

STUDENT VOTING IN PRESIDENTIAL POLL CONTINUES

Campus Daily Joins Thirty-Five Other College Publications in Straw Ballot Forecast.

In an effort to determine the political sentiment of Carolina students THE DAILY TAR HEEL is conducting a straw vote on the presidential candidates. The balloting began yesterday and will continue through Saturday.

THE DAILY TAR HEEL is joining thirty-five other collegiate papers in conducting this national student straw president ballot. The results of the local balloting will be tabulated and sent to the national headquarters which is The Daily Princetonian, the daily of Princeton university. Since the results of this poll will be published in the collegiate press as the true political sentiment of the student body, THE DAILY TAR HEEL is especially anxious to get as many students to vote as possible.

Ballots will be published in today's and to-morrow's paper. Students are asked to fill out these ballots checking the name of the candidate they prefer and turn them in at the ballot boxes which are located in the lobby of the "Y" and the first floor of Graham Memorial.

'TAR HEEL' STAFF WILL MEET TODAY

Various Boards of Paper Will Convene at Different Times in Publication Offices.

Four meetings of the different divisions of THE DAILY TAR HEEL editorial staff have been scheduled for this afternoon, all to take place in the offices of the paper in Graham Memorial.

New men wishing to try out for the publication may do so this afternoon by coming to the office of the paper to attend the meeting of those divisions of the staff they wish to work with.

Reporters will meet at 3:30 o'clock to take up several routine matters relating to the paper. Sport reporters are required to attend this meeting.

The editorial board will gather at 2:30 o'clock to confer with the editor while 3:00 o'clock is the hour set for the feature board's conference.

City editors and desk men will discuss their work at 4:00 o'clock.

Schwenning Returns From Research Trip

Dr. G. T. Schwenning, associate professor of business administration in the University school of commerce and economics, who has been in Europe on his leave of absence from the University, arrived in Chapel Hill last week. He will not resume his duties as instructor until the beginning of the winter quarter.

Dr. Schwenning spent most of his time in Geneva, Switzerland, where he collected material for a new book he is writing on dismissal wages.

Groves Lectures Tonight

Dr. Ernest R. Groves, professor of sociology of the University, will speak tonight in the east parlor of the Methodist church on "The Opportunity of the Modern Parent."

First Concert of Series Will Be Given in Hill Music Hall, Sunday, October 23.

Nelson O. Kennedy, of the music department, will open his annual series of vesper organ concerts Sunday, October 23, at 4:00 o'clock in Hill music hall. He will present the following program: Concert Overture in B minor, by James H. Rogers; Cantilena, by Carl McKinley; Sketch, by Robert Schumann; Toccata and Fugue in D minor, by J. S. Bach; Meditation-Elegie by Felix Borowski; and Finale from the first symphony of Louis Vierne.

All those interested are invited to attend these concerts which will be given monthly throughout the college year.

TICKETS AWARDED CONTEST WINNERS

Pete Ivey Wins First Prize in Platform Writing for "The Phantom President."

A number of the University's political and comic geni took careful consideration of the country's needs during the past four days and then entered THE DAILY TAR HEEL-Carolina theatre platform contest which ended yesterday, with the result that Pete Ivey submitted the platform adjudged the best by the contest committee.

"If I am elected president, I promise to make bread lines into cake lines, runs on banks will be slowed to a walk, and there will be six legs to every chicken, eight breasts, fourteen gizzards, and no wings and necks," was Ivey's contribution.

This contest was sponsored jointly by THE DAILY TAR HEEL and the Carolina theatre in connection with the showing of "The Phantom President" at the local theatre today.

Second prize goes to Carl Thompson who presented the platform, "The erection of clubhouses for 'forgotten men' and 'unknown soldiers' to meet in." And as a second plank in his platform he proposes, "More beef and less bull."

"Windshield wipers for spectacles on rainy days," receives the third prize. This was presented by R. C. Page.

Other students winning prizes were A. J. Barachet, J. Spotswood Smith, and Tom Hicks.

The persons whose platforms received one of the first three places, will be awarded three guest tickets to the Carolina theatre, and the next three winning platforms will merit two guest tickets each. These may be received from the editor this afternoon in the office of the publication at 1:30 o'clock.

SOPHOMORES WILL ELECT DANCE LEADERS TONIGHT

The election of five dance leaders for the sophomore hop will take place tonight at 7:00 o'clock in Memorial hall. All nominations for leaders will be made and a written vote taken, the five polling the largest number of votes receiving the positions. Other important business will be attended to at the meeting.

Business Staff to Meet

There will be a meeting of the Buccaneer business staff at 7:00 o'clock tonight in the offices of the publication.

LATEST ISSUE OF PLAY-BOOK TELLS OF FOREST DRAMA

Playmaker Publication, National Read Magazine on Playwriting, Is Off Press.

The September number of the Carolina Play-Book, quarterly periodical of the Carolina Playmakers and the state-wide Carolina dramatic association, is just off the press. Professor F. H. Koch, director of the Playmakers, is editor of the Play-Book; Archibald Henderson and Paul Green are advisory editors.

Each issue of this magazine contains a play which was written in Koch's playwriting class here and has been successfully produced. Lehigh university has ordered a complete file of back numbers of the Play-Book of which the September issue is number 3 of volume 5. Mrs. Sara W. Huntley, head of the English department of Bay Ridge high school, Brooklyn, N. Y., has also just ordered a complete set of back numbers. The Carolina Play-Book is on file in the largest libraries in the country and is also in the library of the British museum in London.

The Play-Book has a very imposing subscription list with copies going to twenty-eight states, from California to Massachusetts and also abroad to England, Hawaii, British West Indies, and to Germany.

The chief feature of this number of the Play-Book is the article "A Log-Cabin Theatre," in which Koch writes of the progress made by Genevieve Woodson in developing the innate artistry of the back-country people of North Carolina. Miss Woodson is the founder and director of the Log-Cabin theatre at Ebenezer Neighborhood in the densely forested section of Wake county, twenty-five miles east of Chapel Hill. A summary of this article appeared recently in The Christian Science Monitor.

Drive For Contributions To Loan Fund Keeps Many In University

Mrs. Jesse Kenan Wise and Anonymous Contributor Increase Fund With Large Gifts; Dean Bradshaw's Organizing Influence Has Distributed Funds on Campus.

Although fifty years elapsed before eighteen student loan funds were established at the University, that meagre number was increased by thirty-two from the spring of 1931 to the spring of the present year. This astounding rise in funds for needy University students is the most significant review of the results of the Emergency Student Loan Fund drive instituted last January.

From about $60,000 last May the fund has grown to the present figure of $109,000. Among the several contributions, which served to swell the total of funds to be used for needy students, are a donation of $10,000 from an anonymous contributor and a gift from Mrs. Jesse Kenan Wise of Wilmington, in the form of securities having a par value of $47,000.

At present, only the income from this gift, estimated by President Graham at about $2,000 annually, is available. When stock market conditions warrant the liquidation of the securities, the principal will also be placed at the disposal of the loan fund.

LIBRARY RECEIVES BIBLIOGRAPHICAL WORKS OF NOTE

$30,000 Grant Permits Purchase Which Will Make Library Outstanding in South.

Through the aid of a grant of $30,000 made by the General Education board last spring, the University library has made important additions to its collection of bibliographical works. The newly acquired works include card indices and catalogues of the leading libraries in this country and in foreign countries. Works of this type are considered essential for scholarly research. The library expects, through the benefits derived from the grant it received, to build up the fundamental tools for a graduate school in the field of bibliography which will be surpassed by few universities in the nation.

The library bibliographical material before this grant was the most extensive in the south, and it furnishes an excellent foundation for a collection of the kind which has been added. Despite this fact, however, the research work in the south has been greatly handicapped by the lack of bibliographical resources.

Among the materials which have already been purchased are included monumental sets of catalogues which will be useful in locating rare books in other principal libraries and in arranging for loans with other libraries.

New purchases this year will be divided into five classes: printed cards of libraries in America, catalogues of the national libraries of other nations, such as the British Museum, period indices, and subject bibliographies.

Wilmington Club to Meet

The Wilmington club, which met last week, will have its second meeting tonight in 209 Graham Memorial at 7:00 o'clock.

CO-ED DANCE PLAN NEAR COMPLETION

Women Students Asked to Get Bids Today and Tomorrow in "Y" and Graham Memorial Lounge.

The Woman's Association of the University is rapidly advancing plans for its fall dance which will be given tomorrow night between 9:00 and 1:00 o'clock in the Tin Can.

Efforts are now being made to secure an orchestra but no definite arrangements had been made yesterday.

The affair is one of the annual events of the University's social season.

Co-eds are asked to secure their bids in the reception room of Graham Memorial from 9:30 to 1:00 o'clock today and tomorrow and also between 2:00 and 5:00 tomorrow afternoon.

PHI INITIATES NINE MEN AT MEETING

Bill Concerning Change in New Football Rules Tabled Until Next Week's Gathering.

The Phi assembly initiated nine new men as representatives at its regular meeting last night. They were: D. W. Mozier, Englewood, N. J.; S. A. Douglas, Greensboro; Simmons Patterson, New Bern; William Houston, Goldsboro; John F. Butler, Washington, D. C.; Winthrop Durfee, Hadlyne, Conn.; T. S. Rubin, Cola, S. C.; E. V. Holly, New Rochelle, N. Y.; and Guion Lee, Grantsboro, N. C.

After the initiation ceremony was completed, the assembly started discussion on the bill concerning the new football rules. Leonard Hutchison, S. A. Douglas, and Emmett Willis spoke in favor of abolishing the new changes in the rules, and Red Rankin and Roy McMillan defended the rules.

The bill was tabled for discussion at the next meeting along with two other resolutions. They are: "Resolved: That the Phi Assembly go on record as endorsing the recent consolidation of the state-owned institutions of higher learning into a greater University of North Carolina," and "Resolved: That property of churches should be taxed the same as any other property and that the sons of ministers should be compelled to pay tuition at the University."

PROMINENT CHILDREN WORKERS VISIT HERE

Misses Ann Whitney of New York, director of the American Child Health association; Mildred English, assistant superintendent of Raleigh schools; Ann Holford, supervisor of Wake county schools; and Nellie Brogden, supervisor of Guilford county schools, are guests today at the cottage of Misses Sallie Marks and Nora Beust, both of the school of education.

Miss Whitney will meet informally with a group of parents at 8:00 o'clock at the Carolina Inn to discuss child health.

MISS BEUST COMPILES LIST OF CHILD'S BOOKS

Miss Nora Beust of the school of library science has compiled a list of 100 Best Books for the Child's Own Library for the Journal of the National Education Association. This list was compiled at the request of Mrs. Joy E. Morgan, editor of the Journal, and will appear in a future issue of the magazine.

UNIVERSITY WILL COOPERATE WITH YALE IN RESEARCH

D. J. Brawley Hired to Study Lead Storage Cells for Use in U. S. Navy Submarines.

According to a co-operative agreement with the naval research laboratory of the Navy department at Washington, the University of North Carolina in conjunction with Yale university has been selected to carry out studies relating to lead storage cells and their use in submarines. All undersea movement of submarines is effected from power from storage batteries and most submarine disasters are due to explosions from battery gases. To attempt to remove the causes of these explosions is the main aim of the work.

Part of the theoretical study, which is of importance in the fundamental knowledge of the lead storage cells in general is being carried out in co-operation with Yale university. The University will confine its work to solubility studies on lead peroxide and lead sulphate in sulphuric acid solutions.

Full Time Assistant

The agreement enables the University to employ a full time assistant to carry on most of the

Graham Memorial Banquet Hall Is Scene of First Dance of Proposed Series.

The first of a series of informal dances will be given tonight in the banquet hall of Graham Memorial between 7:00 and 8:00 o'clock. This dance will be under the direction of the Union Forum. Jack Wardlaw and his band will furnish the music for the occasion. Everyone on the campus is welcome and no admission will be charged.

If the dances prove to be popular with the students they will become a weekly event, being sponsored each week by a different organization on the campus. Special entertainment features are being planned in connection with the dances.

The idea of these weekly informal dances originated with the Union Forum last spring, but this is the first opportunity for testing out the idea. The purpose of the idea is to better acquaint the students with one another and bring about a closer unity among the student body.

Redheads Will Meet Friday To Organize

All red-headed students in the University that might be interested in forming a redhead club are urged to be present at a meeting scheduled for Gerrard hall Friday at 7:00 o'clock. The movement is being backed by Red Rankin. As there are a great number of redheads registered in the University this year such a club is a great opportunity for a general "get-together" for boys and girls whose heads are adorned with titian locks.

There was a club of redheads formed at the University last year and received such fame as to be mentioned in College Humor as a collegiate oddity.
