

UNIVERSITY ASKS FOR INCREASE IN BUDGET FOR YEAR

$1,371,771 Is Amount Asked for Greater University; Increase of $378,000.

Requests for appropriations totalling $1,371,771 for the three units of the Greater University of North Carolina were made yesterday by the advisory budget committee for the fiscal year 1933-34. This is approximately $378,000 more than the allotment of $993,210 which the three schools were to receive from the budget bureau to operate on this fiscal year, but about $77,000 less than the $1,448,800 which the 1931 General Assembly has appropriated for 1932-33.

The 1933 General Assembly will make only one general appropriation for the merged school. Separate budget requests were made for each of the three units—the Chapel Hill unit, State College in Raleigh, and the Woman's College in Greensboro.

Graham Presents Budget
Dr. Frank P. Graham, recently elected president of the consolidated institution, made the request for the Chapel Hill unit. He asked for $691,924 compared to the $504,900 allotted for this year and the $721,000 which had been appropriated by the 1931 legislature. An increase of approximately $187,000 in personnel cost was asked.

Dr. E. C. Brooks made the request for the State College branch. He presented a budget asking for $311,847. Dr. J. I. Foust, head of the Woman's College, presented a budget calling for an appropriation of $360,000.

SCOUT HEADS IN STATE MEET FOR ANNUAL SEMINAR

R. B. House Delivers Principal Address at Opening Luncheon of Executive Group.

Opening yesterday with a luncheon meeting at which R. B. House, executive secretary of the University, was the principal speaker, the Boy Scout Regional Executive Seminar began its three-day session here. The fifteen Boy Scout executives of this state are present at these meetings to hear many well known speakers, including several prominent University professors.

At the meetings yesterday in addition to that of Dr. Graham, the executives heard addresses by Kenneth G. Bentz of Atlanta, regional executive; Professor Frederick H. Koch of the University faculty; and Reverend Douglas Rights.

Full Day of Meetings

A full day of meetings has been scheduled for today during which addresses will be made by L. D. Harrill, 4-H club leader, Dr. Harry F. Crane, Dr. Ernest R. Groves, Dr. Charles W. Mangum and Dr. S. H. Hobbs, Jr. At a banquet tonight at 7:00 o'clock, Harry F. Comer will be the principal speaker, and following this Bentz will make the second in his series of addresses on "Organization and Administration."

One of the features of today's program will be an initiation of several honorary members into

DAILY TAR HEEL CONTINUES VOTE

Student Straw Vote For Successor to President Graham Will Continue Until Saturday Night.

THE DAILY TAR HEEL'S straw vote on the student choice for a successor to President Frank P. Graham to head the University here will enter its third day with student balloting this morning.

The straw vote, which began Wednesday and will last until tomorrow night, is an attempt of the TAR HEEL to register student opinion as to who should be vice-president of the Greater University of North Carolina.

Ballotting in the contest will continue until Saturday night when the votes will be counted and the results will be released Sunday.

COMER TO SPEAK FOR 'Y' MEETING IN COLUMBIA, S. C.

Delegates from Friendship Council and Hi-Y Club Leave for Older Boys' Conference.

Harry F. Comer, general secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., Marcus Lynch, representing the freshman friendship council, and Don McKee of the Chapel Hill Hi-Y club, leave this morning for Columbia, S. C., to attend the second annual inter-state Older Boys' Conference of the Carolinas which will take place today, tomorrow, and Sunday. Comer will be one of the principal speakers during the sessions.

This gathering is sponsored by the interstate committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the Carolinas, and has for its theme: "Facing Life." The opening session will begin tonight at 7:30 o'clock following registration this afternoon.

Moseley Faison of Rocky Mount will preside over the congress. Comer's address, "Facing Life," will be given tonight after the regular business of the conference has been transacted.

Discussions Planned

A meeting of the discussion leaders will take place tomorrow morning under the direction of Comer, preceding the election of officers. Short talks by many prominent Y. M. C. A. leaders throughout the two states will be given later and discussions on various subjects relative to school and economic problems will take place. Delegates will attend the South Carolina-Auburn game tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. Henry N. Snyder, president of Wofford College, will speak at the conference banquet tomorrow night. Plans for next year will be made Sunday morning.

Boy Scout Executives To Talk At Assembly

At the freshman assembly today the fifteen Boy Scout executives from the state of North Carolina will conduct the program. These executives are in Chapel Hill to attend the Boy Scout regional executive seminar which is in session at the University today and tomorrow.

The main speech of the period will be made by Regional Executive Kenneth G. Bentz of Atlanta who is also to address the executives in their sessions. Others on the program will be Executive Steer of Charlotte who will read the Scout oath and Executive Shield of Gastonia who will read the Scout law.

Students Crowded Post Office For Mail In Years Before 1923

Prior to 1923, Chapel Hill Had No City Delivery of Mail, and Students Had to Call at Post Office to Get Mail; Local Post Office Has First Class Rating.

A pushing, shoving mass of students and townspeople in front of the post office on Franklin street caused no sensation in the early twenties. This scene of crushed humanity exemplified the custom, now long departed, of calling for the daily mail. Before 1923, mail was not delivered to the dormitories and had to be called for at the boxes in the lobby.

Just as one of the daily rites of the present generation of students is to frequent the vicinity of the drugstores downtown, so one unalterable custom then was to call at the postoffice for mail. It was looked upon as wholly natural, once each day to make, oneself part of a long queue that endeavored to squeeze into a post office already crowded to capacity.

Steady Flow of People

When the idea of going to town and calling for mail occurred to most people at the same time, it can be readily understood that the crowds in front of the stucco building on Franklin street were not of inconsiderable size. From eight in the morning till five in the evening there was a constant line stretching from the doors of the post office to the corner of Franklin and Henderson streets. After one in the afternoon the line was so swelled by additions that it had to double back on itself to prevent blocking the highway to all traffic.

In November 1923, city delivery was inaugurated. It was about this time that the dormitories on the upper quadrangle were opened for occupancy. With the increase in size of the University the mail delivery situation might have become very embarrassing, resembling somewhat the frantic crowds that line up before the registrar's office at the beginning of every quarter to secure grade reports. But city delivery was begun, and the University provided boxes for all the dormitories.

A throw-back to the time when every one had to call for mail is evidenced by the fact that a number of the townspeople and fraternities that live outside the city limits do not have mail delivered to them.

Post Office Rates High

The post office received first class rating in 1926. Most towns of Chapel Hill's size boast of no more than third class offices. The type of mail that helps swell the total is varied. The University extension bureau sends and receives more material than any single agency on the campus. An extraordinary amount of postal cards pass through the post office, coming for the most part from the business office, the various deans, the library, and the students, who instead of writing letters, often effect a saving by sending postal cards. The number of packages marked "perishable" is extremely large, more than double the amount of this type of mail coming into Chapel Hill than into towns of similar size.

Jack Wardlaw has been also engaged for this dance which is scheduled to last from 9:00 o'clock until midnight.

COMMUNITY CLUB PLANS MEETINGS FOR THIS MONTH

Dr. A. P. Hudson and Dr. Raymond Adams of University To Speak for Group.

The program of the Chapel Hill Community club for December will begin with a general meeting today in the Episcopal parish house at 3:30 o'clock and will be conducted by the educational department. Today's program will be headed by a talk by Professor Raymond Adams, of the University English department, on "Thoreau and Adult Education."

An extensive program has been arranged for the remainder of the month. On Wednesday, December 7, the educational department will meet at the parish house at 3:30. The American home department will have a meeting at the same hour December 9, for the display and discussion of inexpensive home-made Christmas gifts. The health department meets at 3:30 December 13.

Hudson to Speak

Professor A. P. Hudson, of the University English department, will discuss "A Mississippi Folk Tale" at a meeting of the literature department December 13 at 8:00 o'clock in the parish house. The civics department meets December 14 at the same time.

The final meeting of the month will be that of the music department in Hill Music hall December 14 at 8:00 o'clock. A choral program will be conducted by Professor Dyer. The art department will not have another meeting before the holidays.

Dr. E. E. Ericson Heads University Professors

Dr. E. E. Ericson of the University English department was elected president of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors at its last meeting held early this week. Dr. A. C. Howell, also of the English department, was chosen secretary of the organization.

As delegate to the national convention scheduled to take place at Yale University in New Haven during the Christmas holidays, Dr. John Manning Booker was designated.

The local group numbers sixty-two professors, while the national organization has an enrollment of several thousand.

Newly-Formed Group Will Be Directed by Lamar Stringfield and Percy Grainger.

12 TOWNS REPRESENTED

Initial Concert of Orchestra Presented Before Durham Audience Last Night.

The North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, which scored a hit in its first concert this season in Durham last night, will give its second performance in a varied program here tonight in Memorial hall at 8:30 o'clock.

The concert tonight will be under the auspices of the Student Entertainment Committee.

The concert tonight will include classics as well as modern music, the first part of the program being the Marriage of Figaro Overture by Mozart and the Peer Gynt Suite No. 1 by Grieg. The second part will consist of Percy Grainger selections, some of them played, some of them conducted by the composer, and of the Legend of John Henry, Lamar Stringfield's new symphonic work. This composition is being presented tonight for the first time.

All students will be admitted to the concert for half price whether they have a student entertainment book or not. Reserved seats can be obtained at the Y. M. C. A.

Personnel of Orchestra
The personnel of the orchestra, which will include talented musicians from twelve towns in the state, will be composed of the following.

Violins: Earl W. Wolslagel, Asheville; Mrs. Jess Alderman, Greensboro; A. E. Fidler, High

MARY D. WRIGHT DEBATE PLANNED FOR THIS EVENING

Annual Debate Between Literary Societies Scheduled Tonight At 7:30 O'clock.

The annual Mary D. Wright debate will take place tonight in Gerrard hall at 7:30 o'clock. The subject to be debated is Resolved: That the nations of the world should disarm all forces not needed for police purposes.

The Dialectic senate will take the affirmative, and will have as their speakers Bill Eddleman of Gastonia, and E. R. Oettinger of Wilson. Speaking for the Phi assembly on the negative side will be C. W. Griffin of Williamson, and L. H. Fountain of Tarboro. The debate will last one hour.

The best speaker on the winning team will be awarded the Mary D. Wright memorial gold medal, given each year by P. E. Wright of Landis.

The medal was won last year by Edwin Lanier of the Phi assembly, debating on the question of abolishing the extra tuition fee for out-of-state students in the University.

Playmaker Tickets

A special price is being made on season tickets to the Playmaker productions, according to announcements made yesterday. The remaining five presentations may be seen for $1.75. There are about one hundred season tickets available at this new price.
