

CAMPUS TO VOTE AS FORECAST OF COMING ELECTION

Ballots to Be Cast in Lobby of Y Today Will Show Local Choice of Candidates.

The campus's preferences for candidates in the coming presidential, senatorial, and gubernatorial elections will be indicated by a straw vote which will be conducted by THE DAILY TAR HEEL this week.

The ballots are printed in this issue of the paper and may be deposited in a box placed in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. building today, tomorrow, and Friday.

The candidates to be voted upon in the straw ballot are Franklin D. Roosevelt, "Al" Smith, John N. Garner, Albert Ritchie, H. F. Byrd, "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, and Newton D. Baker for the Democrats and President Hoover for the Republicans. There are blanks left for any other candidates whom voters may prefer.

Bob Reynolds, Cameron Morrison, Tam Bowie, and Frank Grist are listed on the state senatorial ticket while J. C. B. Ehrlinghaus, R. T. Fountain, and A. J. Maxwell are the candidates for governor.

All students have been asked to cast their ballots today, tomorrow, or Friday as the object of the vote is to determine the preferences of the entire campus.

The facilities are the finest in Olympic history.

We discussed the women in swimming and diving in a former article. The male mainstays of the American Olympic team will be hard put to exceed the feminine quota of victories in the swim and dive events.

George Kojac, 100-meter back stroke champ in the 1928 Olympiad, representing Rutgers University and the N. Y. A. C., holds all world records for this event and is America's ace in the 100-meter free style—once Johnny Weissmuller's prime event and trophy hunting-ground.

Buster Crabbe of the L. A. A. C. holds the world record in the 300-yard medley, the 880-yard free style and the one-mile free style. Maiolo Kalili, Hawaiian husky from the land where children are almost literally born in the water, also of the L. A. A. C., is national champ in the 100 and 220-yards breast stroke. In the Olympics, he will swim the 100 and 400-meter breast stroke and the 100-meter back stroke. Kalili's brother, Manuela, looks with undisguised interest on the golf medals for the 100 and 400-meters free style events.

DR. HEER WILL CONDUCT SEMINAR THIS EVENING

Dr. Heer delivered a lecture on the subject Monday night, and has been asked to lead the discussion for the seminar, during which an open forum on the subject will be conducted.

World News Bulletins

Owen D. Young Out

Owen D. Young, New York industrialist and considered by many as a logical candidate for the presidency, today definitely withdrew his name from consideration as a Democratic nominee. This action reduced the field of dark horses who are now running far behind Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Young in a letter to a publisher friend of his said he did not wish, by silence, to put his friends in "the embarrassing position of making a wasteful and fruitless effort."

Al Smith's Budget

Alfred E. Smith, candidate for Democratic Presidential nomination, advocates the passage of the proposed manufacturer's sales tax. He stated that the opponents of the adoption of the sales tax were wrong in their slogan, "In order to make up the deficit, soak the rich."

"Soak capital and you soak labor," Smith said in rebuttal.

Smith's speech was broadcast over a nation-wide hook-up, and in it he outlined a program for balancing the budget giving ten points which he considered of primary importance to the consummation of such an aim.

Lad Awaits Electrocutation

Willie Rector, slow-witted mountain lad from Burke county, has been in his death row cell for seven months waiting for someone to come along and electrocute him. The state is in a tangle because the boy was not killed at the appointed time. The state apparently forgot the matter entirely and now the prisoner is without the power of appeal or reprieve.

New Japanese Premier

Kisaburo Suzuki, home minister, accepted the presidency of the Seiyukai (government) party yesterday and is thus practically assured of succeeding the assassinated Suyoshi Inukai as Japan's Premier. Several other seekers after the lead position in the ruling party were persuaded by influential members of the governing body to withdraw their claims and support Suzuki.

Jury Probes Baby Murder

Bronx Grand Jury is today probing the murder of the Lindbergh baby, and the first to take the stand was Col. Henry Breckenridge, personal representative of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. The purpose of the jury is to investigate the payment of the $50,000 ransom to the supposed kidnapers of the child. The search for the perpetrators of the crime, which is being carried on with no slackening in intensity, is handicapped by an inability to fix a motive for the crime.

Assassin of Doumer Under Hypnotic Spell

Dr. Paul Gorgulov, the man who assassinated President Paul Doumer of France, told an examining magistrate yesterday that he was in a "kind of hypnotic sleep" when he committed the crime. The assassin confessed that he was under the influence of liquor at the time he fired and consequently could tell nothing about the gun he used. "A mystic force armed my hand," he said, "I had no reason whatsoever to murder M. Doumer. I was in a kind of hypnotic sleep."

WHAT IS A LOYAL ALUMNUS?

THE QUESTION has been asked by a member of the Class of 1932: "What should I do to properly identify myself as a loyal alumnus of the University?"

It is a fair question.

First of all, an alumnus may be of most value to the University in making a success of his chosen line of endeavor. After all, the alumnus who has not been loyal to his own ambitions and abilities will probably not retain or develop any deep loyalty for the University. One can be of much more value, as an alumnus if he is first a good and successful citizen. Esteem and success begets influence.

The loyal University alumnus will welcome opportunities to promote the welfare of the University, not for the reason of setting up an idol, but because in the University will be seen a tool for betterment of the commonwealth. The loyal alumnus will seek opportunities to apply the principals of truth and right living in his own community.

Specifically, the loyal alumnus will be interested perhaps in urging outstanding students to consider the University as a place to seek their training. The alumnus will interpret to prospective students the spirit of the University.

Through constant and continuing contact the alumnus will keep abreast of the developments within the University. He will be a "captain of interpretation" of these developments in his community. He will constitute himself a point of contact between the University and the people in whose service the institution exists.

The alumnus will always maintain a fresh interest in the University through visiting the campus, joining local alumni clubs, reading University news in the alumni magazine and the daily newspapers.

The alumnus will affiliate himself with the General Alumni Association, receiving its ALUMNI REVIEW, voting in the annual alumni elections, participating in the varied program of that body of University alumni. He will make such contributions as he is able to the University through the Alumni Loyalty Fund, set up by alumni and the University for the purpose of encouraging private giving to University projects. He will stand ready to be a point of contact for the University in building public good will, attracting outstanding students, interpreting the University program to other citizens.

These points are suggested as being phases of activity engaged in by loyal alumni. Your degree of interest in the University and its program is best shown in active identification with the institution through the regular channels of the alumni organization.

Members of the Class of '32 most cordially invited to participate in an alumni program dedicated to promoting the welfare of Alma Mater.

who can supervise and direct the financial part of the fraternity on an unprejudiced and impartial basis, and some one who will be in the community and can be called on at all times.

Service Needed

The fraternity supervision service has been organized in Chapel Hill to meet these needs, but at the same time it does not conflict in any way with the social, political, or moral policies of the fraternity. It does not take away any of the controlling or deciding functions of the group, but merely acts in an advisory capacity to put business into the fraternity, and the fraternity on a cash basis.

The average fraternity is operated in a slipshod, loose, inefficient way. In the first place, the house manager is usually one who needs money and can be helped through school by the fraternity in this manner, rather than the man with the most business ability.

Second, the house manager or treasurer is usually changed every year and it is an exceptional case for one man to hold this position for two or three years.

Third, most house managers have had little or no experience in the operation and management of such organizations. The house manager is in school, has lessons to prepare, and other outside diversions that make it impossible for him to give the time and work necessary for efficient operation.

Fourth, while most chapters have capable alumni advisors it is unfair to expect them to give the time and energy necessary for adequate supervision. They are usually so tied down with their own work that they cannot afford to be bothered with the many small, but important, details constantly arising from the operation of their fraternity.

Fifth, few people realize that the average fraternity has a gross income of from $12,000.00 to $18,000.00 a year. It is entirely erroneous to expect a group of students, unfamiliar with the business world, whose entire interest is centered on school and the accompanying activities, to shoulder the responsibilities and solve the many problems that are inherent with a $16,000 a year business.

The purpose of the fraternity supervision service is to relieve the fraternities, as far as possible, of the conditions outlined above. It aids the fraternities in the collection of accounts receivable from their members, directs the handling of all their accounting records, maintains for them business correspondence files, insurance records, note files, supervises their bank accounts and banking, including the drawing of checks. It also prepares for them an annual budget and supervises their operations on the basis of this budget. At the end of each month the service presents and personally analyzes a monthly operating report and balance sheet to the finance committee of each organization, usually consisting of both alumni and active members.

Keeps Alumni Interested

In addition to the above service this company will do all that it can to keep the alumni actively interested in the affairs of the fraternity and to keep the chapter house fully occupied by giving aid and advice to their alumni, publicity, and rushing committees; and by doing the mechanical work of sending out letters and information to the alumni and active members during the summer. However, the company does not and will not solicit, or contact, or in any way influence prospective fraternity pledges.

The personal advice and opinion of the service on all matters in any way connected with the financial operation of the fraternities is available to the chapters at all times.

No Assembly

There will be no assembly this week until Friday. At this time sophomores will not be required to attend.
