

FORMER CHILEAN PRESIDENT WILL LECTURE TONIGHT

Dr. Charles D. Davila Will Speak Here Before Audience From Duke and University.

Arriving in Chapel Hill this morning, Dr. Charles G. Davila, ex-president of Chile and visiting Carnegie professor, will lecture before invited members of the combined faculties and student bodies of Duke and the University in Gerrard hall tonight at 8:00 o'clock. Dr. Davila is here in Chapel Hill for about a week and during that time will hold a seminar on the subject of inter-American affairs.

The purpose of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, which is sponsoring Dr. Davila's trip here, is to strengthen the bonds of understanding between different countries by the establishment of professorships which will provide funds for the visits and lectures of eminent men to various universities and colleges.

Served as Ambassador During President Ibanez' term of office Dr. Davila was ambassador of Chile to the United States until the revolution of 1931. Realizing the grave condition his country was in as a result of the depression, Dr. Davila effected a coup d'etat and was made president of the country last June. Remaining in office three months Dr. Davila returned to the United States where he has taken up residence.

Dr. Davila among other honors has received degrees from the University of Southern California and Columbia. The experienced and one-time ambassador is an outstanding advocate of economic co-operation between Chile and the United States.

Rumor False

At a late hour last night the Daily Tar Heel was unable to substantiate any rumor to the effect that a Carolina student had died of throat infection in a Durham hospital. Checking with Durham newspapers and the McPherson hospital, it was revealed that A. B. Boynton, removed there last week for observation, was "improving," according to hospital attaches.

EXTENSION HEAD TELLS FUNCTIONS OF DEPARTMENT

R. M. Grumman Speaks of Activities of Extension Division in Chapel Program.

Russell M. Grumman, director of the extension division of the University, spoke at the work of the extension bureaus in chapel yesterday morning, emphasizing the correspondence courses open to students who may be unable to remain at the University next quarter.

The purpose of the extension division, as stated by Grumman, is to extend the work of the various schools of the University throughout the state and to place the courses in higher education in reach of those who are unable to enter or continue college.

Large Number Enrolled

More than 1,000 students are enrolled in the correspondence classes this year, according to Grumman, some of them residing in other states and in a few foreign countries. Another feature of the division mentioned is the extension library service, which sends reading courses and study outlines to correspondence students.

In addition to these services, staff members of the division are always available for lecture courses anywhere in the state.

Among the activities which will be sponsored by the extension division this year are the tenth annual dramatic festival, to be held next spring; the twenty-first annual state high school debating contest, to be held here next spring; and several athletic activities.

Philological Club To Meet This Evening

The Philological club will conduct its regular monthly meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the lounge of the Graduate club. Dr. N. B. Adams, of the Romance language department, will read a paper on "Notes on Plays in Madrid in the 1830's." Dr. W. J. Wiley, also of the Romance language department, will speak on "The Sixteenth Century French of Ovid's Arts Amatoria."

The object of the club is to stimulate original investigation in language and literature and to afford an opportunity for the interchange of views on subjects relating to such work. At each meeting papers are read and discussed.

NELSON FUNERAL RITES CONDUCTED

Haywood Weeks and Frank Rogers Attended as Official Representatives of the University.

The funeral services for Joseph H. Nelson, Jr., freshman in the liberal arts school, who died suddenly last Friday morning in the school infirmary after having been sick for three days with an infected throat, were conducted in the Centenary Methodist church in New Bern Sunday afternoon.

Frank Rogers, president of the freshman class, and Haywood Weeks, president of the student body attended as official representatives of the University. William McG. Parker, sophomore; and Al Newbury, freshman, who live in New Bern, were among those who acted as pallbearers. Glen Best, a close friend of the Nelson family, also attended the funeral.

Flowers were sent by the student body and freshman class.

WOOSLEY ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT OF ECONOMICS GROUP

Southeastern Economics Association Announces Election of Dr. Woosley to Important Post.

Dr. John B. Woosley of the department of economics and commerce has been notified of his election as vice-president of the Southeastern Economics Association for the year 1932-33. Dr. Woosley will be in charge of the program for the session of the association which will meet next fall in Atlanta.

Other officers of the association are: president, Dean J. B. Trant of Louisiana State University; secretary, Professor M. G. Evans of Emory University; treasurer, Dean R. B. Brooks of the University of Georgia; editor of publications, Professor M. H. Bryan of the University of Georgia; vice-president in charge of membership, Professor E. G. Hawk of Birmingham Southern College; vice-president in charge of research, Professor J. W. Martin of the University of Kentucky, and vice-president on the executive committee, Dean T. R. Snively of the University of Virginia.

Experimental Productions Prove Invaluable To Student Writers

Actual Staging of Plays Shows Young Playwrights' Defects in Their Work Which Goes Unnoticed in Script; Performing in Experimental Play Thought to Be an Adventure.

The curtain is rung down. There is a flurry and bustle in preparation for the next play. Participants are wildly confused. Many of the amateur actors are taking parts in several plays and have difficulty remembering which part they are to play next. A chair is tipped over with an alarmingly loud crash. Someone swears loudly. A nervous girl screams. The sets for various plays blend into a grand mixture of wood and paint. Directors run about, frantically seeking to quiet the crowd behind the scenes.

This is but a mild, hasty, kaleidoscopic view of the trying conditions under which experimental plays are produced by the Carolina Playmakers. The extremes of confusion which are reached when novice actors and directors offer their wares are describable in terms of the infernal.

DRAMA FESTIVAL PLANS ANNOUNCED

Carolina Dramatic Festival Will Conduct Its Twentieth Annual Contest This Spring.

Schools and communities in North Carolina desiring to enter original plays in the state-wide dramatic contest here next March should submit them before December 20, it has been announced by Mrs. Irene Fusler, secretary of the Carolina Dramatic Association.

Registration for production contests in the tournament should be in the office of the Carolina Dramatic Association by next January 16.

Churches which are interested in entering religious plays should send a notification of the play they wish to present as soon as possible. Rules and regulations concerning the drama festival will be sent upon request. Only one-act plays which last no more than forty minutes are acceptable.

NEW COURSES TO BE TAUGHT HERE SECOND QUARTER

Public Administration Course Under Dean Jackson Will Be Given This Winter.

A quartet of new courses will make their debut in the University curriculum for the winter quarter.

Public administration 101 will appear for the first time under Dean Jackson. This course is open to advanced undergraduates and graduates. Prerequisites are five courses in history, government, sociology, economics, or a bachelor's degree. It will meet five hours weekly.

Government 17, to be taught by Professor Robson, is the latest offspring of the already top heavy history department curriculum. This course is open to any freshman or sophomore. It will meet five times weekly.

French 55, formerly a course meeting three times weekly, has switched to a full five hour a week course.

Philosophy 62, which is slated to be an intensified study of Plato and Aristotle, will be taught for the first time by M. H. Williams.

COATES DIRECTS INSTALLATION OF STATE OFFICIALS

Men Are Conducted Into Office in Program Supervised by Government Institute.

The first of a series of formal public installations of local officials ever conducted in North Carolina took place throughout the state yesterday. These eventful programs were under the auspices of the Institute of Government, with Albert Coates, professor of law at the University, as the guiding hand.

Raleigh was the scene of the principal ceremony. Participating in the Raleigh program were Chief Justice W. P. Stacy of the North Carolina Supreme Court; Governor-elect J. C. B. Ehringhaus; Republican gubernatorial nominee Clifford Frazier of Greensboro; Kemp D. Battle of Rocky Mount, president of the North Carolina Bar association; Judge Junius G. Adams of Asheville, chairman of the organization committee; and Professor Albert Coates, director of the Institute of Government.

The Raleigh program, which got under way in the Wake county courthouse at 7:45 o'clock, was broadcasted by radio station WPTF to an audience estimated at more than 200,000.

Virtually all the state's 100 counties, Professor Coates has been informed, have arranged formal installation ceremonies for new officials. Some were yesterday morning, while others took place in the afternoon and evening. Justices of the Supreme Court and judges of Superior Courts, wherever they were available, will participate in administering the oaths.

Electrical Engineers Back From Convention

Fisher Black and John Hunter of the electrical department have returned from the American Institute of Electrical Engineers convention that was held in Knoxville last week. A number of papers pertaining to the problems of the A. I. E. E., was presented and discussed by the delegates.

Saturday morning was devoted to an inspection of several hydro-electric plants in and near Knoxville to enable the delegates to study the power plants in them.

The delegates attended a banquet and dance Friday night at the Hotel Farragut.

COMMITTEE WILL SUGGEST MAN TO SUCCEED GRAHAM

Committee of Board of Trustees Will Meet Monday to Recommend Vice-President.

The executive committee of the University Board of Trustees will meet in the office of President Frank Graham next Monday, to recommend a successor to President Graham to act in the capacity of vice-president of the Greater University of North Carolina in charge of the Chapel Hill branch. Faculty members and the president will be consulted.

A comptroller for the Greater University will also be recommended. The committee will present the names of the recommended candidates to the board in early January for approval and choice.

Three Vice-Presidents

Under the scheme of consolidation, there will be three vice-presidents in the Greater University, each of whom heads one division. Dr. E. C. Brooks was appointed head of State College, and Dr. Julius I. Foust was chosen vice-president in charge of Woman's College in Greensboro. President Graham's elevation to the presidency of the Greater University left the vacancy here.

A number of persons have been proposed for the post, but no great moves to promote candidates have been apparent. In the poll of THE DAILY TAR HEEL which ended Saturday, R. B. House, executive secretary of the University, was the choice of the campus for Graham's successor. However, several faculty members and several men who have left the University within the past three years have been suggested.

VACATION PERIOD TO BE EXTENDED ADDITIONAL DAY

Christmas Holidays Will End January 3, According to Announcement by Graham

Christmas holidays of this year have been extended one day so that the vacation period will end January 3, President Frank P. Graham announced yesterday.

Registration for juniors and seniors will commence December 12 and continue through December 17, while freshmen, sophomores, and new students will register January 3.

Original Schedule

The vacation was originally scheduled to end January 2 with the registration of new students and class work for the winter quarter. Following the change classwork will begin January 3. All registrations in the December 12-17 period will be made through the office of the dean of the school or college in which the student is entered.

All students are requested to take special notice of a more complete schedule for registration which will appear in an early issue of the DAILY TAR HEEL. This schedule runs in conflict with the slate published in the catalogue.

Phi Assembly to Meet

The Phi Assembly will elect its officers for the next quarter at 7:00 o'clock. No resolutions will be discussed.
