Oldest Living University Alumnus Entered Seventy-Nine Years Ago

Reverend John H. Tillinghast, Ninety-Six Year Old Minister and Formerly Chaplain in Confederate Army, Recalls Days When He Attended University Before Civil War.

Files of the alumni office indicate that the title of the oldest living alumnus of the University seems to be divided. Although William Gaston Candler of Candler, N. C., is the oldest living matriculate from point of age, the Reverend John Huske Tillinghast of Eastover, S. C., entered the University one year before Mr. Candler. Tillinghast celebrated his ninety-sixth birthday last September.

He was born September 19, 1835, at Hillsboro, where his mother had lived all her life. Tillinghast says little of his youth except that his father sent him to the academy of W. J. Bingham, The Oaks, in Orange county, for preparation to enter college.

Registered in 1853

He registered as a student at the University July, 1853. While in Chapel Hill he roomed in a private residence, the home of Andrew Mickle. The "first honor" he received at the University, says Mr. Tillinghast, was that of being chosen a member of the Dialectic Society during his freshman year. However, he was compelled to leave his studies at the beginning of his sophomore year in September "on ac't of ill health."

He next went to college at Hampden-Sidney, Va., where he received his A.B. in June, 1857. While in school there he earned his board by private teaching. He wrote the following account of his life from this point on for the records of the alumni office:

"On my graduation at Hampden-Sidney I assisted Professor Ralph Graves in his school at Belmont, Granville county, N.

DR. MOSHER MAY ACCEPT POSITION AT C. C. OF N. Y.

Northern Institution Seeks Professor With Salary Nearly Double Present Earning.

Dr. E. R. Mosher, professor of education and director of training here, announced yesterday that he had been offered a professorship of secondary education at the College of the City of New York at a salary nearly double that which he now receives. He said that he will probably accept the offer.

This is just another incident bearing out the point that, due to the tremendous cut in teaching salaries in North Carolina, the University is becoming the happy hunting ground of other institutions of higher learning. Dr. Mosher follows several other prominent members of the University's formidable faculty in leaving the University.

If he resigns, Dr. Mosher will be the third member of the University faculty in the past three months to be called away by attractive offers.

Not Accepted Yet

In an interview with THE DAILY TAR HEEL yesterday, Dr. Mosher said that he had not definitely decided to accept the offer. He said that it came entirely unsolicited and were it not for the fact that it is such a generous one he would not consider leaving at all. He is to teach graduate students only at City College. If Dr. Mosher decides to accept the offer his resignation will go into effect next September.

Dr. Mosher came to the University of North Carolina in 1923 as a professor of education and was attached to the extension division for three years. Then he was transferred to residence work in 1926 and made director of training. Since then he has been teaching regular courses in secondary education in the school of education and exercising general supervision over all teacher-training work done in the Chapel Hill schools.

The members of the rising senior class of the University will go to the polls today to decide upon their representative on the senior council for the coming year. John Manning, William Allsbrook, and Benton Bray are the nominees to be voted upon at the election today.

The election conducted under the supervision of the student council, will take place in Graham Memorial between the hours of 9:00 and 5:00 o'clock today. Only the members of the present junior class, the rising seniors, are eligible to vote. The successful candidate will go into office immediately upon his election.
