

Tar Heels, Auburn, L. S. U. Picked To Take Annual Outdoor Meet

Records Expected to Fall Before One of Strongest Fields Entered in Tournament.

North Carolina, Auburn, and L. S. U., favorites in the scramble for the Southern Conference track and field championships, came through as expected in the preliminaries which were run off yesterday afternoon on the Georgia Tech athletic field in Atlanta.

Auburn Strong

Auburn has a strong outfit this year and showed no little power in winning the Southeastern A. A. U. championships at Birmingham several weeks ago. L. S. U., runners-up to Carolina in the indoor meet, has not been beaten in dual competition this season and toppled Tulane, last year's champs, by a decisive margin. The Tar Heels have as strong a team as any in the south and should just beat out L. S. U. and Auburn for premier honors.

Tulane Defending Title

Tulane's Green Wave is certain to encounter plenty trouble in the defense of her laurels this afternoon and may not uphold her prestige against the trio of favorites. The Greenies have been beaten by L. S. U. and Auburn in dual meets, but are not to be counted out of the race. Last year the Olive and Blue tracksters lost to Auburn and then came back to nose out Virginia at Birmingham for the title. Don Zimmerman and "Foots" DeColigny are the outstanding athletes on the team and are rated with the best in the country in their events. Miller steps a fast quarter consistently and should come in for his share of glory today. Payne, Greenie husky, has beaten the conference mark in the discus on several occasions this season and his last time out tossed the platter 143 feet. Haynes, of Rose Bowl fame, hurls the javelin in the neighborhood of 200 feet and will be one of the favorites in his event along with LeGore, Carolina athlete, and Batchellor of Georgia.

L. S. U. Is Threat

L. S. U., a threat to any track team in the south, has several outstanding athletes on its roster. "Mighty" Al Moreau is one of the best hurdlers in the country and has been clocked in 14.7 seconds in the 120 yards high hurdles. The Tiger athlete is present indoor and outdoor titleholder and should retain his crown in spite of the up and coming competition. Stockwell, L. S. U. sprinter, is one of the fastest men in the conference and also runs the quarter as a sideline to his springing activities. The Tiger speed artist ran a 21.5 furlong in the Tulane affair and a 10 flat century. Farmer, Burnett, & Co. will have to step all the way to beat this boy.

Torrance, L. S. U. weight man, has been tossing the discus 145 feet and should wage a battle royal with Beard of Auburn for top honors in the event. Bowman, a member of the 1928 Olympic team, is a broad jumper of exceptional ability. He was second to Fulmer of Duke in the Penn Relays, but came back last week to leap 23 feet 6 inches to beat out Zimmerman, Tulane ace. Lehman runs the half and mile with the best of them and should make his presence felt this afternoon.

Records May Fall

The record books are in for radical alternations but to all indications should be confined to the field events. The discus standard of 136 feet 1-2 inches set up by Lund of V. P. I. in 1928 has been bettered by four or five men in the conference this season. Beard, Auburn giant, looks like the class of the

Duke Broad Jumper

Henry Fulmer of Duke, who captured first prize in the broad jump in the recent Penn Carnival last month, will be one of the favorites in his specialty at Atlanta. The Duke ace will also run the 440 and may account for ten points in the two-day affair.

NET CROWN IS WON BY BETA THETA PI

Reid and Draper, Members of Victorious Team, to Receive Intramural Awards.

Beta Theta Pi, the champions of the fraternity league of intramural tennis, won the campus championship after a hard fought game with Everett, the dormitory champions, yesterday. Draper of Beta Theta Pi lost to Rosen of Everett in the singles, while in the doubles Reid and Draper of Beta Theta Pi defeated Rosen and Blauman of Everett two straight sets.

The winners of the intramural tennis championships of the campus, Draper and Reid, will receive awards from the intramural department.

Renewal of Scholarships

July 31 will be the closing date for the renewal of all scholarships. Blanks are at the President's office and should be secured and filled out before that date.

field in the event and should add his name to the books. The javelin mark has been beaten by LeGore, Tar Heel husky, and Batchellor, Georgia strongboy. The Carolina athlete may have just too much for the Bulldog and should annex first honors. Don Zimmerman is quite capable of vaulting 13 feet 6 inches which is 3 inches better than the present mark set up by Odell of Clemson in 1928. Reigals, of Alabama's Crimson Tide, and Gordy, of L. S. U., have also equaled or bettered Odell's standard.

John Brownlee, Duke athlete extraordinary, if pushed might better his own conference mark for the low hurdles, which he established last year in the preliminaries. The Blue Devil star ran a 23.3 race in the state meet which is one of the fastest low hurdle races run this year. The other records look safe enough from the onslaught of Dixie's athletes, bit on a fast track anything can happen.

CHARLOTTE WINS FROM DURHAM TO COP STATE TITLE

Charlotte Ace Holds Durham Scoreless; Teammates Have Big Inning to Win 11-0.

Charlotte registered eleven runs while holding Durham scoreless yesterday on Emerson field to annex the class A high school championship of North Carolina. This victory of Charlotte terminated the streak of successive wins of Durham over Charlotte when these teams have met here to play for high school championships.

Charlotte pushed over the first run of the game in the first half of the second inning, but from then until the seventh both teams fought on even terms. At that time Charlotte made two hits, one a double, from the deliveries of Ross, these men stopping at third and second. Morris for Charlotte ran on the third strike after the catcher had dropped the ball, the catcher tossing the ball over the first baseman's head. On this play both the Charlotte men on bases scored. From then on Charlotte found little trouble with the offerings of the rattled Durham southpaw, being retired only after Mason took the box ending their seven-run deluge.

Subs placed in the lineup for Charlotte in the last inning by Coach Walter Skidmore played a great part in scoring the last three runs of the game.

Mulligan Steady

Mulligan pitched a steady game for Charlotte, scattering the seven hits allowed, fanning four, and issuing two free trips to first base. His teammates accorded him much better support than the Durham pitcher received. Only one error was made by Charlotte to five of the Durham team's.

Lewith, Charlotte first baseman, played the best all round game. He successfully handled ten chances, nine of them put-outs. Out of three official trips to the plate he connected all times, scoring twice. He was walked twice.

In the eighth Shortstop Ferrell of Durham went back in deep shortfield to jump to catch in his ungloved hand a hard-hit ball of Morris to make the feature fielding play of the game.

Score by innings:
Charlotte 010 000 703—11
Durham 000 000 000—0
Batteries: Mulligan and Beam; Ross, Mason, and Hobgood.

PSYCHOLOGISTS CONDUCT HYPNOTIC EXPERIMENTS

Oxford, Ohio, May 20.—(NSFA)—Working in conjunction with Dr. Clark C. Hall of the Yale Institute of Human Relations, Professors E. F. Patten and S. A. Switzer of Miami University have just completed a series of experiments concerning hyper-suggestion.

Using sixteen University men during a period of fifteen days, Patten and Switzer are attempting to discover whether two somewhat different functions when suggested in a waking state will make one more likely to follow the other in logical sequence if all stimuli are given under the same conditions.

The purpose of these experiments is to prove that hypnosis is really an advanced stage of hyper-suggestion. If proved, this will definitely remove hypnotism from the field of the supernatural.

The present work is being done for a book to be entitled, Suggestion and Hypnosis, one of a series on psychology which is being published by the Century company.

Three Co-eds Led To Organization Present Women's Association

(Continued from first page) writing for the Yackety Yack, pictured the life of a female student of that period as a very dismal and lonely, if conspicuous, existence. The girl student of that day walked through halls and up walks lined with commenting males. Every young woman on the campus was the cynosure of all eyes the moment she appeared to view, and she was constantly subjected to the most critical observations by the opposite sex. A co-ed of that day was indeed a curiosity to be studied and watched carefully.

At that same time there was a feeling of inequality between the two sexes, as one literary co-ed commented that no matter how crowded the lecture room, "a co-ed always has two benches to herself."

Co-ed Dream

Co-eds of that day dreamed of the day when the campus would overflow with petticoats and the masculine should give way to the feminine. The campus will never witness an abundance of petticoats, but with the female student of yesteryear, contrast the flippant, yankee co-ed who tries to be devastating in a southern laboratory, when she addresses a student leisurely copying questions from a blackboard, "You must do a lot of day-dreaming between questions. You've been sitting there about five hours!"

Record Number

Thus have women slowly proceeded to establish themselves on the campus. Last year, records in the registrar's office revealed that 227 co-eds had invaded practically every department of study in the University, slighting neither medicine, nor pharmacy in their search for knowledge. The total number of co-eds registered this year bids fair to be the largest in the history of the University and it is certain that a greater number of co-eds will graduate with the present senior class than ever before.

Northwestern Will Sponsor Convention

Students at Northwestern University will hold a mock Republican convention next week, which will be conducted according to the organization rules of the Republican party. As far as possible, state delegations will be appointed and the final balloting will be by state roll call.

Two meetings will make up the convention. At the afternoon session the temporary chairman will preside and will deliver the keynote address. Then a report will be given by the platform committee, which will be followed by the representations of majority and minority leaders. The nominating speeches and regular nominations will be made at the evening meeting.

The advisory council is made up of two professors from the political science department and one member of the personnel staff. Other students are already making plans for a mock Democratic convention.

RIVAL OF ANANIAS READY TO MEET ALL COMERS

Orin W. Butts, "Champion Liar of the United States," is ready to defend his title.

He won the distinction at the "tournament of lies" conducted last year by the Burlington, Wisconsin, "Liar's Club."

With three of his choicest "whoppers" on file with the club, and with more than ten months to polish up others from his store of more than 300 "tall tales," Butts is confident that he will be able to hold his title in the 1932 contest scheduled soon.

Permanency of Reforms Are Gauged In Future

(By College News Service) New York, May 20.—Certain reforms in the field of collegiate athletics have been effected within the last three years, but the permanency of these reforms must be gauged in terms of the future, according to a portion of the annual report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching released this week.

In a section of the report entitled "The Study of American College Athletics," Howard J. Savage declares that the "caprice of the public" and professional football are two forces which today continue to threaten college football.

His study was principally concerned with new policies placed in effect at Columbia, Pennsylvania, New York, Minnesota, and Syracuse Universities during the past year.

Carolina Playmakers Conclude Busy Season

Nineteen stage settings have been constructed for major productions, in addition to numerous settings used in the minor presentations. Thirty-two persons took part in the technical work, and eighteen of them were newcomers in the organization.

All in all, the Carolina Playmakers, in fifty-seven performances, which they either gave themselves or sponsored, attracted a total audience of 12,000 persons to their theatre during their fourteenth season.

COLLEGE WILL JOIN PARADE FOR PEACE

Princeton, N. J., May 20.—(N. S. F. A.)—A peace parade sponsored by many of the leading social and peace societies in which colleges and nationally-known organizations will participate has been planned for tomorrow afternoon in New York City.

The Intercollegiate Disarmament Council, headed by Luther Tucker, Yale '31, is soliciting the participation of college men. Plans have been made for the participants to march in sections carrying banners announcing the names of the colleges which they represent. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Riverside Church in New York, is one of the advisers of the council.

GRACE MOORE TO APPEAR HERE IN OPERA PROGRAM

Program Tentative

Dean A. W. Hobbs, chairman of the student entertainment committee, stated in announcing the program: "The entire program, both dates and performances, is tentative, and is subject to change at any time by the decision of the committee; therefore it is impossible to announce a definite program at such an early time."

The following is the program of appearances and dates as has been temporarily drawn up: October 24, Grace Moore of the Metropolitan opera soprano and motion picture actress; November 1, Axel Boethius, lecturer on Swedish archaeology; December 5, the final performance during the fall quarter, V. L. Granville, English actor appearing in the program "Dramatic Interlude."

Attractions for the winter quarter: Shan-Kan and a group of Hindu dancers, a ballet of sixteen native Indians; February 5, Albert Spalding, well known and very popular American violinist; March 1 or 2, the comic opera Robinhood.

The dates for the events of the spring quarter have not been announced, but sometime during April the Theatre Guild will present either Reunion In Vienna or Mourning Becomes Electra. The final attraction will be presented sometime in May and will be given by some lecturer.

Junior Executive Committee

There will be an important meeting of the executive committee and all officers of the rising junior class Monday night at 7:00 in Graham Memorial.
