

FRAT COUNCIL AT WISCONSIN VOTED OUT AT MEETING

History of Organization Declared To Have Been One Failure After Another.

After being attacked as the greatest farce the university campus had ever seen, the interfraternity council at the University of Wisconsin was voted out of existence by a seventeen to three vote at a hectic session Tuesday night.

The history of the council was declared to have been one failure after another all through its existence, and eight specific failures were pointed out:

Rushing regulations had been so grossly violated as to have become farcical.

An attempt to slash orchestra rates was a miserable failure.

Cooperative buying was brought up and dropped on three separate occasions.

The loan fund dance, a worthwhile activity, was abandoned after one year of trial.

A plan for freshman publications fell through before it got started.

Substitution of a probation period for "hell" week was never carried out.

Nothing was accomplished in the readjustment of fraternity taxes.

Interfraternity court has done little or nothing.

It was charged that the council had become the laughing stock of the campus, and that the faculty was sponsoring its abolition, or at least were not interested in the continuation of fraternities on the campus.

The student life and interests committee of the faculty was put in charge of directing future fraternity activity, and the funds of the old council were turned over to the student loan fund.

The Buckeyes carried off the lion's share of the honors in last year's classic, winning the 440-yard relay, setting a new world's record of 3 minutes, 27.6 seconds in the spring medley, and also breaking the taps in the two-mile relay for a new carnival record.

MILLIKAN PRAISES SCIENCE'S METHOD IN FINAL LECTURE

"It is easy," he said, "to trace the pedigree of practically every modern industrial scientific device back to the new knowledge which Galileo's method began to bring to light.

"With increasing knowledge man's idea of God, the integrating factor in the universe, began to change. The days of child-like, anthropomorphic conceptions began to draw to an end, and mankind began to move forward to a finer, bigger, more mature, more satisfying conception of God.

Conception Changed

"Man's conception of duty and therefore of religion also began to change. Under the old conception his chief duty had been to propitiate his God. Hence monasteries, penances, withdrawals from the world, and useless lives. Under the new conception duty came to be to try to understand God's laws, and to bring one's life and the lives of all mankind into harmony with them. That is what brought about the stupendous change in outlook of the past century."

Dr. Millikan described the "three great elements in human progress as the discovery of the Golden Rule, the idea of natural law or the uniformity of nature and the discovery of the idea of evolution or of age long growth. "Religion and science became the two great forces which have pulled and are pulling the world onward and upward. The two are necessarily intimately related."

PLOT OF PICTURE BASED ON FACTS

"Disorderly Conduct" Will Show at Carolina Theatre Today.

William Anthony McGuire, noted playwright and screen dramatist, said that actual happenings were the basis of practically the entire plot of "Disorderly Conduct," the Fox Films production starring Sally Eilers, Spencer Tracy, and El Brendel at the Carolina theatre today.

"I won't say where it all occurred," said McGuire, "because most of the characters involved are still alive, but I was in a position to observe the whole affair, and very little changing was necessary in writing the story for film production.

"The hero was an intimate friend of mine—a speed cop who got into trouble with his superiors for refusing to play favorites. Just as I have portrayed him in the picture, he was 'broken' when he arrested the daughter of a notorious politician, and this soured him completely. Realizing that under the circumstances a man was foolish to try to enforce the law without fear or favor, he went to the opposite extreme."

Included in the supporting cast are Ralph Bellamy as the police captain, Ralph Morgan, Allan Dinehart, Cornelius Keefe, and Charles Grapewin.
