

Weeks Calls Mass Meeting To Vote On Signing Honor-Pledges

Students Will Gather at Memorial Hall Friday Night at 8:00 O'clock for Discussion on Proposed Measure.

FREE DISCUSSION

Absence of Faculty Members Is Expected to Evoke Unrestrained Expression of Student Opinion.

Haywood Weeks, president of the student body, has called a mass meeting of students Friday night at 8:00 o'clock in Memorial hall to vote on the question of signing honor-pledges. There will be no faculty members in attendance, and it is felt that in this way a freer discussion on the part of students may be had.

The honor-pledge to be voted on concerns the signing of a pledge by all students at the time of registration which will entail supporting the honor system as it now exists and reporting violations.

Continuation of Discussion

The meeting will be a continuation of the discussions conducted last quarter and which were culminated by an assembly speech made by President Graham. Voting was postponed at that time because it was feared that the students might have been unduly influenced by the speeches of the faculty.

President Weeks desires that there may be a complete feeling of freedom in the expressions and discussions of the student body at Friday's meeting. Ample time will be allowed for a complete presentation of everyone's viewpoint.

All organizations are asked to discuss the question at their meetings throughout the week, and to send a representative to the meeting to express the opinions of the respective groups.

PLANS OF CONSOLIDATION STUDIED WITH TWO-FOLD PURPOSE IN VIEW

Problems Attending Consolidation of the University, State, and N. C. C. Studied Impartially by Outside Experts; Efforts Have Required Almost a Year.

The process of consolidating three state educational institutions, the University, State College, and North Carolina College, has required almost a year's effort on the part of educational experts. In accordance with the provisions of the consolidation bill, the three schools have been inspected and surveyed, and recently the report of the examiners was delivered to the governor's commission. The observations and recommendations of this report will not be made public until the governor calls a meeting of the commission in July.

This commission has been the executive force in the process of consolidation. It consists of twelve members, two from each state institution, and six members from the state at large. President Frank P. Graham and Dr. Louis R. Wilson, librarian, represent the University.

Survey Staff

Since it was the belief of the advocates of consolidation that the problems attendant to such a step should be studied impartially by outside experts, the commission employed a survey staff to conduct the investigation. This staff is composed of Dr. George A. Works, dean of students at Chicago University, chairman; President Frank Mc-

SIXTEEN COLLEGE WEEKLIES RATED CLASS 'A' BY RANKING COMMITTEE

Notre Dame "Scholastic," Auburn "Plainsman," and Florida "Alligator" Head Group in Second Annual Ranking by The Daily Tar Heel; Duke "Chronicle" Rated High.

After several weeks of careful research into the field of college weekly journalism, the College Weekly Newspaper Rating committee of THE DAILY TAR HEEL submitted its annual rating of weeklies yesterday involving the selection of eighty-nine papers in three classes to place in the 1932 contest. In response to an announcement made public by various college news services and through news letters from THE DAILY TAR HEEL, university and college newspapers in more than thirty states sent in three or more of their best editions for rating.

Sixteen papers were placed in the first class, all being selected on a point system involving heads, news content, style, make-up, editorials, sports, features, and columns. Of this list the three most distinctive were the Notre Dame Scholastic, the Auburn Plainsman, and the University of Florida Alligator.

The Notre Dame paper is printed in the form of a news-magazine and its style closely adheres to that of the nationally famous Time. The Scholastic was picked as the most distinctive weekly in the country. The Plainsman and the Alligator have a wide reputation as two of the most liberal and progressive college papers in the country

Administration Plans to Discourage Former Practice of Allowing Three Occupants in One Room.

PRICES REDUCED

Time Rental Basis Will Begin February 1 Instead of January 1 as Has Been Practice This Year.

After considering such action for some time, the University administration has made several drastic changes in the policy of letting dormitory rooms for the coming year, the business department of the University made known yesterday.

The changes included the discouraging of the practice of having more than two occupants in one room, a reduction of price in eight dormitories, and a new time-rental basis.

For several years the Old East, Old West, Steele, and Battle-Vance-Pettigrew dormitories have had three occupants in a large number of the rooms. The administration plans to discourage this practice and not allow more than two occupants per room with the exception of the three present occupants of a room being permitted to retain the room. This right cannot be transferred to another and a new man will not be allowed to sign up as a third in a room.

Price Reduction

The price to the individual per session will remain the same with two as it has been with three. Rental in Battle-Vance-Pettigrew will be $67.50 and in Old East, Old West, and Steele $72.00 per year. The price in Grimes, Manly, Mangum, Ruffin, Aycock, Graham, Everett, Lewis has been reduced from $76.50 to $65.70.

both in the daily and weekly field.

The other thirteen to rate in the first class are: Duke Chronicle, Kentucky Kernel, South Carolina Gamecock, Louisiana State University Reveille, North Carolina State College Technician, Boston University News, Tulane Hullabaloo, The Denisonian of Denison University, Ohio, George Washington University Hatchet, University of Utah Chronicle, the Denver Clarion, Pitt Weekly (University of Pittsburgh) and the Orange and White (University of Tennessee).

A large number of publications applying for ranking could not be given space, for competition in the three classes was so strict that the committee selected only top-notch publications in each division. Thirty-four papers made class "B", the largest number ever to receive such a high ranking. Thirty-nine, deemed barely inferior to the "B" rating, were placed in class "C".

Only four publications from women's colleges were placed in the "B" rank, the Carolinian from N. C. C. W., the Smith College Weekly, the Florida Flambeau (Florida State College for Women), and the Lass-o (Texas
