

TAR HEEL TRACK TEAM TO ENGAGE NAVY SATURDAY

Meet With Midshipmen Here Will Open 1932 Season for Carolina Outfit.

The Carolina track team will meet the Midshipmen from Annapolis here Saturday, and the following Monday Virginia will be host to the Tar Heels at Charlottesville.

Navy's 1931 Record

The Navy's scores for last season are as follows: Navy 71, W. & M. 55; Navy 101, Maryland 25; Navy 47, Notre Dame 79; Navy 75, W. Virginia 51; Navy 42, Ohio State 84.

Carolina's last encounter with the Navy was in 1925 in triangular meet. The Navy won by a large margin followed by Carolina with Maryland taking third.

Annapolis Stars

Both Coleman and Waybright of the Navy are ten-second men in the hundred yard dash. Coleman also does the 220 in 22:4. Evans holds the quarter record and Hardman runs the half mile in 1:57.5 and the mile in 4:18.

In the field events Connaway high jumps 6'1", and his teammate, McRae, broad jumps 21'6". Bandy pole vaults twelve feet and Underwood pushes the shot 45'1". Shinn throws the discus 137'3", while Kane hurls the javelin 172'5".

The Midshipmen have a crack team and it will certainly take a lot of concentrated effort on the part of Carolina to beat them.

CAROLINA TEAMS FACE BIG WEEK

Next week carries several heavy dates for the Carolina teams. Carolina's southern conference indoor track champs will open their outdoor season with Navy Saturday, and the Tar Heels' Tri-State baseball champions will meet V. M. I. here Saturday afternoon in two of the headliners.

It will also be a big week for the Carolina tennis players. Coach John Kenfield, rewarding his men for past good work, is taking all the varsity regulars and several of the best freshmen to Pinehurst, and they expect to play some good tennis and to see a lot more at the big north-south tourney, Monday through Saturday.

The Tar Heels will enter their own contingent of stars, including Bryan Grant, former southern and national claycourt champion; Wilmer Hines, national junior champ; and Lenoir Wright, finalist in the southern tourney last summer.

Pool Contests Will Commence Tomorrow

Play will start tomorrow in the game room of Graham Memorial, for the campus elimination pool tournament. Contestants failing to appear ten minutes after the scheduled time will have their match forfeited. The results of these matches are to be given to the director of the game room.

A. A. Shuford, Prominent Business Man, Finds Time To Serve State

On Board of Trustees for Thirteen Years, Hickory Manufacturer Has Always Been Staunch Champion of Religious Liberty Among Other Activities.

A. Alex Shuford, prominent Hickory cotton manufacturer and a trustee for thirteen years, is recognized as one of Catawba county's most successful business men, but he has still found much time always for serving his state and community and neighbors in many other capacities.

He has lived in Catawba county all his life and started in business on his own at the early age of nineteen, after attending the University one year in 1896-97. He was in the hardware business for twelve years, but deserted merchandising in 1909 to enter the cotton manufacturing field, where he has been eminently successful.

Shuford has represented his district in the State Senate, and has also held positions on the boards of the state hospital at Morganton and the School for the Deaf at the same place. He has always maintained close contact with the University, as trustee and as president of the Catawba County alumni association. He has served as a trustee since 1919, and is a member of the new consolidated board of trustees.

review of his actions relieved his mind on that score. But he became immensely worried about how the driver of the chariot would take it if the body had to be picked up in pieces.

"Uncle Andy" knew, from personal observations, that by the time the medical students were through chopping and cutting his body it would take many angels to get his body together again, and he began to doubt as to whether they would take the time required to do it.

These thoughts worried "Dean Andy" to the extent that he began to wonder if it would be possible to buy back his body, even at a discount. The fear of missing a ride on the angel-driven chariot overcame the awe that he held for the medical authorities, especially when he felt that he was going to renege on a perfectly legal transaction.

He pulled out his worn pocket-book, extracted sixty dollars, went into the office, and explained his feelings. The proposition was a peculiar one. The medical school had never faced a similar situation. But upon looking over the records, the authorities found that the deed had not been recorded. The document was torn up, the sixty dollars accepted, and Dean Andy was again the proud possessor of his own body. He ran his hand up and down his anatomy and observed, "Yas, suh, I shore feels like I used to be."

This legend has become one of the traditions of the University, but its authenticity has never been proven. How it began is a mystery. Possibly a med student of five or ten years ago told it as a joke and it has been retold until now it is accepted almost as a fact.

Legend Denied

But the story has been denied by some of "Dean Andy's" life-long colored friends and associates. "Uncle Billy" McDade, aged colored caretaker of Graham Memorial and close friend of the "Dean" for more than fifty years, considers the legend untrue. "Andy was not that kind of a man," commented "Uncle Billy." "He had too much sense to do a thing like that."

Affectionately known to stu-

His success in the cotton manufacturing field is best attested to by the fact that he is now president of the Hickory Spinning company, the A. A. Shuford Mill company and the Granite Falls Manufacturing company. He is also president and treasurer of the Granite Cordage company and secretary-treasurer of the Highland Cordage company.

Fought Evolution Bill

Shuford is a member of the German Reformed church and a staunch champion of religious liberty. He fought the Polletturlington evolution bill to the finish when he was in the state legislature, and retiring he predicted that their forces would never succeed in forcing their bill through the Assembly. "Religion must come from within, not from without," he said in explaining his statement.

Shuford has three sons and has already sent two of them to his Alma Mater. A. A., III, was a member of the class of '28 and later took advanced work in the school of business administration at Harvard University, and William B. Shuford was a member of the class of '30.

Modern Students Improving States President Lowell

Not only does instruction in the best American colleges in many respects equal that of Oxford and Cambridge, but the American college student of 1932 is superior to his predecessor of a generation ago, is the opinion of President Lowell of Harvard.

"Our college students as a whole appear more mature than a generation ago, not only in scholarship but also in their outside interests and in the sense of proportionate values which is the flower of maturity," President Lowell said. "And this in spite of—perhaps to some extent because of—the fact that they enter a year younger than they did in the early nineties. Maturity is by no means wholly a matter of years. It depends much more on environment, and above all on responsibility. "A youth who enters college at nineteen and is treated like a school boy matures less rapidly than one who enters at seventeen and is treated like a man. To enter at the appropriate age and be expected to be rather above than below his maturity is Berry are the outstanding men for the catching position.

and people of Chapel Hill as the "dean of University janitors," Anthony Johnson died at his home on West Franklin street Tuesday morning following an illness of two weeks. Funeral services took place afternoon at the Rock Hill Baptist church.

"Dean Andy" had been employed by the University for more than twenty-five years and was well thought of by the faculty and students. When he was unable to continue his work at the medical building recently, he was retired and given the official title of dean. The Y. M. C. A. and freshman class raised a donation for him.

Honored in Chapel

At an assembly program recently at which "Dean Andy" was guest of honor, Dr. C. S. Mangum, professor of anatomy, spoke highly of him as a model janitor and fine character.

At the age of sixty-five, several years after the death of his first wife, when he was debating the feasibility of marrying again, he commented, "I can't exactly make up my mind, but I don't have anything against married life. I like it." He was married the next year.

FROSH BASEBALL TEAM WILL OPEN AGAINST A. M. A.

Carolina's freshman baseball team will open its 1932 season tomorrow afternoon against A. M. A. on the freshman field of the University.

The freshmen have been under fire only twice against opponents, once during a practice contest with Chapel Hill high school and again in a game with the varsity reserves. The high school game resulted in a freshman loss by a 6 to 4 score. The frosh have improved very much since then and using a new combination downed the varsity reserves last Thursday afternoon.

The probable lineup for the first year men is not known. Coach Cerney has frequently shifted the first string, but in any case two teams will be used.

The starting pitcher will be selected from Folger, Webster, Childers, and Lewis, with one of the other also seeing action in the closing innings.
