HUGE EFFORT TO AID SPIRIT TO BE LAUNCHED TODAY

Local Cheerleaders Plan to Compete With Pep Meetings Taking Place at Duke.

Carolina will by far surpass the mammoth cheering effort launched this week by Duke for the Duke-Carolina game Saturday if the plans carefully worked out by Ernest Hunt and Henry Betts, chief cheerleaders, fulfill their expectations.

The local cheerleaders are putting forth a supreme effort to bolster up cheering to compete with Duke, which has outlined a full program in preparation for the game.

An account in a Durham paper gives the following plans for Duke cheering: "Duke students plan their biggest pep-meeting in years on Friday night. The Chronicle, student newspaper, will come out with a special edition, a huge bonfire is planned, and the band will be on hand with the cheerleaders to limber up a few larynges. And on Saturday with the students gone enmasse to Chapel Hill the university campus will look like the original Deserted Village."

Cheerio Practice Tonight

Cheerio practice has been set for tonight in Memorial hall so that the student body can get their lungs and yells in shape for the contest Saturday.

"We want to see every Carolina man at Memorial hall at 7:30 tonight to complete our organization for the most important game of the year," Hunt said yesterday.

TROPHY WILL BE GIVEN TO WINNER OF DUKE CONTEST

Silver Goal Posts Presented as Emblem of Friendship Between Two Schools.

The Duke-Carolina friendship trophy will again be awarded this year, in an effort to cement friendly relations between the two schools. This trophy will be presented by the captain of the losing team to the captain of the winner in the middle of the field at the end of the game. This ceremony will be accompanied by the playing of the winner's alma mater by the bands.

First Awarded in 1930

This trophy, which is an annual award, was first given in 1930. In that year, representatives from the student organizations of the two schools met and passed out resolutions to establish better relations in all activities. Out of this developed the idea of some tangible expression of friendly rivalry and this trophy was purchased.

Since the Duke-Carolina games for the past two years have resulted in scoreless ties, neither team has won the trophy. However, it is at present in the possession of Duke, since it was the visiting team the first year it was presented. It will remain in the possession of the winning team only until the next game is played and there will be no permanent possession of the award by either school.

The trophy consists of two silver goalposts mounted on a black base. The dates and names of the winning teams are engraved on it each year.
