

PLANS MADE FOR AWARDS NIGHT IN MEMORIAL HALL

Annual Event of Presentation of Awards Will Be Staged Tonight at 8:00 O'clock.

The final plans have been completed, and the stage is set for a new type of awards night this year. This event, which will bring to a close the student activities for the year, will take place tonight at 8:00 o'clock in Memorial hall.

The usual endless line of students parading up to the platform to receive their charm or prize and the resulting tiresome applause will be entirely done away with, and a peppy program of entertainment substituted in its place. The lists of students winning awards will be read out between the acts of the program, and the prizes will be given to their respective winners tomorrow.

Specialty Numbers

Billy Arthur, known in theatrical circles as "one yard of fun" will act as master of ceremonies, and the remainder of the program will include skits, musical and specialty numbers by prominent students, a play entitled "Julius Caesar," or "The Wop on the Spot," and numbers by the University band.

Some of the outstanding awards to be given are the Patterson Memorial Award, which was won last year by Henry House, the Deke trophy, which is awarded to the fraternity that is outstanding in scholarship and athletics, and the Grail awards, which are given to the outstanding scholar-athlete in the four major sports, freshman athletics, and intramural sports. The winners of awards in all the campus activities will also be announced.

APPLICATIONS FOR WORK BY SENIORS INCREASING DAILY

Bureau Has Received More Requests From High School Seniors Than Ever.

According to a statement yesterday by Edwin S. Lanier, secretary of the University self-help bureau, concerning the number of inquiries and applications for work next year that have come in from this year's high school graduates, more applications have been sent in to the bureau already than had been sent in at this same time last spring.

Many applications for outside work have been received by the bureau, and more are coming in each day. The self-help officials are conducting interviews each day with high school students who will graduate this year, who are prospective students at the University next year and are making inquiries concerning the possibilities of self-help at the University and other means of obtaining aid while one is going to school.

Many Applications

In addition to the inquiries from high school students throughout the state, the self-help bureau has on file in the office more applications for work from students who are now in school here than it has ever had before. This is a significant fact in that it indicates that many students this year have

Sunday afternoon, June 5, at 5:00 o'clock there will be the final organ concert of the year by Professor Nelson O. Kennedy in Hill music hall. This organ concert on Baccalaureate Sunday every year will become a custom. It was started last year on Baccalaureate Sunday, which was the first Commencement season that the organ and the music auditorium were available, and it will continue into the future.

Professor Kennedy's program is as follows: Concert Overture in B Minor, by Rogers; Two Sketches by Schumann; Cloister Scene, by Mason; Concert Variations, by Bonnet; and Saviour Breathe an Evening Blessing, by John Winter Thompson.

On Saturday afternoon, June 4, will be an organ recital in Hill hall by one of Professor Kennedy's pupils, Thomas Teer, a junior in the school of music. Teer will play for fifteen minutes immediately before the annual Mangum medal oratorical contest which is to be conducted in Hill hall this year. He will play Mendelssohn's Sixth Sonata.

YEAR BOOK FOR 1932 DEDICATED TO JOHN S. HILL

Annuals Will Be Distributed at Graham Memorial Today From 2:00 Until 5:00.

The 1932 Yackety Yack, the publication of which has been completed and which is to be distributed from the Yackety Yack office in 203 Graham Memorial this afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock, carries on its frontispiece a picture of John Sprunt Hill of Durham, to whom the 1932 issue of the University annual is dedicated out of the gratitude for the numerous benefactions that the University has received from him.

Hill is president of the Erwin Cotton mills, and since his graduation in 1889, he has been a mainstay of support for the University as an alumnus, trustee, and benefactor. His most recent gift to the University was last year when, with Mrs. Hill, he donated the new music auditorium and the pipe organ.

He is a member of the Executive Committee and chairman of the Building Committee of the Board of Trustees, and is responsible for the establishment of the North Carolina collection of the library which he started and has since encouraged.

Senior Class Will Meet This Afternoon

The senior class will meet in Garrard hall at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon to be instructed by President Graham and Dr. Charles Mangum in their duties for commencement. Attendance is required of all seniors who expect to graduate.

There are several requirements that seniors must have complied with before they receive their degree. All students who expect to receive their diplomas at the graduation exercises must pay their $5.00 diploma fee to the business office not later than May 27. Caps and gowns may be ordered from the Book Exchange this week.

INFORMATION FOR SENIORS

For the past few years the bureau of vocational information (office of the dean of students) has been collecting for the use of students information concerning the various occupations into which University graduates usually go. It now has material which deals not only with occupations in general but also with specific business and other organizations. Some of the most interesting information is contained in letters which have come from University alumni at work—telling of their experiences and observations.

Members of the senior class are especially invited to come by 204 South and make use of this information.

Short Story Writing Courses Will Be Offered By University

Phillips Russell Will Be Instructor in Three Courses in Advanced Composition to Develop Writing Talents of Students; Courses to Be Like Those at Harvard and Chicago.

The University English department intends to provide students interested in writing an opportunity to develop their talents by offering three courses in advanced composition next year, according to statements by Dr. George R. Coffman, department head, yesterday to a DAILY TAR HEEL reporter.

"It is my personal wish and a policy of the department," commented Dr. Coffman, "to retain as instructor for these courses a man who is not only interested in teaching writing but who is engaged in writing himself. Students are puzzled by not finding a course in short story writing listed in the catalog, but these courses, modeled after similar ones at Harvard and the University of Chicago, provide adequate instruction in this field and at the same time deal with other types of writing."

Dr. Coffman announced that next year the advanced composition courses, English 52, 53, and 54, will be under the instruction of Phillips Russell, well-known biographer and writer. According to present plans, as stated by Russell, English 52, advanced composition, the technique of exposition, will be offered in the spring quarter of 1933 instead of in the fall. English 53 will be given next fall, followed by English 54 in the winter session. "In the fall and winter," Russell stated, "ample consideration will be given to the short story and to the study of short story technique. Abundant practice in writing short stories will be provided, and although there will be no lack of analytical work, emphasis will be placed on synthetic composition rather than analytic.

"We will emphasize how to do it and not how not to do it," he continued. "In the spring, under the title of the technique of exposition, special attention will be paid to the article, essay, and sketch, with a side glance at fiction writing chiefly for sake of contrast."

The classes will be limited in size, Russell said, so that special attention can be given each individual. Consultations with the instructor will be encouraged, and special care will be taken to enable the individual to find the field of writing for which he is best fitted and to develop the talents most normal and natural to him.

Aim of Course

"The primary aim of the course," Russell commented, "is to help each student improve himself in written expression, to use his imagination, and not to be afraid of those experiments that will give him most elasticity and freedom in writing. It is expected that all students inter-

SHERRILL CHOSEN AS AUDITOR FOR STUDENT BOARD

Appointment Marks Completion Of Plans on Which Council Has Been Working.

It was announced yesterday that R. H. Sherrill, of the University accounting department, has been chosen for the permanent auditor of the Student Audit Board. This marks the completion of the plans that the student council has been working on for the past several weeks to put the accounts of the various student organizations on a uniform basis.

This board has established a centralized system of bookkeeping to be effected by having all accounts kept in the University administrative offices. The books of all organizations having blanket fees collected by the business office will be kept in this manner. Further, the system as established by the board, provides for a permanent auditor of student accounts, whose duties are as follows: 1. To make an audit of all accounts under the jurisdiction of the board. 2. To install and supervise a bookkeeping system of such accounts. 3. To act in a purely advisory capacity in reference to student organizations under the jurisdiction of the Student Audit Board which do not already have such an advisor.

Charles A. Peple Will Speak This Morning

The topic of his address this morning will be "Banking and the Present Economic Situation," and the meeting will be open to all students who are interested in hearing him speak.

Peple has been coming to the University for some ten years to speak to the students of banking.

Meeting of Entire Student Body Is Planned at 8:00 O'clock in Memorial Hall.

PLEDGE REQUIRED

By New Proposals Students Will Be Required to Sign Pledge to Uphold Honor System.

The student body of the University will finally take definite action on the recent proposal which has been discussed during the last two quarters to make the honor system more effective at a mass meeting tomorrow night at 8:00 in Memorial hall.

Contrary to accounts which have been spread there is no change in the honor system but the proposal is an attempt to better existing conditions. The proposal is for every student, upon entering the University, to sign a pledge to uphold the system which deals with three offenses—lying, cheating, and stealing.

Requirements of System

According to the provisions of the system, a student is required to act honorably in all relations of student life and further that he shall investigate and report all violations which come to his attention. Any student who fails to report is himself guilty of a breach of honor.

Violators are brought before the student council, which is a representative body selected by the members of the student body, and fair representation is given the accused.

Since the discussion tomorrow vitally affects student life, Haywood Weeks, president of the student council, has urged that every student attend the mass meeting and express his own view. Unlimited debate will be allowed and student opinion is expected to be fully expressed.

CAPERS WILL BE HELD SATURDAY BY PLAYMAKERS

Annual Event to Include Comic Sketches of Plays, People, And Caricatures.

The annual Playmakers Capers are scheduled to take place Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Playmakers theatre. Everyone who has been connected with the Playmakers, either during the current season or formerly, is cordially invited to attend the celebration. This invitation includes those who have served on committees as stage helpers, as members of the house staff, as actors, or as authors of plays.

The program of events will include comic sketches of plays and people, caricatures, and song and dance acts. Dancing will take place on the stage after the program has been completed.

These Capers have been a part of the Playmakers activities for a number of years. They serve to wind up the year's work with everyone in holiday mood, and to unify the members of the organization.

At this time the Playmakers awards will be given as the group's recognition for those who have worked with the group during the past season.

Graham Will Speak
President Graham will speak in assembly tomorrow. This will be the last assembly of the quarter.
