

INVITATIONS WILL GO ON SALE IN LOBBY TODAY

Seniors Have Only Week in Which to Order Commencement Booklets.

Commencement invitations will go on sale to seniors at assembly period this morning in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. and in the Pritchard-Lloyd drug store, members of the senior invitation committee announced yesterday. Since the invitations are already two weeks behind the regular time, the committee has found it necessary to complete sale in one week, beginning this morning and ending next Tuesday.

Great slashes have been made in the price of the invitations over the cost of last year to enable every senior to procure several. These invitations serve for two purposes: as a cheap, formal announcement of graduation to relatives, and as appropriate souvenirs of the occasion.

Select Two Types

The committee has selected two types of invitations this year. The first is a paper booklet with a high quality paper back. Containing forty-four pages, it will include pictures of buildings on the campus, a calendar, the invitation, a picture of President Graham and facsimile of his signature, a program of the commencement events, a list of class officers, and all class committees, a full roll of seniors and graduates in the law, pharmacy, medical, and library science schools, and all other persons who will receive degrees.

The Playmakers building, South, the Old Well, and Graham Memorial will be pictured in the booklet, while the covers will have a neatly embossed drawing of the new bell tower with a background of silver.

The other form of booklet will contain the same material.

STUDENTS WILL PARTICIPATE IN SOCIAL MEETING

Local Delegation Is Being Organized to Attend Conference in Durham.

When the North Carolina conference for social service meets in Durham April 24 through 26, the University will send a sizeable delegation to the student division of the conference.

The student division will begin its session at the 11:00 o'clock service in Duke Memorial church, Sunday morning. Dean Justin Miller of the Duke law school will preach.

Graham Will Speak

President Frank P. Graham of the University and Carl Taylor of State College will speak at the afternoon session which begins at 3:00 o'clock. The general topic of the session will be on the present economic changes.

Sunday night the speakers will be Harold Janson, professor of sociology at Duke, and Albert Russell, dean of sociology and religion at Duke.

Monday morning the state group will meet with the preachers, and Dr. Donald Tamblin of Greensboro, and Dr. E. C. Branson, professor of rural social economics at the University will talk on the plight of the church at the present time.

Golden Fleece Possibilities Picked By Daily Tar Heel

Task of Selecting Candidates to Foremost Honor Society of Campus Made More Difficult Each Year by Increasing Number Of Activity Men With High Qualifications.

The task of selecting a list of those who are possible timber for the Golden Fleece, the foremost honor society on the campus and indicative of reward for merit, becomes increasingly difficult each year with the growing number of activity men and those whose personal qualifications have made them desirable candidates. When the Fleece was first organized there were little more than five hundred men students enrolled in the University, and from this number it was customary to pick seven or nine, and at such a number it has stayed during the growth of the University. It therefore appears possible that the usual quota will be extended this year to admit ten or possibly fifteen men. Surely, the merit of the men listed as possibilities by THE DAILY TAR HEEL recommends most strongly the expansion of the tapping quota.

Impressive Rites

The ceremony, fittingly impressive for the oldest honorary organization in the country, will be solemnized in Memorial hall next Wednesday evening, with Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, as speaker of the evening. At the conclusion of the principal address comes the tapping, a most impressive and equally mystifying rite. Two black hooded figures adorned with the emblematic fleeces across their shoulders slowly pace up and down the aisles of the stilled hall and, lightning-like, pounce upon the men of their choice

Textile Men Will Lead Seminars Here

The University Y. M. C. A. has announced the third of a series of meetings and lectures given during the spring quarter. George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute of New York; B. B. Gossett, president of Chadwick-Hoskins Company of Charlotte; and Kemp P. Lewis, president of the Irwin Mills of Durham will be here Thursday, April 28, to carry on seminar work during the morning and to give interviews which may develop during the day. The general topic of discussion will be about the present situation in the textile industry. Sloan will present an address Thursday evening in Memorial hall.

While in Chapel Hill they will be the guests of President Graham at his home.

Six Medical Students Average Honor Grades

Dean I. H. Manning of the University medical school announced yesterday those students of the second year class who averaged honor roll grades for the fall and winter quarters. First year students do not receive their grades until the completion of the year.

Those making the honor roll are: Frank Adams of Chapel Hill, G. R. Benton of Fremont, W. C. Hunsucker of Gibson, J. T. Kerr of Wilmington, F. C. O'Neal of Henderson, and John Thornton of Bryson City.

The number of students on the honor roll has increased since last year according to Dr. Manning.

and place upon them the ribbon of the organization, signifying their selection as neophytes.

Equally important as activities and leadership in student affairs, the Fleece considers character, integrity, popularity, and service rendered to the University and the student body. Men are considered impersonally and impartially on the strict boundaries of these qualifications. Their choice is not the result of sudden decision, but the outcome of a careful survey over a period of several years during their stay at the University, in which these qualities are given careful consideration and the men under consideration studied carefully.

With these qualities as an ideal, the Fleece rightfully lays its claim as the highest of honorary organizations, and membership is coveted by those whose ideals conform with these principles.

Tar Heel's List

Mindful of the importance of the selection, THE DAILY TAR HEEL herein lists those whose attributes measure up nearly or completely to the high standards set by the Fleece. The first man tapped by the order is known as "Jason," and his initial tapping is emblematic of the highest honor obtainable in the Fleece.

We offer two possible candidates for this honor in the 1932 tappings, Heywood Weeks and Archie Davis. The one of these two who is not tapped first will certainly come second, if the sys-

Music Group Plans Final Bill Of Year

The last meeting of the music department of the Community club is set for 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Hill music auditorium. The program, arranged by Mrs. Fred McCall, will consist of selections from the compositions of Brahms. The piano solos will include Ballade in D Minor by Nelson Kennedy, Intermezzo in E flat by Miss Ida Lee Zum Brummen, and Rhapsody in B minor by Harry Lee Knox. Mrs. R. H. Wettach, accompanied by Mrs. A. S. Wheeler, will present a group of vocal solos. Two selections of chamber music will be a movement from Sonata for Violin, played by Mr. and Mrs. T. S. McCorkle; and the Horn Trio, played by Thor Johnson, Earl Wolslagel, and Mrs. McCall.

N. Y. Library Director Will Visit Chapel Hill

Dr. James I. Wyer, director of the New York state library and chairman of the board of education for librarianship of the American Library Association, will be in Chapel Hill Wednesday night and Thursday visiting the school of library science.

Dr. Wyer will visit the school officially for the purpose of accreditation by the American Library Association. He is the first of the two experts, who, by the rules of the association, must approve of a school of library science for two consecutive years before admission is granted it. As the local school has only been in existence for one year it is still not eligible for admission into the association.

COMMEMORATION OF GOETHE TO BE STAGED TONIGHT

Final Plans for Production of Works of Famous Poet by Playmakers Completed.

Final plans for the Carolina Playmaker's presentation of the masterpieces of Goethe were completed yesterday and the committee in charge of the program has promised an entertaining and instructive evening. The presentation, which takes place this evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Playmakers theatre, is one of several events which will be given in commemoration of the death a hundred years ago, of Johann Wolfgang Goethe, the greatest German poet.

The first part of the program will be given over to Goethe's master ballad and lyrics. These will be given in both German and English, and will be directed by Ernest C. Metzenthin.

Greek Background

Scenes from Iphigenia in Tauris will make up the second part of the program. Professor J. P. Harland will explain the Greek background of the drama, and monologues in German and English will be presented.

Following this the Carolina Salon Ensemble will present Beethoven's Egmont Overture and Ballet Music by Shubert.

The third part of the program will be four scenes from Faust under the direction of Meno Spann. Professor A. C. Howell will conclude the performance with a reading in English of Goethe's Epilogue to Schiller's "Song of the Bell."

One hundred seats will be reserved at fifty cents each and a silver offering will be taken during the performance to defray the heavy expense incurred for the production. The reserved seats may be obtained at the box office after 7:30 p. m.

A musical program sponsored by the music department will be given sometime in May as another feature of the Goethe Centenary Celebration.

LITTLE THEATRE MOVEMENT WILL INVADE MOVIES SOON, SAYS GREEN

University of North Carolina Professor of Philosophy, Writing For Cinema Producers, Says Trend Is Toward Using Motion Pictures as Educational Medium.

By College News Service

Los Angeles, April 18.—(Special to THE DAILY TAR HEEL)—Professor Paul Green of the University of North Carolina, who is in Hollywood to write for the movies, believes that a "Little Theatre of the cinema" is imminent.

His opinion was contained in an interview this week with Philip K. Scheuer, assistant drama editor of The Los Angeles Times.

"It is coming," Green was quoted as saying, in connection with a Little Theatre cinematic movement.

"Schools and universities are recognizing the cinema, and textbooks on script-writing and allied subjects already have been published. These are signs of a movement that is bound to come."

Under New Contract

Green is under contract with Warner Brothers-First National, and is now writing and adapting a new vehicle for

Newly Elected Officers Will Be Inducted Today

McCall To Address Engineering Society

The local student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers will gather for its regular meeting tonight at 7:00 o'clock in 210 Graham Memorial.

F. B. McCall of the law school faculty will speak on "The Law and the Layman."

MUSICIANS RETURN FROM CHARLOTTE

Local Women Appear in Chorus of North Carolina Music Festival.

Professor H. S. Dyer and T. S. McCorkle, Lamar Stringfield, all of the music department, and Herbert Hazelman, freshman at the University, returned Saturday from Charlotte where they attended the annual convention of the State Federation of Music clubs.

This was the first music festival taking place under the auspices of the federation. Professor Dyer took several singers from Chapel Hill to serve as a nucleus for the chorus of the convention. Among these were Mrs. R. H. Wettach, Mrs. G. A. Harter, Mrs. E. L. Mackie, Mrs. H. S. Dyer, Mrs. G. H. Lawrence, Mrs. T. S. McCorkle, and Miss Helen Eubanks. The participation of these singers from Chapel Hill was the first time that the local music club has taken an active part in federation work.

At a business meeting Wednesday night the federation decided to hold the convention in Raleigh and the final contests of the federation will be held in Chapel Hill next year.

Friday night Professor Dyer directed the grand concert of the chorus which was accompanied by the Charlotte Civic Symphony Orchestra. Stringfield gave a short history of the work of the Institute of Folk Music. He also spoke before a group of Charlotte business men in behalf of the new State Symphony Orchestra Society.

HEYWOOD WEEKS WILL INTRODUCE CAMPUS LEADERS

Students to Gather in Memorial Hall for Annual Ceremony Of Inauguration.

Following the custom started last year, the student body will gather at a mass meeting in Memorial hall this morning to induct the next year's student officers. These men were elected two weeks ago in the annual spring elections and will take office tomorrow.

In the ceremonies this morning, Mayne Albright, president of the student body, will speak for a few minutes before turning over his office to Heywood Weeks, newly elected president, who will introduce the other officials. President Weeks will outline his new policies and introduce the members of the student council.

The new members of the council are E. C. Daniel, vice-president of the student body; Sparks Griffin, senior representative; Graham McLeod, junior representative; Gene Bagwell, sophomore representative; W. B. Smith, medical school representative; W. W. Johnson, pharmacy school representative, and C. P. Randolph, law school representative.

Class Presidents

Arlindo Cate, president of the senior class, will introduce the remaining officers of his class: Dan McDuffie, vice-president; Lee Greer, secretary; Francis Anderson, treasurer.

The president of the junior class, Webster Collet, will introduce his fellow officers: Red Boyles, vice-president; Roy McMillan, secretary; and John O'Neal, treasurer.

STATE 'Y' HEADS TO GATHER HERE FOR CONFERENCE

Training Group of College Students Will Meet in Chapel Hill April 22.

The annual state officer's training conference of the college Y. W. C. A.'s and Y. M. C. A.'s will meet at Chapel Hill April 22 through 24. Fifty to sixty retiring and incoming officers of these organizations will be present at the conference from colleges all over the state.

The purpose of the conference is to train the incoming officers for their duties during the coming year and to benefit by the problems and experiences of the old officers.

Dr. E. McNeal Potat of Raleigh, President Frank P. Graham, Dean Milner of Guilford, Dr. Shelton Smith of Duke, and Reverend Tom Wright of Chapel Hill will speak to the delegates; and the conference program will also include the last lecture of Dr. Robert Millikan which will be given Friday evening.

The president of the training conference is Rawlings Coffman of Duke University.

The local Y. M. C. A. cabinets are providing rooms for the delegates, and ex-president F. M. (Pardner) James is a member of the conference committee.
