, and has become an able leader in North Carolina politics.

In 1892, with Charles Baskerville, "Pete," as he is widely and popularly known, helped begin THE TAR HEEL. He served as managing editor on the first staff, and upon the resignation of Baskerville as editor-in-chief, he was elevated to that position. In 1902 Murphy was elected to the board of trustees and has served for thirty years. At commencement in 1925, the honorary degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by the University for "useful service to the state and loyal labor for the institution."

Murphy, a vigorous proponent of University interests in the state legislature, has served as representative from Rowan county in nearly every legislature since he was first elected in 1897, three years out of law school. In 1914 and again in 1917 he was elected speaker. In 1923 he was named chairman of the house appropriations committee, in which capacity, three years later, he won praise from the University when he withdrew from the budget commission to champion the cause of the state educational institutions against the first of the series of cuts in appropriations. "Reduce the cost to educate every ambitious boy and girl in North Carolina, not increase it," he pleaded.

For the past decade, Murphy has been occupied with inter-party politics. He was elected, in 1918, elector-at-large on the Democratic ticket, and has served on the executive committee for twelve years. In 1924 he managed the unsuccessful campaign of the late Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama for the Democratic nomination for president. After the party convention, he managed the North Carolina campaign of John W. Davis for the presidency.

Besides aiding in founding THE TAR HEEL, Murphy helped establish The Alumni Review and was one of the founders of the Sigma Nu fraternity here. He played varsity football four years, was president of the athletic association, and was prominent in journalistic activities. He writes occasionally now for newspapers on political subjects and characters. He was president of the General Alumni Association in 1922-23.

Graham Speaks for Fund

President Frank Graham returned yesterday from Charlotte where he and J. Maryon Saunders have been conducting an alumni meeting for the purpose of soliciting money for the student loan fund. President Graham appealed for aid from the Charlotte alumni and mothers of University students.

Bason to Sing Today

At assembly this morning George Bason, local baritone, will sing a selection of negro spirituals. The program will be in the form of a lecture-recital with the singer offering and explaining the songs.

This presentation has been shortened to fit the time allotted.

Condemnation--Commendation

For

Literary Scholarship

Norman Foerster, Iowa School of Letters, contributes "The Literary Mill."

Applauding and disapproving Mr. Foerster's stand will be Dr. Jacob Zeitlin, University of Illinois; Mr. Carleton Brown, secretary of the Modern Language Association; and Mr. Alfred Dashiell, managing-editor of Scribner's Magazine.

A trustee sketch of Judge John J. Parker will be included in the Sunday Tar Heel.

Watch your Sunday Tar Heel for series on aviation, women's styles, strange and bizarre sports, and economic conditions in Germany and South America.

Mrs. A. H. Bennett Is Injured In Collision

Lillian Hottenstein, Carolina co-ed, in her Flint coupe collided with a Ford sedan driven by H. B. Glosson, route No. 1, Chapel Hill, at the section of Columbia and Cameron streets yesterday afternoon at about 5:45 p. m. in what seemed to be an unavoidable accident. Both cars were badly damaged, but Mrs. A. H. Bennett, a passenger in Glosson's car, was the only one to receive a casualty. She was badly shaken up and sustained a wound over the right eye, being thrown against the frame of the windshield. Mrs. Bennett's wound was treated at the infirmary, six stitches being taken.

The Hottenstein car was bound west along Cameron street while Glosson was going south on Columbia on the way to his home on the Pittsboro road. At the intersection the cars collided, the Ford hitting Miss Hottenstein's car directly in the middle, and the crash caused the Glosson car to spill all the provisions that had been obtained.

COMER DECLARES LITERARY TASTES OF CAMPUS POOR

Assembly Speaker Attacks Reading
Choice and Plans Ballot
To Test Assumption.

Harry F. Comer of the Y. M. C. A. announced yesterday morning in his assembly talk on "Current Events" that the reading preferences of the freshman class would be determined next Tuesday by popular vote.

Blank forms which list a wide variety of reading material are to be passed on that day to those present at assembly. Each student, said Comer, is expected to enumerate the periodicals which he consistently reads, those which he occasionally reads, and those which he does not read at all. The purpose of the vote, he explained, is to determine the amount and preference of reading which is done by members of the freshman class.

"Not more than two per cent of the student body are reading anything worth while outside of text books," declared Comer in his talk. He further stated that he was inclined to believe that there were more filling stations in North Carolina than there were books read in the public libraries. What do we know of banking systems throughout the world? How many of us know what the gold standard is? How well are we acquainted with such issues as the inheritance tax rate?—were some of the questions on current events asked by the speaker.

CHAPEL OF CROSS WILL HAVE EASTER FEATURES

Special services for Good Friday will be conducted today at the Chapel of the Cross. Ante communion will take place this morning at 10:30, while a three hour service will be observed from 12:00 to 3:00 p. m. There will be evening prayer at 5:15.

Sunday, Easter day, holy communion will be administered at 8:00 a. m., and again at the 11:00 o'clock service. A children's service will be given at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon, while the evening worship will consist of a cantata, Easter Dawn.

STUDENT AUDITING BOARD TO START WORK NEXT WEEK

Names of Men Who Serve as Members of Organization
Are Announced.

It was announced yesterday that John Clinard of the senior class and Francis Anderson of the junior class were elected by the student council as student members of the student auditing board, which was recommended by the Student Activities committee December 6 and approved by the student body at an election February 9. Dean Francis F. Bradshaw and Professor R. H. Sherrill of the economics department were appointed members by President Graham, and Mayne Albright, president of the student body, will serve as ex officio chairman of the organization.

Begins Next Week

The board is planning to do its preliminary work next week, and to begin the actual auditing during the week immediately following campus elections April 6. The larger accounts will be handled by professional auditors by the board.

The jurisdiction of the board is mandatory over all accounts collected by the business office, which are levied by a vote of the organization. The student council, junior and senior classes, Woman's association, debate council, law association, and student entertainment series will all be under the jurisdiction of the board. The group will invite other organizations which require fees from members, but which are not compulsory, such as the German club, to have

CAROLINA LOCKS IN DEBATE WITH BOSTONIAN MEN

Question of Centralized Control
Of Industry Results in
No Decision.

Carolina met the University of Boston in forensic battle Wednesday evening in Gerrard hall in a debate which was the most interesting of the year. The subject was centralized control of industry, and Boston upheld centralized planning, Carolina holding the viewpoint of the opposition.

The first speaker of the evening was M. J. Manning who presented the constructive argument for Boston on the affirmative. Dave Morgan, engaging in his first debate for Carolina, built up the arguments of the negative. McBride Fleming-Jones, president of the University debate council, examined the representatives of Boston and brought out some critical points of the debate. The next speaker was J. H. Potter who has visited the University previously and earned quite a reputation as a debater. He fully justified his reputation in examining Carolina's debaters. Then John Wilkinson gave the best talk of the evening. James A. McKenna smoothed out the case of the affirmative in a very convincing manner.

The debate was non-decision and fully showed the value of the Oregon plan in bringing out the critical points of discussion. Boston met Wake Forest Wednesday night on the same question.
