

RED CROSS WILL CLOSE CAMPAIGN TOMORROW NIGHT

Nearly 500 New Members Obtained and Over $600 Has Been Contributed.

With reports from Carrboro and the student body still missing, Colonel Joseph Hyde Pratt reports that nearly 500 new members of the Red Cross have been secured in Chapel Hill. Total contributions from townspeople thus far have been in excess of $600.

Colonel Pratt, who is at the head of the local organization, gave his report with a marked note of optimism. The regular campaign, begun on Armistice Day, is slated to end tomorrow night. The goal of the organization is to secure 750 members and $1,000 in contributions.

Large Returns Expected

Gratifying returns are expected to come in from the student body. Irving Boyle, president of the interfraternity council, has charge of collections from fraternity men; Bill Medford, is at the head of the campaign in the different dormitories; and Elizabeth Moore has charge of the two sororities and Spencer hall. Any students desiring to make contributions to the Red Cross coffers may communicate with the aforementioned.

Colonel Pratt addressed the grammar school students of Carrboro yesterday on the Junior Red Cross; and he is expecting the fund to be considerably augmented from this source. The remainder of Carrboro has not been heard from as yet, but the head of the local chapter reports that unofficial returns show Carrboro with a large percentage of enrolled compared with the population of the village.

ADULT EDUCATION CLASSES FORMED IN MANY TOWNS

Fall Classes Organized by Extension Division With Thirteen Subjects Offered.

Extension classes in adult education have been organized this fall quarter by the extension division of the University in twenty-seven communities of North Carolina, according to a report issued by R. M. Gruman, director. Ten instructors have been employed in the work, teaching 534 students in thirteen subjects. There have been approximately 900 course registrations. This is slightly more than the total of last year.

Regular Courses Taught

All courses taught through the extension division are identical with courses given here in the University. The following subjects have been administered: dancing and pageantry, health and physical education, elementary education—the social sciences, general science, teaching pupils how to study, ancient history, introductory course in school administration, Victorian literature, child study and development, social policy and education, guidance and administration of public school pupils, sight singing and ear training, public school music methods.

Classes of extension work have been organized in twenty-seven communities.

Will Sing At Duke

Pictured above is Doris Kenyon, famous motion picture actress, who will present a return engagement program of songs and costumes, next Monday evening in Durham, as a part of the Duke University concert series.

CINEMA STAR TO APPEAR ON DUKE CONCERT SERIES

Doris Kenyon, Famous Actress, To Present Recital for Second Time at Duke.

With the appearance of Doris Kenyon, famous motion picture star, in a program of songs and costumes, the Duke University concert series will get under way Monday evening, November 28. Miss Kenyon won a tremendous success at Duke last year and is making a return engagement.

Wednesday following her appearance here she will give a similar program at the Penn athletic club, in Philadelphia, which is presenting the identical series which is on the Duke schedule. Miss Kenyon will have an entirely new group of songs and beautiful costumes gathered from many parts of the world.

Claibert and D'Arkor

Those who heard Madame Clare Claibert, the beautiful Belgian coloratura soprano last season at Duke, will hear her again on Friday, December 16, in a program in which she will appear with Andre D'Arkor, leading tenor of the Brussels opera.

Incidentally, Claibert and D'Arkor will come directly to Durham from New York. Another direct-from-New York attraction in the Duke series will be the Gluck-Sandor Felicia Sorel ballet company, who are leaving that city for the first time after more than 150 consecutive performances to give a program at Duke Friday, January 6. This company is regarded as the only true American ballet. Gluck-Sandor is the teacher of the Earl Carroll "Vanities" dancers.

Other Attractions

Largest of the Duke series groups will be the National Woman's symphony orchestra, led by Ethel Leginska, conductor and soloist, which will play Tuesday evening, January 24. There are nearly 100 pieces in the orchestra, and each player is of soloist ability.

Gieseking, the celebrated German pianist, will be the last artist appearing in the series, Monday February 13. By many he is regarded as the world's greatest pianist actively engaged in concert work, and, still young, is in his prime.

More than 500 season tickets have been sold for the series and the sale of single tickets begins Monday.

EFFORT TOWARD HOMOGENEITY IN THEATRE BEGUN

Koch to Direct Spanning of Distance Between New York Theatre and Theatre Throughout Nation.

The National Theatre conference, as "a gesture in the direction of wiping out that sense of distance and aloneness which adds so much to the difficulty of those working actively in the theatre away from New York," has chosen Professor Frederick H. Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers, as regional director of the southeastern division.

Theatres in the southeastern division include those in North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Alabama, Mississippi, Maryland and Virginia.

The National Theatre conference is the outgrowth of a meeting of the National Drama conference last February, conducted under the auspices of the Carnegie foundation. It was formed as a co-operative membership organization purposing to "serve collectively the interests of the American theatre" and was "organized as a medium for the exchange of ideas and of collective service between the leading organized theatres of all kinds throughout the country."

Executives' Photos

Pictures of the Executive Committee of Sophomore Class Will Be Taken This Morning.

The executive committees of the sophomore and junior classes are requested to meet in room 214 of Graham Memorial this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in order that a group picture of each committee may be taken for the Yackety Yack.

The following committeemen will be in the picture: J. D. Winslow, Garwin May, Foster Thorpe, Chapin Litten, C. R. Faucette, Will Sadler, H. K. Bennett, C. S. McIntosh, Richard Somers, Abbott Dibblee, Jim Lothian, Bob Blount, H. C. Bridgers, Reed Devane, and Stanley Pattishal, of the sophomore committee; and L. P. Tyree, Cornelius Bretsch, John Leak, John Barrow, Nat Townsend, Ed Michaels, Tom Broughton, Bernard Solomon, Julian Frankel, Brodie Nalle, Stokes Adderton, Paul Hiller, Ike Minor, and Jack Hammer, of the junior class.

Those to be in the picture are asked to wear dark suits.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES PLANNED BY Y. M. C. A.

The second annual Thanksgiving service of the campus Young Men's Christian Association will occur tomorrow morning at 7:15 o'clock in Kenan stadium.

Reverend Ronald Tamblin of the Chapel Hill Presbyterian church will address the group. Another feature of the gathering will be several renditions by the "Y" quartet.

At last year's observance of the day, R. B. House, executive secretary of the University, was the speaker.

TAR HEEL WILL SUSPEND WORK DURING HOLIDAYS

Following its usual custom, THE DAILY TAR HEEL will suspend publication for Thanksgiving vacation with tomorrow's issue.

Work will be resumed Monday and the first issue after the holidays will appear Tuesday. All city editors, desk men and reporters will come to the office Monday for assignments.

GRAHAM FAVORS INTERCHANGE OF WORK WITH DUKE

President Visualizes Great Educational Center by Cooperation Between Duke and Carolina.

At the assembly period yesterday President Graham addressed the freshmen and sophomores in Memorial hall. He expressed an opinion that by the co-operation of the University of North Carolina and Duke University one of the great spiritual and educational centers of the world might be established in North Carolina. This might be accomplished by exchanging courses, professors, and material and books from the two best libraries in this section.

He said that new society could be built by careful planning. "We have," he said, "drifted into this depression because we have had no economic plan. Several of the larger New England interests are even now carefully planning for the progress of New England and we must follow them."

President Graham concluded by saying that we were the generation to build a fairer, greater and more progressive world, and urged that we plan our courses so we would be able to take our part in the affairs of the world.

Last Pep Meeting

Students Planning to Go to Charlottesville Are Asked to Meet Tonight For Final Instructions.

There will be an important pep meeting in Memorial hall tonight at 7:00 o'clock, in preparation for the Virginia game.

Day coach transportation for all who wish to make the trip to Charlottesville has been arranged, and the cheer leaders have expressed the desire that at least 150 students take advantage of this opportunity to help the school at Charlottesville.

Those who wish to make the trip are asked to be present at this meeting for last minute instructions.

The price for the round trip is $3.77.

SENIOR CLASS INVITATION COMMITTEE ANNOUNCED

Headed by Percy Idol as chairman, the senior class invitation committee announced yesterday by A. S. Cate, president of the senior class, is composed of Dan Kelly and Wilmer Hines. The committee will meet to arrange for the printing of invitations for commencement next spring. Two types will be made, one leather-bound and one cardboard-bound for the seniors to send out to their guests for the graduation exercises.

The first meeting of the committee is scheduled tonight at 6:45 o'clock in Graham Memorial.

Bowling Alleys Are Now Open for Student Patronage

The new bowling alleys in Graham Memorial will be unofficially opened today. The price will be ten cents for each person in a game. This will include nine boxes with three balls for each person a box and the playing off of strikes and spares made in the ninth box.

The new alleys are sixty feet long and highly varnished, and the pins have rubber cushions around them to prevent them from being knocked very high in the air and endangering the pin boys.

Betsey Farrar Will Read At Bull's Head

Miss Betsey Farrar will read from The Golden Tales of Anatole France at the Bull's Head this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Readings were a regular feature of the old Bull's Head when the shop was located in Murphey hall. They were started again this year during the summer session, and proved so enjoyable that they have been continued throughout the fall.

Miss Farrar, who is spending the winter in Chapel Hill with her family, is a former Playmaker. Since her appearance on the boards here she has been in the cast of several New York productions including, The Lady With the Lamp, Sophocles' Electra with Blanche Yurka, and has been a member of the staff of the Neighborhood playhouse.

ORGANIZATION TO INSTRUCT NEWLY CHOSEN OFFICERS

Government Institute Will Arrange Conferences Between Old and New Officials.

Presidents of over a score of groups of county governmental officers in North Carolina joined together last week in one of the most unique public statements in the history of this state.

Realizing that a third or more of the newly elected officials in North Carolina will go into office December 5 to deal with problems with which they have had little previous experience, heads of the twenty-one units of the recently organized Institute of Government have decided to arrange several conferences to instruct the incoming leaders.

Conferences Arranged

Joint conferences between all incoming and outgoing officers prior to the induction of new officials; joint conferences between city aldermen, county commissioners, and state legislators prior to the convening of the General Assembly; and joint meetings of public officers and private citizens in the 100 counties Monday evening, December 5, to launch a far-reaching program of popular governmental education in connection with the first public installation of local officials ever held in North Carolina, in the presence of the rank and file of the people who elected them, are the three activities proposed by the Institute.

A petition to this effect has been signed by all of the leaders of the various governmental groups in the Institute, including Kemp P. Battle of Rocky Mount, president of the state bar association, and A. H. Graham of Hillsboro, Lieutenant-Governor elect of North Carolina.

KING VIDOR STUDYING IN LIBRARY AT DUKE

King Vidor, the celebrated motion picture director, played hookey to see the Carolina-Duke football contest last Saturday when he took time out for his research to see the game.

Vidor has taken a room in the Duke student union and is making that his temporary headquarters, although he is visiting Lawrence Stallings, prominent author, at his home in Reidsville.

The director is spending a great deal of time in the Duke library searching out facts and data for use in a new picture he is directing.

RESEARCH WORK TO BE CONTINUED BY TEXTILE BODY

University Selected by Textile Foundation for Research in Disposal of Wastes.

The University was selected by the Textile Foundation of Washington, the trade organization of the entire textile industry of the country, last Thursday for special research on the disposal and recovery of wastes resulting from the manufacture of various textile goods, according to H. G. Baity, dean of the engineering school, who is directing the research.

The arrangement which has been made with the Textile Foundation includes the institution of a fellowship which has been awarded to M. S. Campbell, who received his master's degree in sanitary engineering here last year. The arrangement authorizes the establishment of experimental plants in this state to study the matter, and it is this phase of work which is now being carried on. The University, as its part of the agreement, contributes its facilities and the direction of the research, which will be done by Dean Baity and Professor H. N. Jenks. Professor Thorndike Saville, who left the University last year, was also largely instrumental in arranging the matter.

Research Work

The research work will be a continuation of a study which has been carried on here for the past four years. The work already accomplished includes the study of wastes themselves and amounts resulting from various processes. More recently the study has been confined to the methods of treatment of wastes to render them safe for disposal.
