Founding Of Y. M. C. A. Was Due To Bitterness Against Moral Laxity

George Williams, Worker in an English Drapery Establishment, Was Original Founder of Association, Which Now Has 5,000 Branches and Over Half Million Members.

Religious resentment at the moral laxity in the conditions surrounding him led George Williams to the founding of the Y. M. C. A. over eighty years ago. The movement which began as an effort to give workmen religious stimulation has since developed into an international good-will, philanthropic, and spiritual organization.

In 1844, Williams, troubled by the low spiritual state of his co-workers in an English drapery establishment, inaugurated weekly prayer meetings in his bedroom for their benefit. Ridicule, opposition, and contempt confronted Williams and his eleven colleagues from employer and employee alike; from the former because he would resent an effort that might reform his tyrannical position over his workers, and from the latter because they were under the spell of gambling houses and casinos of ill-repute.

Name Chosen

However, resolute in their purpose, the twelve young men organized and adopted the title, the Young Men's Christian Association. Membership was limited to Christian men and the dues were fixed at two shillings per annum.

Confident that in their hands lay the solution to the grave problem of the day, the group continued to meet at fourteen

HOOVER COMMENDS "Y" FOUNDER

The following telegram was received last night by the local branch of the Y. M. C. A., from President Hoover: "The Young Men's Christian Association has been a tower of moral strength in every community since the earliest childhood recollection of most of the men and women now living, and thus, it is almost startling to be reminded that the founder of this great organization, if he were living today would be only eleven years older than a centenarian. The celebration of Founder's Day on October 14 will be the occasion for much historic and personal reminiscence of that great man, George Williams, and of the stupendous spiritual education and material blessings wrought by the association, born of his vision, and firmly rooted in his indefatigable labors and his optimistic spirit. To the youth of our land, indeed of all the world, it will be a day reminding them of the possibilities of service to millions of others that lie in unselfish application of spiritual insight, developed industry, and warm good-will towards all one's fellowmen."

HERBERT HOOVER.

NEW SYSTEM FOR ACTIVITIES DAY IS BEING WORKED ON

Series of Assembly Hours Will Be Devoted to Presenting Campus Activities to Students.

Activities Day this year will not be conducted as a special chapel program set aside for the purpose of presenting various activities to students, but a series of assembly hours will be devoted to that purpose, Haywood Weeks, president of the student body, announced yesterday.

This special occasion was inaugurated last year for the purpose of allowin the major organizations on the campus to present the leaders in those activities to the campus as a whole.

This year one or two assembly periods of the week will be devoted to different activities. The Di Senate and Phi assembly have already presented discussions of their work at assembly.

The change in the plan was made because it was thought that one assembly hour was too short to have each of the activities properly presented.

Early "Y" Here Served Mainly As Social Center For Students

Local Association Was Third Such College Association in America, Being Founded in April, 1860; Object of Association Was Improvement of Spiritual Conditions of Students.

The following excerpts from an article appearing in the Carolina Magazine for April, 1914, written by Philip Woolcott, now a banker in Richmond, tell about the early years of the Carolina Y. M. C. A.:

"Before 1860 there had been no organized group of young men at the University who were pursuing the work and spirit of Christ. There had been, however, some thirteen years after the first Y. M. C. A. beginnings in London in 1844, a movement in a few of the American cities and colleges to organize the earnest young Christians into an active, co-operative brotherhood. During the collegiate year 1857-58, Y. M. C. A.'s were founded independently at Michigan and Virginia, the latter having for one of its most ardent advocates and hardest worker Dr. Thomas Hume, who later was to take such an active interest in the Carolina Y. M. C. A. The Carolina Association followed in a very few years, for in April of the year 1860, the religiously inclined churchmen of the University established the local organization, the third college association in the United States.

"The constitution of the association was based on that of Virginia. The object was the 'improvement of the spiritual condition of the students and the extension of religious advantages to destitute points in the neighborhood of the University.'

"This following card was published and sent abroad throughout the state: 'We have the pleasure to announce that the students of the University of North Carolina have established a Young Men's Christian Association.

"If parents and others who send young men to the University will give them letters of introduction to us, it will afford us great pleasure to introduce them to the pious students of the University, and also to the pastors of the church to which they or their friends may belong.

"The association hopes in this way to accomplish much good; for sad experience has taught us that many pious and moral young men are led astray by falling into the company of the dissipated and vicious when they enter college."

Organization of Association
The following is an account of the foundation, taken from the North Carolina University Magazine, May 1860:

"This body has been organized and gives promise of great benefit to the students and to all others who may choose to connect themselves with it. It is instituted for the extension of christian sympathy and religious
