

BLUE RIDGE WILL OFFER STUDENTS VARIED PROGRAM

Heads of Southern Student Conference Plan Work for Y. M. C. A. Gathering.

According to plans announced by the local "Y" yesterday, the program for the Blue Ridge Southern Student conference will present a diversified program. This conference will take place under the auspices of the Southern Field Council Y. M. C. A.

Meditation, reading, sightseeing, and athletics are considered to be important factors, but most important will be the hours assigned for discussion groups, worship, addresses, and group study.

There are no organized programs arranged for the early morning, but directly after breakfast, Bible study groups under capable leaders take place. These meetings convene at some spot in the surrounding mountains.

The second period is utilized for personal adjustment. The whole conference assembles for discussion of major problems which arise during the course of college life. Each leader is a trained specialist in his subject. Next comes the "resource hour" during which everyone is free to use their time in the most profitable manner.

Discussion Work

Leaders and executives of the various organizations will share their experiences with those who are trying to familiarize themselves with the methods of "Y" work. The last morning period will be given over to discussion of these methods.

Following lunch, the afternoon is open. The majority of the delegates will participate, at this time, in athletic contests, nature study, sight seeing, hiking, and reading.

Dinner is followed by group singing and vespers. At 8:00 every evening there is an address by one of the invited conference leaders. President Frank P. Graham will take the platform for the first evening. All of the speakers will be men who have force and command with students, and all of their subjects will relate to the vital issue of building for the new south.

EDWARD ROBINSON PLAYS LEAD IN CAROLINA SHOW

Edward G. Robinson, supported by Vivienne Osborne, stars in First National's "Two Seconds," showing at the Carolina theatre today. In previous films Robinson has appeared as gunman, gambler, editor, and oriental. In this production, however, he portrays John Allen, an iron worker who becomes a victim of circumstances.

Preston Foster, who has the role of John Allen's buddy, plays the same part that he created in the New York production. The part of Tony, the dance hall keeper, is taken by J. Carroll Naish, who was a member of Robinson's cast in "The Hatchet Man."

Guy Kibbee, the older of the hoboes in "Union Depot," has a vivid part as a bookmaker. Other persons included in the cast are Otto Hoffman, Helena Phillips, Burton Churchill, Dorothea Wolbert, Edward McWade and William Janney.

Students wishing to become editors of the Carleton College newspaper are required to compete for the jobs by writing editorials in a special examination.

Detroit University students demand more co-eds in classes or none at all. Out of an enrollment of 3620, the university has but seventy-seven women.

Objective Of Alumni Loyalty Fund To Obtain Gift From Each Alumnus

First Stimulated in 1915 by President E. K. Graham, a Group of Alumni Organized to Secure Funds to Leave Lasting Gifts as Remembrance to University.

The Alumni Loyalty Fund is the only agency connected with the University which devotes all its energies to fund-raising from private sources. It continually strives to provide the funds with which the University may develop those projects which could not be financed from State appropriations.

The idea was first expressed by the late President Edward Kidder Graham in 1915. When a gift of $1,000 was made at commencement of that year by the class of 1905, he said: "What a fine thing it would be if every living alumnus of the University would give some small gift each year to be used to meet those ever increasing needs which otherwise would never be met."

Organized in 1915

Accordingly, the Alumni Loyalty Fund was organized with a committee of alumni in charge. President E. K. Graham served as the first chairman of the committee. At that time there was no full-time organization, although from time to time the committee appealed to the alumni to show their loyalty by making some gift to the University.

During the World War, and because of the enlarged state-supported building program during the early years of Dr. Chase's administration, the activities of the Alumni Loyalty Fund slowed down. But in 1928 Dr. Chase and other University officials renewed the effort to increase the revenue of the University from private sources. At that time the Alumni Loyalty Fund was organized on its present basis.

If the Alumni Loyalty Fund realized its objective, which is to obtain some gift each year from every alumnus, there would be available for the University each year an income equivalent to several million dollars of endowment. During the last two years nearly 2,000 alumni have made some contribution to the University. At present the fund organization is aiding in raising the emergency loan fund, and consequently the other gifts have fallen off somewhat.

Alumni Fund Active

Besides the small annual gifts from the entire alumni body, the Alumni Loyalty Fund is constantly searching for large gifts for designated purposes; it brings to the attention of alumni the needs of the University; and it is now promoting a program urging alumni to make the University a beneficiary in their wills.

There are some important projects which can only be realized by private finance, such as research, the University Press, special library collections, endowments for higher faculty salaries, and endowments for fellowships and scholarships. Other illustrations of the value of private gifts are the Graham Memorial building, Hill music hall, Morehead-Patterson Memorial Tower, Kenan stadium, Kenan Professorship Endowment, and the various scholarship and loan fund gifts.

Directed by Council

The organization is controlled by a governing board of twelve alumni, known as the Alumni Loyalty Fund Council. These councilmen serve for three years, eight being appointed by the president of the University and four by the president of the General Alumni Association. The president of the University and the secretary and president of the General Alumni Association are ex-officio members of the council. The council is responsible in its activities to the Board of Trustees of the University.

The executive and administrative activities of the council are carried out by an executive secretary, who is also director of the Alumni Loyalty Fund. Felix A. Griset, the present director, has been in charge since 1929. Before assuming his position here he had had several years of experience in institutional finance work with one of the largest firms in the United States engaged in that type of business.

CHANGE MADE AT NORTHWESTERN IN A. B. CURRICULUM

Dean Addison Hibbard Announces Drastic Revision in School of Liberal Arts.

By College News Service

Evanston, Ill., May 24.—Complete revision of the liberal arts curriculum at Northwestern University this week was announced by Dean Addison Hibbard.

The changes to be made and put in effect next fall include the elimination of the present system of majors and minors, with consequent widening of fields of study and correlation of subject matter.

List of Changes

A summary of the changes follows:

(1) Two degrees are specified—an "honors" and a "pass" degree.

(2) "Fields of concentration" replace the former major and minor requirements. Each candidate for a degree from the liberal arts college must elect a field not later than the beginning of the junior year.

(3) Each candidate for an honors degree must pass a comprehensive examination covering his field of concentration, the examination to be given at the close of the senior year.

(4) Reading periods before examination periods are provided for students in advanced courses. Social events, student activities and public lectures will be restricted during the reading periods.

(5) The present work in independent study will be further developed.

(6) Correlation courses, to give unity, sequence and coherence to the work in the college, eventually will be offered.

(7) Proficiency examinations for freshman and sophomore courses may be taken by students who have particularly trained themselves for those courses. Students passing such proficiency tests may be excused from formal requirements.

(8) Each department will prepare an outline of courses offered, stating the object of the courses, content, organization, and principal problems with which it will deal.

Special Privileges

Students working for honors degrees, it was announced, will be given special privileges, such as more chances for independent study and freedom from required class attendance in certain courses. The pass degree is to be offered for those who have not the inclination or who lack the time to work for an honors degree.

Dean Hibbard pointed out that the reorganization closely follows several of the major recommendations made last year by the Student Committee of Thirteen, which made a study of the liberal arts curriculum.

New Jersey Offers Reward
Looming ahead of the man-hunters engaged in tracking down the kidnapers and murderers of the Lindbergh baby was $25,000 reward offered by the state of New Jersey for the capture of the criminals. Leaders of the state legislature at Trenton passed a bill empowering Governor A. H. Moore to order a reward. The governor was prepared to act immediately. In connection with the kidnaping the governor stated that he was approached by members of the Capone gang ambitiously proposing to return the baby to its parents, provided, of course, full credit was given their imprisoned gang leader. The only reply given them was that the proposal would be conveyed to Colonel Lindbergh, which was done.

Resubmission Urged

Resubmission of prohibition was added to the Congressional program today by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, in proposing a continuous session through the national convention to finish the job. This was the first declaration by the Californian for resubmission and threw the issue squarely into this session of Congress just before the national campaign. He called upon Congress to continue at work and he also placed on his proposed program behind the tax, relief, and appropriations bills.

Senatorial Frank Abused

Thousands of dollars are being taken from the tax-payers pockets annually to pay for the mailing of campaign speeches not only of senators and congressmen but of private citizens desirous of getting on the government's payroll. It is known that members of Congress are all accorded the "franking" privilege; that is, the privilege of sending their individual mail free of charge. But in addition to the use of this for private purposes only, many loan out the privilege to their friends, to lobbying organizations or to any other cause they wish to support. There is no check on the practice except the individual conscience of the Congressman himself. The practice is very common, the case to be cited is that of an able senator from Virginia, Carter Glass. Claude S. Weaver, former Representative from Oklahoma and now aspirant for getting his seat in the House back, has been mailing out copies of his campaign speeches under the frank of Senator Glass. Weaver asked recently for another 40,000 franked envelopes, but was turned down by the Senator, it was revealed. When questioned about the matter Glass said, "Weaver and I are old friends, having served together in the Senate. He asked me for a number of franked envelopes to be used in mailing out non-political speeches and, this being the case, I was only too glad to accommodate him."

Vets to Be Ousted

Adjutant-General Black of the Illinois National Guard announced yesterday that he would send troops immediately to East St. Louis where 300 war veterans marching to Washington, were reported to have seized a freight train. The reports were that thirty freight cars of the B and O railroad were being held by the vets because the railroad refused to give the ex-service men free transportation to Cincinnati, Ohio. The cars were loaded with perishable foodstuffs. The veterans' group last night set up its field kitchen equipment beside the railroad tracks for supper. Packing firms and bakeries have provided the group with provisions since its arrival Saturday.

ers were runners-up to a fast Georgia quintet at Atlanta after having swept through Tennessee, Kentucky and Auburn. Tom Alexander and Virgil Weathers made the all-Southern honorary five and Wilmer Hines also received honors by being placed on the second mythical team. Virginia won the boxing championship at Charlottesville from sterling competition and maintained her supremacy in that field. L. S. U. took her only southern title last Saturday by walking off with the track and field championship, by a 38 point margin.

globe, including the United States, Japan, Siam, and Africa. The speaker showed how animals tended to migrate from sea to land actuated largely by two motives. First, in order that they might escape the large number of enemies in the sea, and second, because of the greater abundance of food on the land. He pointed out that as these animals migrated, certain marked changes took place in their organs of locomotion, and respiration, and in the salinity of their blood, etc.
