

Grant Blasts Way Into Finals Of North Carolina Tennis Tourney

Hines and Shuford Enter Doubles Final; Grant-Wright May Come Through.

HINES WILL MEET WELCH
No Upsets Registered in State Tourney, but Favorites Find Tough Going Yesterday.

Bryan "Bitsy" Grant blasted his way into the singles finals of the North Carolina college tennis tournament yesterday, and will take up his big racquet in defense of his crown at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon, meeting either Wilmer Hines, the teammate he defeated last year, or Barney Welch of Duke, who will meet in the other semi-final match at 11:00 o'clock this morning.

Hines and Harley Shuford won their way into the doubles finals yesterday, but darkness came when Grant and Lenoir Wright had their semi-final match with Norwood and Welch of Duke at one set all. The third set will be played at 10:00 o'clock this morning, and the winner will meet Hines and Shuford at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon for the title. Grant and Hines captured last year.

No Upsets

The favorites continued to plough through the varsity tourney without upsets, but many a seeded star was forced to extend himself and show the crowd his best game.

Grant, facing a day of four matches, dispatched his teammate John Dillard quickly in his first, but Lenoir Wright, third-ranking Tar Heel and a finalist in the Southern Senior last summer, gave him a great battle in his semi-final. Grant took the first two sets 6-2, 6-0, then while trailing 3-2, Wright found himself and played two of the best sets of his career. Wright won the third set 7-5, Grant the deciding set 6-4, and the big little star had to be at his best to do it.

Welch Wins

Harley Shuford, fourth-ranking Tar Heel, gave Barney Welch, Duke, seeded third, another real scare. Welch won 7-9, 6-4, 6-4, but it was a great match, with only one break of service in each set, and with both boys playing their top game. Jim Peake, Duke, put up another epic exhibition in his quarter-final with Lenoir Wright. Wright was off at the start, and trying to save himself for his match with Grant, but Peake, with all sorts of aces in his cannonball serve, made him open up wide to win 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

Doubles Play

Hines and Shuford, Carolina's favorites, contributed the feature doubles play, beating Peake and Don Garber, Duke, 6-2, 7-5, 6-3, in their semi-final. Shuford was seconding his ranking teammate splendidly, playing a good all-court game, and Hines was playing his usual fine game. They took the first set 6-2, but Garber and Peake warmed up in the second, and the Tar Heels only won 7-5, after Shuford had served two lightning aces in the corners. The Duke boys got a 2-0 lead in the third set, but the Tar Heels began to break their serve at this point, and ran the set out 6-3, with Hines delivering a crashing overhead shot for the final point.

FAVORITES IN TENNIS TOURNEY

These teammates, one short and one long, will probably be on opposite sides of the net again this year when this afternoon brings around the singles and doubles finals in this year's North Carolina college tennis tournament.

Last year Grant beat Hines for the singles title, and then the two got together and won the doubles crown. They are opponents in both singles and doubles this year, for the Grant-Hines team has been dissolved, and Grant is playing with Lenoir Wright and Hines with Harley Shuford.

S. A. E. DEFEATS KAPPA ALPHA 8-3

T. E. P.'s Lose First Game of Season to Phi Alpha in Intramural Baseball.

S. A. E. scored its runs in the first and last innings to take a fast and well-played game from Kappa Alpha 8 to 5 in the intramural contests yesterday afternoon. S. A. E. jumped into a long lead in the first inning, scoring five times while its opponents were not counting. During the next four frames, however, Kappa Alpha did all the run-making and at the beginning of the sixth inning the score was five-all. The winners then crossed the plate three times to clinch the battle. Cope and Harris at bat and Parsley in the field led the S. A. E. attack. The hitting of J. Phipps and the fielding of H. Phipps was outstanding for the losers.

Score by innings:
S. A. E. 5 0 0 0 3—8
K. A. 0 2 0 2 1 0—5

T. E. P. Loses First

With Dintzman pitching almost airtight ball and the whole Phi Alpha team playing heads-up behind him, Phi Alpha extended its winning streak by downing T. E. P. 7 to 2. It was the first loss of the season for T. E. P. The winners took a two-run lead in the opening inning and then topped this off with five points in the fourth and fifth frames to clinch the contest. T. E. P. did not break into the scoring until the fifth. Besides a great game on the mound, Dintzman led the hitting along with Bessen for Phi Alpha, while Hirsch was best for T. E. P.

Score by innings:
T. E. P. 0 0 0 1 0 1—2
Phi Alpha .. 2 0 0 1 4 0 x—7

TOURNAMENT FOR GOLFERS OF HIGH SCHOOLS PLANNED

Inauguration of Annual Series of Matches Is Scheduled for Thursday, April 28.

The state high school athletic association, through Secretary E. R. Rankin, announced today the inauguration of an annual series of North Carolina high school golf tournaments, the first scheduled at Hope Valley course, Thursday, April 28.

A number of high schools in the state have strong golf teams and have manifested much interest in the tournament. There will be team competition and individual competition. Any member school may enter a team consisting of four men, or may enter from one to three men in the individual competition.

Eighteen holes will be played in the morning and eighteen in the afternoon. All scoring will be medal play only. The team whose members make the lowest aggregate score for the 36 holes will be recognized as the championship team, and the player making the lowest score for the 36 holes will be crowned individual champion.

All contestants will meet in the Y. M. C. A. here at 8:00 o'clock Wednesday night, April 27, with John F. Kenfield, University golf coach, who will be in charge of the tournament and who will announce the drawings at this meeting.

MUSIC LAWS TROUBLE NORTHWESTERN SENIORS

(Big Ten News Service)
Evanston, Ill., April 22.—The senior ball of Northwestern University is causing the treasurer of the senior class much worry. Ace Brigade's Band, selected by the entertainment committee to play for the ball, must be accompanied by another band, according to the laws of the Chicago Music Union.

The committee does not want two bands, but under the rules of the union, it must pay for two while hearing only one.

Tar Heels Will Be Seeking Second Straight Victory Over Duke Blue Devils.

BEARS ON BIG FIVE RACE

Carolina Risks Perfect Record In Group; Duke After Second Win in State.

Captain Cecil Longest of Carolina and Bobby Coombs, top card in Coach Coombs' pack of pitchers at Duke, are slated to oppose each other when the Tar Heels meet the Blue Devils on Emerson field this afternoon in a battle having a decided bearing on the Big Five title race.

After four years of Duke supremacy, the Tar Heels, behind the three-hit pitching of Longest, jumped on Tim McKeithan for a 6-2 win last year. Previous to that game, Blue Devil diamond outfits had grabbed nine successive victories over Carolina teams.

Coombs Defeated Once

Coombs, who last year received all-American recognition in College Humor, up to last week had won every game he started for Duke. He toppled before State and Pitcher Lanning, who set the Devils down with one run while his mates were counting three times.

Carolina has taken its only Big Five game, defeating Davidson Easter Monday. A victory over Duke would place the Heels right up at the top with Wake Forest, with two wins against no losses. The race is now at a climax, as the other three teams, Davidson, State, and Duke have each won one and lost one, and they will either show the necessary stuff to stick with the leaders or drop out of the running.

Probable Lineup

Johnny Peacock, who last week was shifted from behind the plate to right field, will probably start in the latter position, and Patisall will likely appear as catcher.

The remainder of the Carolina lineup will in all probability be as follows: Dunlap, 1b; Weathers, 2b; Powell, 3b; Ferebee, ss; Croon, 1f; DeRose, cf; and Longest, p.

Band to Play at Game

The University band will play at the Carolina-Duke baseball game this afternoon. The Duke band is expected to come over for the game and the presence of the two bands will add color to what will probably be the most exciting ball game this year.
