

TAR HEELS WILL PLAY MARYLAND, VIRGINIA ON TRIP

Baseball Team Prepares for Invasion of Northern States in Two Weeks.

Boasting successive victories over Davidson and the University of Maryland, the Carolina nine began preparations yesterday afternoon for a two-game northern trip.

After a week's layoff the Tar Heels will meet the University of Virginia in Charlottesville April 8, and on the following day the Old Liners will get a chance to revenge their 4-0 shutout at the hands of George Hinton.

Virginians Strong

The Virginians again have a strong nine and are doped to give the Tar Heels a hard game. Last year the Cavaliers bowed to Carolina 6-1 on an extended northern invasion, but this year the Virginia nine has been greatly strengthened, while the Tar Heels suffered several losses by graduation.

V. M. I. and Duke Next

Following the Maryland game the Tar Heels will return home for games with V. M. I. April 16, and Duke's Blue Devils April 23. The Blue Devils, rated as the team to give the Tar Heels a battle for state honors, have been greatly weakened by infield losses, but the Devils still have a strong team in the person of Bobbie Coombs, all-American pitcher last year and nephew of Jack Coombs, Duke's coach. Last year Duke split with the Tar Heels, with Coombs winning one game easily, and Captain Cecil Longest holding the Devils hitless for seven innings in the return affair.

'SKY DEVILS' HAS GOOD AIR SHOTS

"Sky Devils," playing today at the Carolina, is a fast-moving picture based on the adventures of three Americans in the war, and has been filmed on an extravagant scale. In it was used an air fleet of fifty-five planes to make the sensational flying sequences, one scene alone shows fifty ships in action above the clouds. This is Howard Hughes' first comedy production since "Two Arabian Knights," four years ago.

The story of "Sky Devils" is an original written by a large staff of famous authors including Robert E. Sherwood, noted playwright and critic; Robert E. Benchley, famous humorist; and Joseph Moncure March, who wrote the dialogue for "Hell's Angels."

It is written purely from an entertainment angle with Spencer Tracy and George Cooper in the leading roles, and Ann Dvorak, a leading lady new to the screen, playing opposite them. William Boyd, Billy Bevan and Yola D'Avril are also in the cast which was directed by Edward Sutherland.

New Pledging Rules

(Big Ten News Service) Urbana, Ill., March 29.—A new plan to allow new students who have decided on the fraternity they desire and upon the approval of the house, to be pledged without the formal rushing red-tape at the University of Illinois is now being considered before the Interfraternity council.

The plan would have the freshmen sign slips designating the house they desire and turn this into an impartial faculty judge. These will be compared with the lists prepared by the fraternities as to the names of those they would like to pledge. If the lists and the new student's choice agree, both will be notified by the first pledging date.

SIDELIGHTS

By Phil Alston

George Hinton's trick of shutting out Maryland Tuesday and allowing only five hits was a performance worth noting. It isn't often that a college pitcher does a thing like that against first class opposition, and particularly a Carolina pitcher. George had excellent control against the Old Liners and if he keeps that up he'll be troublesome for almost any man's team.

Dunlap seems to have found the range if that homer and double Tuesday are any indication, and the sooner he gets to smacking them with greater regularity the better the Tar Heels' chances for the state title will be. Weathers, too, has shown hitting abilities in his two appearances this year and if he continues to come through, one of Coach Hearn's biggest worries will be over.

Smokey Ferebee has solved the short stop problem. He seems to have a habit of coming through at the right time, which is convenient.

Bozey Berger, Maryland's all-American basketball guard, couldn't do much with George Hinton's curve ball, but he certainly handled third in fine style and looked the part of a great ball player.

Carolina has made 16 errors in three baseball games, an average of a little more than five a game. Seven of them came in the Davidson game, a scrap that saw fifteen runs cross the plate and not a one of them earned. Carolina's six-run splurge in the first inning won that one, but those Wildcats are always troublesome.

The frosh trackmen opened their season with a win over Charlotte last week and the work of Williamson, Hawthorne, Childers, and a few more indicates that Coach Bob has another great bunch of prospects on hand. You can depend on Coach Bob to make excellent performers out of them if they stay in school, but Carolina has lost more good track men through ineligibility than anything else, and it may happen again unless these boys make up their minds to get their work off first.

Spring boxing practice got under way this week with quite a few regulars from the 1932 team on hand, including Marty Levinson, who practically never gets out of condition, and Nat Lumpkin. News is that Platt Landis, who fought as a light-heavyweight in 1931, will be back in school next fall. Platt now weighs well over 200 and will make a fine heavyweight next winter.

The intramural boxing tournament this spring should be a big one. The competition is wide open, and if there are any favorites for the individual titles, Archie Allen doesn't know who they are. The tournament offers a fine chance for someone to discover boxing abilities if he is willing to give it a try. Some of Carolina's best were uncovered in intramural bouts.

American Voting Light

Americans do not want the voting franchise according to an article appearing in the Daily Illini, in which was brought out the fact that Germany, with a population little more than half as large as ours polled almost as many votes in the last presidential election as were cast in this country for Hoover and Smith.

The semi-finals of the freshman tennis tournament were played off yesterday. Jones won easily from Shulman, by 6-2, 6-0. In the lower bracket Lovvill beat Weesner in an interesting match. Spectators at the courts yesterday saw a brilliant display of tennis. Hines and Shuford in a challenge match against Grant and Wright won after a hard close five set struggle. Grant and Wright won the first two sets by 6-4, 6-2, but lost the next three by 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. This match was one of a series which will determine who will play Lott and his partner who are expected to play here on April 9th in some exhibition matches.

Georgia Tech once defeated Cumberland 222 to 0 in a 45-minute football game.

Spring Boxing

Spring boxing practice is taking place daily at 4:00 o'clock in the Tin Can. In conjunction with this there will be practice for the coming intramural tournament.

Women Scholars Excel

(Big Ten News Service) Urbana, Ill., March 30.—Women of the freshman class at the University of Illinois who engage in scholastic activities excel the first year men in the scholastic averages, according to an announcement by the dean of men. The women's average for the last semester was 3.614; while that of the men stood at 3.019.

It was pointed out that only the superior students were sent out by organized houses for this work. Also, the greatest waste of time both among fraternities and sororities freshmen occurs within the organization themselves and not in the generally recognized co-curricular activities.

"Mate-choosing" is a major problem of an average university student according to The Stanford Daily, which points out the number of questionnaires among students revealing the ideal mate.
