Members of Local Socialist Club To Hear Secretary of State Socialist Party Tonight.

Members of the Socialist club will gather this evening in room 210 Graham Memorial, where they will be addressed by Alton Lawrence, state secretary for the Socialist party, who will review for the assemblage details of the campaign to get the Socialist candidate on the North Carolina ballot, and by Arnold Williams, president of the local Socialist organization, who will speak on "The Prospects of Socialism for 1932" and "Opportunities for the Young Man in Socialism."

Williams spent the past summer in the middle west, doing campaign work for the Socialist party, and in discussing the chances of the party in the coming election he said, "The party will poll a record vote in this year's election, with the number of votes running probably into the millions."

Organized Here

The Socialist club was organized in Chapel Hill last year, and it conducted meetings regularly throughout the year, at which members were addressed by many prominent speakers, including Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the presidency of the United States.

Williams, in outlining the plans of the local club for the coming year, announced that many excellent speakers had been invited to visit Chapel Hill and to address the club. Prominent among this group is Powers Hapgood, labor leader and Socialist candidate for governor of Indiana.

PHI INDUCTS NEW LEADERS AT FIRST MEETING TUESDAY

Dan Kelly, New Speaker, Reviews History of Assembly In Inaugural Address.

The new officers of the Phi Assembly were inducted into office Tuesday night at the first meeting of that organization for this year. The program was featured by the inaugural address of Dan Kelly, who is new speaker. Kelly opened his speech with a brief history of the assembly, which was founded on this campus over 136 years ago, reviewing the careers of some of the most prominent alumni of the society, whose pictures hang on the walls of the assembly hall.

It was pointed out that although the organization had lost some of its former powers and duties, it has now a purpose equally important in teaching students how to clearly express their views, in giving them experience in public speaking, and in presenting to them a cross-section of campus opinion on national subjects.

In concluding his address,

Mrs. Manning Makes Loan Plea To D. A. R.

Mrs. Isaac Manning of Chapel Hill addressed the Guilford Battle chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the birthday luncheon which met Tuesday at the King Cotton hotel, Greensboro. Mrs. Manning made an inspiring plea for student loan funds of the University, her address being the highlight of the meeting, which opened the chapter's 32nd season.

Mrs. Manning reviewed a bit of the University's history and the history of the fund, and showed that the fund was a sound investment as well as one bringing dividends in service.

FRESHMEN VIE FOR BONEHEAD HONORS

ONE BRINGS BATHTUB; GRAHAM'S HOME A HOTEL

After the performance of Abie Spats, last year's wildest freshman, it seemed that a lasting high had been set for insane antics of the yearlings. However, two members of the class of '36 have already thrust themselves forward to challenge all records.

Some queer reports of the University's ablutionary facilities must have percolated through the hinterland in the past year. The impression has been conveyed to one person, at least, that the dormitories on the campus were lacking in bathing apparatus. Perhaps he thought that since the University is the nucleus of the Southern renaissance, the students here were ejulating their historical counterparts in not taking baths.

Whatever the motive, he did bring a bathtub with him. One of the good old-fashioned tin ones, such as grandma used to use. Perhaps it was his parents' advice which prompted this fantastic act. One can hear them say to him "Now, son don't forget that cleanliness is next to Godliness, so don't forget your bath on Saturday night."

It may be that he was influenced by the reports circulating about the state concerning the condition of the University exchequer and thus came to the conclusion that the students were reduced to living in tents. Or, pondering, as freshmen sometimes do, he blossomed forth with the idea that even if the University did supply showers, a fact which he strongly doubted, a real-all over bath would bring him nearer his maker than mere desultory rinsing under a shower.

Also, this naive specimen

Boggs Studies in Spain

Ralph Boggs of the department of languages was studying in Spain during the past summer.

brought with him a first-class broom. Surely he didn't think University men took a personal hand in sweeping their rooms. No, of course not; he is probably a witch and needs the broomstick to ride on the Witches' Mass. Hallowe'en rioters please take note.

It is best to be circumspect about this young man's crowning piece of foolishness. Occupying a queenly place among his effects was a pot, de chambre. And this lad hails from a place but thirty miles from Chapel Hill.

His running-mate for honors has a more dignified accomplishment. Not having rented a room his first day of school, he looked around for a hotel. This freshman must be congratulated on his taste, for he selected President Graham's home as the most likely looking hostelry in town. The Graham family chanced to be absent at the time the freshman rang the bell, but the negro maid was not unaccustomed to visitors with traveling bags.

Accordingly, she showed the boy to one of the guest rooms. There in typical freshman manner, he made himself thoroughly at home. He kept the maid busy for four hours waiting on him hand and foot, until President Graham came home. Then he was invited to leave summarily, to say the least.

With such blazing starts these two gentlemen ought to go far on the road to University success. The bathtub hero will very likely wind up as an agent for Crane and company, while President Graham's uninvited guest should surpass the achievements of "One-Eye" Connelly and Tammany Young.

DI ATTEMPTS TO REVIVE INTEREST IN ORGANIZATION

President Suggests Plan of Equal Student Representation in Literary Societies.

In his inaugural address to the Di Senate Tuesday, Charles G. Rose, Jr., contending that at present all student ideas are not expressed in the two literary societies, presented a plan whereby the various opinions of the student body would be more equally represented in the organizations.

President Rose severely criticized the lack of interest among members and the declining activity of the society. He pointed out that before the literary groups could achieve any measure of success on the campus through their bills, it would be necessary that they include a more representative membership of students.

Following his proposal, the president appointed Senators Bill McKee, Jule McMichael, and B. G. Gentry as a committee to carry out the proposed plan.

The meeting of the Di Senate, conducted in New West Tuesday night, was the first of this year.

Dance Committee To Meet Monday Night

Members of the dance committee of the University will gather for its first meeting of the year in Graham Memorial, Monday night at 8:00 o'clock to formulate plans for the coming year.

The dance committee which was organized last year is composed of representatives of several campus organizations and will act in the same capacity as the former committee which was composed of the executives of the German club.

At this meeting the rules for dances will be made and it will be decided whether freshmen will be admitted to the finals.

Executive Committee of Board of Trustees Unanimous in Recommending Graham.

TATUM PETITION IGNORED

Graham's Election Will Necessitate Appointment of Head For Chapel Hill Division.

The executive committee of the board of trustees of the Greater University, acting under power conferred by the board last spring, in a special session held in Raleigh yesterday unanimously recommended that Dr. Frank Porter Graham be elected president of the Greater University.

The action of the executive committee, though not final, will undoubtedly be adopted by the full board at its meeting in Raleigh, Monday, Nov. 14. The election for Dr. Graham will necessitate the appointment by the board of a vice-president to head the Chapel Hill division of the Greater University.

Under the plan recommended by the investigating committee on the consolidation of the three state institutions of learning and later adopted by the board, in addition to the executive head of the whole there will be three vice-presidents, one for each institution. The executive committee in its meeting yesterday made no recommendations as to these vice-presidents.

Tatum Petition

Several other matters which the committee was expected to take up were left to be handled later by the full board. No action was taken in reference to the petition drawn up by L. A.

GENE TUNNEY MAY ADDRESS STUDENT DEMOCRATIC CLUB

Tunney, Robert R. Reynolds, and J. C. B. Ehringhaus to Address Young Democrats.

Listing Gene Tunney, Robert R. Reynolds, and J. C. B. Ehringhaus as possible speakers, the Young Democrat club at the University plans to offer a full program of addresses here during the coming political campaign, officers of the organization stated yesterday.

Tunney, former heavyweight champion, now stump speaking for Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for president, is expected to include North Carolina in his itinerary and efforts are being made to bring him to Chapel Hill.

The local group will also attempt to bring Reynolds, nominee for U. S. Senator, Ehringhaus, nominee for governor, and other members of the party ticket to address the group.

The Young Democrat club was organized last spring as a part of a movement of the party to interest young voters all through the country in the Democratic organization. The college divisions will exchange speakers and further organize young voters.

At the organization meeting of the club here last spring, Hamilton Hobgood was chosen president; "Ed." Lanier and "Red" Seawell vice-presidents; and Dan Kelly secretary.
